DORSEY ADE SAYS FRANK IS FAST IN NET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and ready for presentation in court at any time. Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorneys interested in the prosecution had investigated all of the facts of the case so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any defense that Frank will present, that practically nothing remained to be done until the case was called for trial. The departure of Solicitor Dorsey for an in-state vacation, he said, was an indication of the preparedness of the prosecution.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hooper. All of the stories and rumors which have run down to their original source, the defense, in his opinion, will be able to spring no surprise that has not been anticipated by the prosecution.

Mr. Frank Gives Interview. The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Frank, his wife and Leo M. Frank, his son, who were in the city. Mr. Frank had permitted himself to be interviewed since the coroner's jury a month ago recommended that the Grand Jury hold his husband for trial.

She broke her silence to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed. She made no plea for sympathy, but presented herself as fully reconciled to the process of the law, even though they temporarily separated her from the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars as a man accused of one of the most heinous crimes that she was able to bear the present belief because of the assurance of Frank's ultimate and complete vindication.

Why She Believes Husband. On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in his entire innocence. She said, in part: "In all the year and a half of our engagement, in the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, it was Leo's best gift and he was most kind and loving to me. I have never seen the people of my faith do those things in that way—with us, betrothal is all he has sacred as marriage itself, save when once a month he attended the meetings of the Jewish Order of B'nai B'rith, of which he was the president in Atlanta until he was arrested."

He Preferred Staying Home. She might have gone out on the evenings, perhaps with my knowledge, to places where she should not have gone so far as my free consent may have placed as a factor in his going. I never see it as a tragic circumstance that he has not elected to do. He seemed rather to prefer staying home with me. Naturally, that made

Beavers Seeks to Add Four Women To His Vice Squad

Women will be added to the vice squad if the recommendations of Chief Beavers, as made in his report to the police board on his meeting with the police chiefs in Washington, are adopted.

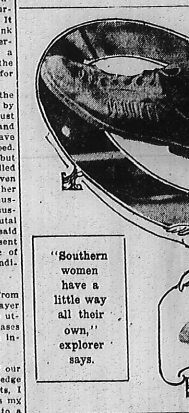

From the paper read by the Chief of Police of Los Angeles in regard to women detectives and the effect in that city, Chief Beavers is firmly convinced they would be of help here. The women—four in number—would be used to ferret out and report to the Chief the names of women and men who are engaged in the vice traffic in Atlanta, and in this way, the Chief believes, the department would be able to completely break up the business in this city.

Leading Citizens Urge Tracks on Ivy

Leading citizens called at the office of Mayor Woodruff Monday to protest against the proposed plan not to replace the trolley car tracks on Ivy Street. V. H. Krieshaber filed a formal protest as a property owner in which he urged that the tracks be put down on the regrettably street. Others in the party were Judge Spencer Atkinson, Logan Buckley, E. C. Peters and D. M. Williamson. They declared the change of route would be a great inconvenience to those using North Side cars.

Zoo Keeper to Raise Lion Cubs on Bottle

"Blackie" Boyd, the zoo keeper, took the two remaining in his home, and announced he would raise them on a bottle.

Wilson Will Read Message Urging His 'Hobbleless' Currency Reform Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—President Wilson will read his currency message to Congress in person, it was announced at the White House prior to the newspaper conference at which the President discussed the bill at length with the Washington correspondents. The President believes that his plan of personally picking before the national Legislature the views on important topics, such as currency and the tariff, insures greater attention and more marked interest from the country at large than did the former custom of sending messages to Congress and having them read by a clerk.

General Principles Are His. Therefore, as soon as the currency

DESPERADO, AT BAY UNDER HOUSE, FIRES UNTIL NEARLY DEAD

Patrolman Paul West Braves Death in Darkness to Club Slayer Insensible and Drag Him From Refuge-- Crowd Becomes Menacing.

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynching was averted only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and hurried the unconscious negro to the police station in an automobile.

Cries of "lynch him" were heard on every hand. The crowd was wild, excited and threatened that the negro as he was being taken from the scene. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry men away.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to ribbons. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched $1 from Jesse. Watson had been in the yard at one time threatening to take him from the officers.

DORSEY MADE SAYS FRANK IS FAST KINET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the prosecution of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and was ready for presentation in court at any time.

Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorney interested in the prosecution had investigated every angle of the mystery so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any defense that Frank will present, that practically nothing remained to be done until the case was called for trial. The departure of Solicitor Dorsey for a week's vacation, he said, was an indication of the preparedness of the prosecution.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hooper. All of the stories and rumors have been run down to their original source. The defense, in his opinion, will be unable to suggest any surprise that has not been anticipated by the prosecution.

Mrs. Frank Gives Interview.
The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Mrs. Frank, whose husband, Leo M. Frank, is under indictment charged with the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan. It was the first time that Mrs. Frank had permitted herself to be interviewed since the coroner's jury a month ago recommended that a grand jury hold her husband for trial.

She broke her silence to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable murder mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed. She made no plea for sympathy, but expressed herself as fully reconciled to the processes of the law, even though they temporarily separated her from the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars as a man suspected of one of the most heinous crimes thinkable. The loyal wife said that she was able to bear her belief because of the assurance of Frank's ultimate and complete vindication.

Why She Believes Husband.
On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in his innocence.

She said, in part: "In all the year and a half of our engagement, in the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, I was Leo's best girl and he was my one and only beau. If I went to a party, it was conceded that I should go with Leo, and if Leo went, he invariably went with me. You know, the people of my faith do those things in that way—with us, both of us, it is as sacred as marriage itself."

"Leo Frank and myself have been man and wife for two years and a half. I state it as a circumstance showing how sweet and mutually happy our home life has been, and not as a thing I should mention ordinarily, that during all the two and a half years of our wedded life, Leo and I have never once away from me at night, save when once a month he attended the meetings of the Jewish Order of B'nai B'rith, of which he was the president in Atlanta until he was arrested."

He preferred staying home, she said. "He might have gone out in the evenings, perhaps without my knowledge, to places he should not have gone, so far as my free consent may have desired as a factor in the going, I merely cite it as a faithful circumstance that he has not elected to do so."

She seemed rather to prefer staying home with me. Naturally, that made me very happy—for I am, after all, a woman, like other women, and a woman never gets to the point where she is not interested in her husband's movements.

Suicide's Last Wish Is That Flowers Be Put Upon His Grave

"Take good care of the baby and put a few flowers on my grave," M. Roy Fowler, 125 Hunnicutt Street, fell unconscious at his wife's feet Sunday afternoon with these words on his lips. Fowler had just swallowed a bottle of carbolic acid. He died a few minutes later in an ambulance going to Grady Hospital.

Fowler ran a butcher shop on East Hunter Street. Financial troubles, it is believed, caused him to end his life. He was an Odd Fellow and a Red Man and a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He was 48 years old. Surviving are Mrs. Fowler and the baby, three brothers, J. L. Fowler, W. A. Fowler and T. A. Fowler, and two sisters, Miss Nan Fowler and Mrs. L. A. Hudson.

The body will be taken at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning to Indian Creek Cemetery for burial.

Marshall Sees Rules For Life in Baseball

WASHINGTON, June 16.—The rising generation was directed to form its rules of life upon the rules of baseball by Vice President Marshall in a children's day address before the Dehany Chapel, Presbyterian Sunday school.

"No boy is so mean as the boy who will not play the game square," said the Vice President. "The sense of justice is ever present in the heart and mind of every boy and girl. I never have seen a thoroughly bad girl, but I believe I have seen one or two boys who were really bad."

Slays Man for $6 And Share in Still

GAINESVILLE, June 16.—Bartow Cantrell, in jail, has confessed to the murder of Arthur Hawkins near Bartow, Hall County, two weeks ago. He claimed that his brother, James Cantrell, offered him $5 and a half interest in his still to slay Hawkins. Mrs. Silvey Hawkins, wife of the murdered man, is in jail with her 18-month-old baby.

Man Running for Train Is Hit by an Engine; Dies in Hour

Carl Brown, 23 years old, of Stone Mountain, was struck by a switch engine of the Georgia Railroad early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died an hour later. He attempted to board a moving passenger train in the Atlanta yards.

C. B. Bishop, of Scottdale, Brown's companion, had boarded the train and turned on the coach steps to call to his friend.

Brown, running across the yards in the darkness, failed to see the approaching switch engine. He was struck by the engine's cowcatcher and hurled fifteen feet. He was picked up and unconscious and hurried to the plant hospital.

Brown and Bishop had been in Atlanta visiting young ladies. They overtook their time and had tried to make a short cut to the train.

Slim Figure, Birds In Cages, Paris Fads

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, June 16.—The slim figure for women was in its ascendancy at Chantilly race course yesterday and among the other things noted in the great fashionable parade were diaphanous waists, small hats, cane for women, golden shoe buckles, anklets and watches set thereon, embroidered skirts and coffers more appropriate for grand opera than outdoor gatherings.

Explorer Pauses on Lecture Tour to See Atlanta.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of polar fame, was in Atlanta Monday and Tuesday and his head over heels in love with you already, for he says so himself.

"They're simply good me," was the way the Doctor put it when seen in his room at the Hotel Arden Monday morning.

In fact, Dr. Cook says he's fallen in love with all the Southern girls because they're so charming—and the Doctor is by no means a bad authority for he is making a considerable tour of the Southland in the interest of what he terms a "fair play campaign" to show he discovered as much North Pole as Admiral Peary ever did.

"Southern women," said Dr. Cook, "have a little way all their own—I can't explain it, nor can I express it adequately—but it's true just as it is in other words, they form a type of woman that you don't find anywhere else on the earth."

"Atlanta is certainly an exception to his rule—in fact, I think they look even better here than elsewhere. They're simply good a fellow—that's all."

The Doctor, who was all smiles Monday morning, did not confine his compliments to Atlanta women, however. He took occasion also to say a good word for the Capital City, which he made headquarters Monday on route to Madison, Ga., where he will deliver a lecture Monday night.

Atlanta, he says, looks good to him—looks better than any Southern city he has seen thus far, for there is a "jean" here that makes things fine. Of course, being so infatuated with

Heat Is Fatal in North Middle West.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Several more days of intense heat are in prospect to-day, following a sizzling 24 hours. The entire north central part of the country was hot yesterday. Eight deaths were reported.

In Chicago the mercury reached 84. The same maximum was reported at St. Louis, Montgomery, Jacksonville, Kansas City and North Platte. That was 10 degrees hotter than the maximum for the day at New Orleans, and 2 degrees cooler than at Omaha, Des Moines and St. Paul.

The temperature at 3 o'clock this morning, 88, indicated that a new record for the season would be reached this afternoon.

Fear for Babies as Heat Makes Cleveland Record.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 16.—At 10 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 95, and indications pointed to the hottest June day in the history of the local weather bureau. Several were overcome by the heat and an epidemic of illness among babies caused fears of a new mark in infant mortality.

COURT DEPUTY TO DEATH BATTLE WITH NEGRO

David Yancey Slain by Crazy Black Who Defied Arrest After Terrifying Rawson Street Neighborhood--Wounded by Police Before Capture

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay in the cellar of a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man stood off for more than half an hour the wagon load of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

At length was availed only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and hurled the uncomprehending negro to the police station in an automobile.

Chief of "Yankee" men were heard on every hand. The crowd was wildly excited and thronged about the negro as he was being taken to the punishment. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry men away.

"I will be hurried into the automobile, the danger of violence was not passed, the crowd at one time threatening to take him from the officers."

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to ribbons. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his diabolical attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched $4 from Jess Winsa, a 11-year-old white youth, on Whitehall Street. Watson ran after setting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

Deputy Yancey, who happened to be in that vicinity to serve some papers, took up the chase. Watson ran into the yard at the rear of 303 Rawson Street, the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, with Yancey in close pursuit.

Robert Starkey, aged 16, of 11 Pittsburg Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"Damn you, you've got to kill me before you can take me," Watson shouted as he rushed upon the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

"This is how I drew the knife and plunged it time and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body."

When Starkey had hastened to the officer's assistance, picked up one block after another and hurled them at the negro, but the latter paid no attention to the blows.

When Watson had started his bloody passion, he leaped from the prostrate body of Yancey and ran up the street, taking refuge with his body pressed in the cellar of the vacant house at 33 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers, but refused them to take him. Throwing their weapons to the ground, they commenced the assault upon the negro which failed to subdue him until he had been taken to the police station.

Several bullets struck him, but he was not hurt. He was taken to the police station and held for trial.

The Sunday assembles at the Capital City Country Club was a large and representative one. Swimming was a favorite mode of recreation for the men, although only a few women braved the waters, for some reason or other. An informal luncheon over the charming Country Club, which will be followed.

The large attendance at the week-end dinner dance of the Drive Club and the informal dance at East Lake shows that the summer season for Atlanta society has hardly begun.

"September Morn"

HAND-PAINTED water color photographs of Paul Chabas' nude paintings, "September Morn," fill one window of the City Book Company, and instead of harsh criticism excited only pity, which was due to the fact that the manager of the store took occasion to select about the coldest June day in the history of the city's weather for his art exhibition.

The original painting excited no end of comment when brought to this country for exhibition purposes and was first placed in one of the windows of a Fifth Avenue gallery and was promptly spotted by one of Anthony Van Dyke's agents, who demanded that it be taken out of the window.

The picture was nothing to shock anyone, according to newspaper accounts at the time, and agreed with the manager of the art gallery that it was artistic.

A Mother's Work and Her Hopes

An Editorial Written Especially for Men and Boys.

This editorial is not written for women. It is written for MEN, and for boys; for the millions who fail to appreciate the work that mothers do...

On a hot night, in the dusty streets of a dirty city, you see hundreds of women sitting on porches, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In lonesome farm houses, far out on monotonous plains, with the late sun setting on a long day of hard work, you find women, cheerful and persevering, TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

In the middle of the night, in earliest morning, when MEN sleep, all over the world, in ice huts North, in Southern tents, in big houses and in dingy tenements, you find women awake, cheerfully and gladly TAKING CARE OF BABIES.

We respect and praise the man selfishly working for himself.

If he builds up a great industry and a great personal fortune, we praise him.

If he risks his life for personal glory and for praise, we praise him.

If he shows courage even in saving his own carcass from destruction, we praise him.

There was never a man whose courage, or devotion, could be compared with that of a woman caring for her baby.

The mother's love is unselfish, and it has no limit this side of the grave.

You will find ONE man in a thousand who will risk his life for a cause.

You will find a THOUSAND women in a thousand who will risk their lives for their babies.

Everything that a man has and it is he owes to his mother. From her he gets health, brain, encouragement, moral character, and ALL his chances of success.

How poorly the mother's service is repaid by men individually, and by society as a whole!

The individual man feels that he has done much if he gives sufficient money and a LITTLE attention to her who brought him from nothingness into life and sacrificed her sleep and youth and strength for his sake.

Society, the aggregate of human beings, feels that its duty is done when a few hospitals are opened for poor mothers, and a little medicine doled out in cold-hearted fashion to the sick child.

Fortunately, it may truly be said that the great man is almost always appreciative of his greater mother.

Napoleon was cold, jealous of other men, monumentally egotistical when comparing himself with other sons of women. But he revered and appreciated the noble woman who bore him, lived for him, and watched over him to the end. He said: "It is to my mother, to her good principles, that I owe my success and all I have that is worth while. I do not hesitate to say that the future of the child depends on the mother."

The future of the individual child depends on the individual mother, and the future of the race depends on the mothers of the race.

Think what has been done for mankind by thousands of millions of perfectly devoted mothers.

Every mother is entirely DEVOTED, entirely HOPEFUL, entirely CONFIDENT that no future is too great for her baby's deserts.

The little head—often hopelessly ill-shaped—rolls about feebly on the thin neck devoid of muscles. The toothless gums chew whatever comes along. The wondering eyes look feebly, aimlessly about, without focus or concentration. The future human being, to the cold-blooded onlooker, is a useless little atom added to the human sea of nonentity.

But to the mother that baby is the marvel of all time. There is endless meaning in the first mumbings, endless soul in the senile, baby smile, unlimited possibilities in the knobby forehead and round, hairless head. She sees in the future of the baby responsibilities of government, and feels that one so perfectly lovely must eventually be acclaimed ruler by mankind.

As a result of perfect confidence in its future, the mother gives to every baby perfect devotion, perfect and affectionate moral education. Each child begins life inspired by the most beautiful example of altruism and self-sacrifice.

Kindness has gradually taken the place of brutality among human beings, because every baby at its birth has found itself surrounded by absolute kindness.

The mother's kindness forms moral character.

The mother's confidence and encouragement stimulate ambition and inspire courage.

The mother's patient watchfulness gives good health, and fights disease when it comes.

The mother's wrathful protection shields the child from the stern and dwarfing severity of fathers.

Truly, a man may and should be judged by his feeling toward his own mother, and toward the mothers of other men—of ALL MEN.

In the character of Christ, whose last earthly thought on Gethsemane was for His Mother, as in the character of the hard-working, ignorant man whose earnings go to make his mother comfortable, the most beautiful trait is devotion to the mother who suffers and works for her children, from the hours that precede their birth through all the years that they spend on earth together.

Honor thy father and THY MOTHER.

And honor the mothers of other men. Make their task easier through fair payment of the men who support the children, through good public schools for their children, through respectful treatment of ALL women.

The mother is happy. For she knows "the deep joy of love—the one else more than herself."

You honor yourself, and prove yourself worthy of a good name and of final success, when you do something for the mothers of the world.

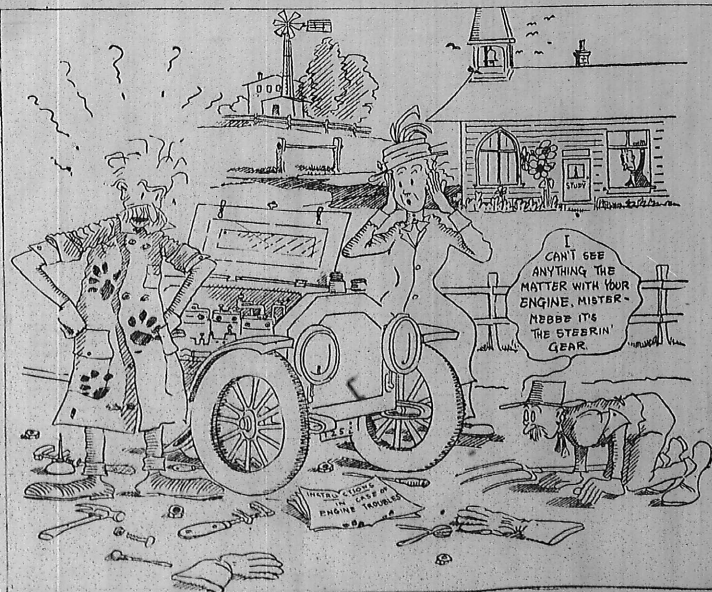

There IS a Conspiracy Against This Man

Many a time you hear a young man say there's a conspiracy in his office to keep him from advancing. Usually he's right. There IS a conspiracy, and the conspirators are his baser selves. When the young man in the picture loafs at his work; when he drinks; when he stays up all night gambling—he's heading the conspiracy against his own success. And that's the only sort of conspiracy that can ever keep a man from his goal.

Mr. Suburbs Merely Forgot the Gasoline

The Progress and Prosperity of Los Angeles a Triumph of Intelligence and Independence

NEWS articles have been circulated in the East concerning the late election in Los Angeles, containing statements which are not justified by the facts.

These misstatements have emanated from the newspapers of a certain political leader or boss of Los Angeles, who was defeated in the late election and who has attempted to excuse himself and explain his own defeat by an attack upon the electorate of Los Angeles.

As a matter of fact, Los Angeles has voted in this election with its usual good sense and good judgment, with its customary progressive spirit and high morality.

Mr. Rose, the newly elected Mayor, has had an excellent career as a judge, is a man of experience in politics and of sterling character as a citizen. He will give Los Angeles the efficient, honest, progressive administration that the intelligent and public-spirited citizens of that city demand, and Los Angeles in its choice for Mayor is a subject for congratulation.

The high character of the politics of Los Angeles and the tremendous advantage of such clean and conscientious politics, in contributing to the wonderful growth and attractiveness of that city, are things which the citizens of New York should study and imitate.

In this late election, and in previous elections, party prejudices and national political partisanship played no part whatever. There was no candidate of the Democratic party and no candidate of the Republican party in the local field. The Socialist party, to be sure, was in evidence and ran third in the race, but the two leading parties in numerical strength were two absolutely independent parties, with independent citizens as candidates on each of their tickets.

The whole election was fought out upon the mere matter of the availability and the capability of the candidates.

The decision in favor of Mr. Rose was reached mainly because of the belief of the people in his special fitness and his unexceptionable qualities as a man and a citizen.

One other influence of importance, however, entered into the campaign, and that was a declaration in favor of Mr. Shenk, the independent candidate opposing Mr. Rose, by Mr. Edwin T. Earl, a political leader, or rather boss, in Los Angeles politics.

Even though Mr. Earl is a boss, he is not a squalid one of the kind that dominate so many of our Eastern cities. He is a man of ability and of wealth, but he is considered a boss and he had been accused of using his political power to the advantage of his private interests.

The independent citizens of Los Angeles refused to tolerate a boss or the candidate of a boss. Mr. Shenk had been the leading candidate, and the betting stood at 2 to 1 in his favor. But when Mr. Shenk refused to repudiate satisfactorily the boss and the attempted association of the boss, the public-spirited citizens of Los Angeles turned from Mr. Shenk to Mr. Rose, and elected Mr. Rose by a handsome plurality.

What an inspiration action like this is to the cause of independence, clean politics and good government everywhere! What could not New York accomplish if the citizens of New York had the independence and the courage and the public spirit of the citizens of Los Angeles! How long would the people of New York be betrayed by their parties and their public officials if the citizens of New York would support no party in municipal matters except an independent party, and no candidate except a candidate that was wholly free from boss dictation and domination?

The citizens of Los Angeles regard the conduct of their municipal government as a great business enterprise, and they approach the question from a sound business point of view, free from personal selfishness or party prejudice.

They have put into operation direct primaries, the initiative, the referendum and the recall. They select candidates with the one consideration of the fitness of the candidates. They elect them without bias or prejudice. They instruct them through the initiative. They review their acts through the referendum, and they retire them, if unfaithful or incompetent, through the recall.

Los Angeles is far ahead of New York in progressive principles, in public spirit and in the efficient conduct of its government. The result is a public administration which is as clean and wholesome as a private household.

Los Angeles has the beauty of its site, a matchless climate, an intellectual and enterprising people, attractive and distinctive architecture, delightful homes surrounded with parks and gardens. It is the center of a great petroleum trade and an extensive citrus fruit industry, an entrepot for the maritime trade of the world and the metropolis of the expanding empire of the great Southwest.

But who shall say that the wonderful growth in population and prosperity of Los Angeles, which is one of the marvels of this marvelous land, is not due as much to its wholesome political condition as to the wonderful climate of this favored section and the varied resources of its farms and orchards, its oil wells, its manufactures and its mines?

Would not New York confer upon itself an immeasurable material as well as a moral benefit if it would learn, like Los Angeles, to conduct its government cleanly and competently in the control of the whole people and in the best interests of the whole people?

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS

America spends $500,000,000 a year for music. We should say the country was created $39,399,999 worth. The Minnesota rate case decision is a great victory for—well, it's a great victory. The Tariff, says a Russian source, is a silly, wasteful, it is wretched ridiculous. Any one doubting which way the wind blows in Washington need only stare at the right side of Mr. Secretary Redfield. Peace may have her victories, but they are usually won by the nations with the most battleships ready for action. It is a poor excuse for a lobbyist that cannot frighten the "conservative business interests" in Wall Street.

COURT DEPUTY OUT TO MEET IN FLEECE BATTLE WITH NEGRO

David Yancey Slain by Crazy Black Who Defied Arrest After Terrorizing Rawson Street Neighborhood. Is Wounded by Police Before Capture

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynching was averted only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and hurried the unconscious negro to the police station in an automobile.

Cries of "lynch him!" were heard on every hand. The crowd was wildly excited and thronged about the negro as he was being taken from the basement. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry men away.

Until he was hurried into the automobile, the danger of violence was not passed, the crowd at one time threatening to take him from the officers.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to ribbons. Yancey probably was dead before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched $4 from Jesse Winn, an aged negro, on Whitehall Street. Watson ran after getting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

Deputy Giles Chase, who was running up Rawson Street, Deputy Yancey, who happens to be in that vicinity to serve some papers, took up the chase. Watson ran into the yard at the rear of 303 Rawson Street, the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, with Yancey in close pursuit.

Robert Starnes, aged 16, of 11 Fitzgerald Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"Damn you, you've got to kill me before you can take me," Watson shouted as he rushed upon the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

With this he drew the knife and slashed at the neck of the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the mad-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

By Rufus to Aid, Young Starnes, who hastened to the officer's assistance, picked up one brick after another and hurled it against the negro, who heeded no attention to the blows.

When Watson had later had his bloody passion, he leaped from the private body of Yancey and ran up the street, taking refuge, when hotly pursued, in the cellar of the vacant house at 33 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers. Throwing his weapons under the house, he commenced a fusillade upon the negroes which failed to subdue him until he was almost riddled with bullets.

Several bullets took effect. In his delirium he shattered the bones both above and below the knee. Another bullet found lodgment in his right hip.

"September Morn" May Shiver On; Chief "Has Seen Worse"

Police Chief Beavers, just back from Washington, D. C., has granted a new lease on life to dainty "September Morn," following an "unofficial" call at a local book store Monday morning.

The chief took a leisurely stroll along Whitehall, stopped for several minutes before the big window which projects some 48 of the maiden, scanned each of them most carefully, and then nodded his head in a semi-approval sort of manner, as much as to say that "he's seen much worse pictures than Cole's present leader."

In fact, the chief actually said as much in substance. However, he delivered any opinion as yet—he is going to think it over—and in the meantime, so far as the chief is concerned, "September Morn" may shiver on.

Man Running for Train Is Hit by an Engine; Dies in Hour

Carl Brown, 33 years old, of Stone Mountain, was struck by a switch engine of the Georgia Railroad early Monday morning and received injuries from which he died an hour later.

While on the party of a moving passenger train in the vicinity of Stone Mountain, C. B. Bishop, of Scottsdale, Brown's companion, had boarded the train and turned on the coach steps to call to him.

While standing across the yards in the darkness, failed to see the approaching switch engine. He was struck by the engine's cowcatcher and hurled fifteen feet. He was picked up unconscious and hurried to the hospital.

Brown and Bishop had been in Atlanta visiting young ladies. They were on their way home to Stone Mountain, Logan Bleckley, E. C. Peters and B. M. Williamson.

They declared the change of route would inconvenience persons using North Side cars.

DORSEY MADE SAYS FRANK IS HIS NEXT IN NET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and ready for presentation in court at any time.

Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorneys interested in the prosecution had investigated every angle of the mystery so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any defense that Frank will present, that practically nothing remained to be done until the case was called for trial.

The departure of Solicitor Dorsey for a week's vacation, he said, was an indication of the preparedness of the prosecution.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hooper. All of the stories and rumors have been run down to their original source. The defense, in his opinion, will be able to spring no surprise that has not been anticipated by the prosecution.

Mr. Frank gives interview. The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Mrs. Frank whose husband, Leo M. Frank, is under indictment charged with the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan. It was the first time that Mrs. Frank had been asked to be interviewed since the Coroner's jury a month ago recommended that the Grand Jury hold her husband for trial.

She broke her silence to tell the thousands of Georgia people of the remarkable murder mystery jury why she is absolutely confident and certain that her husband could not have been the author of the terrible deed. She made no plea for sympathy, but expressed herself as fully reconciled to the processes of the law, even though they temporarily caused her to separate from her husband behind the bars as a man suspected of one of the most heinous crimes thinkable.

The loyal wife said that she was able to bear the present belief because of the assurance of Frank's ultimate and complete vindication.

Why She Believes Husband. On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected man that she has no grave or immoral act in the matter of her belief in his entire innocence.

She said, in part: "In all the year and a half of our separation, in the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, I was Leo's best girl and he was my one and only love. If I went to a party, it was conceded that I should go with Leo, and I did. I should vary with me. You know the people of my faith do those things in that way—with us, betrothal is all but as sure as marriage."

"Leo Phagan, and myself have been man and wife for two years and a half. I state it as a circumstance showing how sweet and mutually happy our home life has been, and had a little I should mention against it, that during all the two and a half years of our wedded life not once has he been away from me at night, save when once a month he attended the meetings of the Jewish Order of B'nai B'rith, in which he was the president in Atlanta until he was arrested."

He Preferred Staying Home. "If he had been in the evening, perhaps without my knowledge, to place he should not have gone so far as my free consent may have figured as a factor in his going. I merely cite it as a truthful circumstance that he has not deserted to go, he seemed rather to prefer staying home with me. Naturally, that made me prefer staying home."

Beavers Seeks to Add Four Women To His Vice Squad

Women will be added to the vice squad of the Atlanta Police Department if the recommendations of Chief Beavers, as made in his report to the police board at his meeting with the police chiefs in Washington, are adopted.

From the paper read by the Chief of Police of Los Angeles in regard to women detectives and the effect in that city, Chief Beavers is firmly convinced they would be of help here.

The women—four in number—would be used to ferret out and report to Chief Beavers all cases of women and men who are engaged in the vice traffic in Atlanta, and in this way, Chief Beavers believes, the department would be able to completely break up the business in this city.

grain and still others in his right side. In spite of his many wounds, it was thought that he might live. None of them alone would have been fatal. Watson was bent upon for some time at Fayetteville for snoring from the chafing, and Warden Harris has been in Atlanta several times trying to locate the negro. Finally he detailed a negro to stay in the city in an effort to find him. It was known that Watson lived in the rear of 26 Orange Street, but he was shrewd enough not to go near his home.

An especial act of bravery during the siege of Watson, who was in the darkness of the night, was that of Police Officer W. L. Watson, crippled by a bullet through the leg, who was the only one who remained on the ground and crawled under the house toward the negro. His comrades were expecting every instant to hear the sound of a shot which would tell that West, too, had fallen a victim to the black hand.

West, however, crept up on the negro and hit him over the head with the butt of his revolver. Then he took him by the feet and tried to drag him out into the light. At the sight of the negro, the negro fired, and the bullet struck the officer's chest. The officers called upon him to surrender. He refused to do so. After the fire was returned, the negro was again wounded. Another use in resisting was that he was ready to give up.

Measles and Diphtheria. The officers waited, but the negro did not come out of the darkness. Police Officer West, against the warnings of his fellow officers, dropped his rifle and ground and crawled under the house toward the negro. His comrades were expecting every instant to hear the sound of a shot which would tell that West, too, had fallen a victim to the black hand.

Woman Strands Guard. Mrs. Mattie Barnds, Atlanta's woman detective, lives at 1000 Peachtree Avenue, just back of the yard on Windsor Street, where the blood-battle between Watson and Yancy took place. She has been in the city since the negro and the negro ran up the street, chasing her revolver under the doors and after the negro. When Watson took refuge under the house on Windsor Street, Mrs. Barnds asked until the weapon load of police men and detectives under command of Assistant Chief E. J. Connelley.

One of the many public features of the tragedy is the fact that the family that Yancy leaves. They have a hard struggle to get their little home at Lakewood Heights on the Jonesboro Road. His children are in the family, none of them above 10 or 12 years of age. The two older daughters recently were taken to the hospital, making an additional burden upon Yancy.

Chamber of Commerce Secretary
Urges Enlistment of 100,000
Boys in Corn Club.

Secretary Walter G. Cooper, of the Chamber of Commerce, Monday proposed a way to meet the $17,000,000 deficit in the food supply of Georgia. He urged organization of 100,000 boys in the corn clubs and thereby increase the total food supply. The corn crop has added 25,000,000 bushels of corn to the annual crop.

Leading authorities on the food supply of Georgia agree that the estimate that the people sent out of this State last year, $17,000,000 for corn, and that should be raised here. The cotton and cotton seed crop has 17,000,000 bushels of paying for the food supply. This is in spite of the fact that the corn crop of Georgia has increased 25,000,000 bushels in five years.

COURT DEPUTY OUT TO DEATH IN FERCE BATTLE WITH NEGRO

David Yancey Slain by Crazed Black Who Defied Arrest After Terrorizing Rawson Street Neighborhood. Is Wounded by Police Before Capture

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amok and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynch mob was averted only by the larger force of officers who rushed to the house and hurried the unconscious negro to the police station in an automobile.

Cries of "lynch him!" were heard on every hand. The crowd was wildly excited and thronged about the negro as he was being taken from the scene. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry men away.

Until he was hurried into the automobile, the danger of violence was past, the crowd that once threatened to take him from the officers.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a wild beast toward Yancey, stabbing him repeatedly in the breast and back and wounding him in the arm almost to ribbons. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched a tin from Jesse Winn, who is aged negro, on Whitehall Street. Watson ran after getting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

Deputy Gives Chase. As he was running up Rawson Street, Deputy Yancey, who happened to be in that vicinity to serve some papers, took up the chase. Watson ran into the yard at the rear of 303 Rawson Street, the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, with Yancey in close pursuit.

Robert Starnes, aged 16, of 11 Fitzgerald Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"Thank you, you've got to kill me before you can take me," Watson shouted as he ran up the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand.

With this he drew the knife and struck it time and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

By Rushes to Aid. Young Starnes, who had been standing to the officer's assistance, picked up one brick after another and hurled them at the negro, but the latter paid no attention to the blows.

When Watson had mised his bloody passion, he leaped from the prostrate body of Yancey and ran up the street, taking refuge when shot at in the cellar of the vacant house at 31 Windsor Street.

FUND IS STARTED FOR YANCEY'S FAMILY

First subscriptions to The Georgian's fund for Deputy Yancey's family:

Atlanta, Georgian, $25.00	Sherriff's Office, $50.00
Red Cross Hospital, $10.00	Frank H. Harahan, $5.00
Henry Latham, $5.00	New Garner, $5.00
John W. Moore, $5.00

Court Deputy David Yancey is dead. He met a horrible fate. He was stabbed and hacked to death while endeavoring to serve his employer, the public of Atlanta and Fulton County. He died with his boots on.

The whole city and the entire county will applaud his brave and noble death and mourn his death. Then they will turn again to their own homes and happy families and the hundreds of business. Court Deputy David Yancey will pass from their minds.

It remains for the dead man's happy family to bear the real burden of consequences which his head met in serving the public. There is the widow, who idolized her big, strong husband. There are also eight children, bright-eyed boys and girls, not one of them over 16 years of age, who will romp no more about their father's knees.

Yancey's family was in straitened circumstances at the time of his death. Sickness had invaded the house and two of the children are now in a hospital.

Already friends of the dead man are thinking of this. The Georgian also has thought of this.

The Georgian has started a fund to care for the family whose head was cut off while serving the people of Atlanta and Fulton County.

This newspaper has headed the list with $15. The amount is small--commensurate in any manner with the price paid by Yancey. But its smallness invites contributions from other sources--from the public whom Yancey served.

The Georgian will gladly receive these contributions and disseminate in any manner with the bereaved family as a poor substitute for what he has lost.

High praise was given the deputy by Sheriff Mangum, his superior officer.

DORSEY JURY SAYS FRANK IS FAST IN NET

Attorney Hooper Declares State Is Prepared for Any Move the Defense May Make.

Frank A. Hooper, the well-known criminal lawyer who has been engaged to assist Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey in the trial of Lee M. Frank for the alleged murder of Mary Phagan, said Monday that the case was complete and ready for presentation in court at any time.

Mr. Hooper asserted that the attorneys interested in the case had investigated every angle of the mystery so thoroughly and fortified themselves against any defense that Frank will present, that practically nothing remained to be done until the case was called for trial. The departure of Solicitor Dorsey for a week's vacation, he said, was an indication of the preparedness of the prosecution.

No new developments are expected by the prosecution, according to Mr. Hooper. All of the stories and rumors have been run down to their original source. The defense, in his opinion, will be able to spring no surprises that has not been anticipated by the prosecution.

Mr. Frank Gives Interview.

The American printed Sunday an exclusive interview with Mrs. Frank, whose husband, Lee M. Frank, is under indictment charged with the murder of 15-year-old Mary Phagan. It was the first time that Mrs. Frank had permitted herself to be interviewed since the coroner's jury a month ago recommended that the Grand Jury hold her husband for trial.

She broke her silence to tell the thousands who have been gripped by the remarkable murder mystery just why she is absolutely confident and positive that Frank could not have been the author of the terrible deed. She made no plea for sympathy, but expressed herself as fully reconciled to the processes of the law, even though they temporarily caused her the greatest sorrow and kept her husband behind the bars of a prison cell.

She is one of the most brutal enemies thinkable. The loyal wife said that she was able to bear the greatest belief because of the assurance of Frank's ultimate and complete vindication.

Why She Believes Husband.

On the fact that she believes from her life with the suspected slayer that any gross or immoral act is utterly apart from his nature, she bases much of her belief in his entire innocence.

She said, in part:

In all the year and a half of our engagement, in the happy knowledge and consent of both our parents, I was with Lee, and he was with me, one and only heart. If I went to a party, it was conceded that I should have the Leo, and he would be there, invariably went with me. You know, the people of my faith do those things that we wish us betrothal (as all but as sacred a marriage tie).

"Leo, Frank, and myself have been man and wife for two years and a half. I state it as a circumstance showing how sweet and mutually happy our home life has been, and not as a thing I should mention ordinarily, that during all the two and a half years of our wedded life not once has Leo been away from me at night, and when once a month he attended the meetings of the Jewish Order of B'nai B'rith, of which he was the president in Atlanta until he was arrested.

"He preferred staying home, and he might have gone but in the evenings, perhaps without my knowledge, to places he should not have gone, so far as my free consent may have figured as a factor in his going. I merely cite it as a truthful circumstance that he has not elected to go, as he seemed rather to prefer staying home with me. Naturally, that made

Explorer Pauses on Lecture Tour to See Atlanta.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of polar fame, was in Atlanta Monday, and, listen, girls--he's head over heels in love with you already, for he says in himself:

"They're simply got me," was the way the Doctor put it when seen in his room at the Hotel Aragon Monday morning.

In fact, Dr. Cook says he's fallen in love with all the Southern girls because they're so charming--and the Doctor is by no means a bad authority, for he is making a considerable tour of the Southland in the interest of what he terms a "fair play campaign" to show he discovered at North Pole as Admiral Peary did.

"Southern women," said Dr. Cook, "have a little way all their own--it can't explain it, but I express it adequately--it's true just as it is. In other words, they form a type of woman that you don't find anywhere else on the earth."

"Atlanta is certainly no exception to this rule--in fact, I think they look even better here than elsewhere. They simply get a fellow--that's all."

The Doctor, who was all smiles Monday morning, did not confine his compliments to Atlanta women, however. He present tour will include Alabama, Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Oklahoma. Atlanta is his present tour will include Atlanta, Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Oklahoma.

"All I want is fair play," Dr. Cook repeated, "and I will get it at the hands of the middle classes of the United States, which have always been responsive to me."

DESPERADO, AT BAY UNDER HOUSE, FLEES UNTIL NEARLY DEAD

Patrolman Paul West Braves Death in Darkness to Club Slayer Inseparable and Drag Him From Refuge--Crowd Becomes Menacing.

Court Deputy David Yancey was hacked and stabbed to death Monday forenoon in a desperate battle with Eugene Watson, a crazed negro who had run amuck and terrorized the residents in the vicinity of Rawson and Windsor Streets.

Brought to bay under a vacant house at 33 Windsor Street, the black man evaded for more than half an hour the wagonload of policemen who had been hurried to the scene of the killing on a riot call.

The negro surrendered only after he had been badly wounded and saw that he could not hold out longer against the posse of bluecoats who had surrounded him in his stronghold.

A lynch mob was averted only by the large force of officers who rushed to the house and hurried the unconscious negro to the police station in an automobile.

Street of "Lynch Mob" were heard on every hand. The crowd was wildly excited and thronged about the scene as he was being taken from the scene. The policemen quickly formed a circle about Watson and pushed the angry man away from the scene.

Until he was hurried into the automobile, the danger of violence was imminent. The crowd was threatening to take him from the scene.

Yancey's body was terribly mutilated by the frenzied negro. Rather than be taken, Watson rushed like a bear toward Yancey, stabbed him repeatedly in the breast and back and slashed one of his arms almost to the elbow. Yancey probably was dead long before Watson had completed his fiendish attack.

The trouble which resulted in the tragedy started when Watson snatched $4 from Jessa Wynn, an hotel negro.

Street, Watson ran after getting the money and threatened with a drawn knife everyone who stood in his path.

Deputy Yancey saw Watson running and rushed to serve some papers, but the chase. Watson ran into the yard at the rear of 33 Windsor Street, the home of Mrs. J. W. Wilson, with Yancey in close pursuit.

Robert Starnes, aged 15, of 11 Fitzgerald Street, joined in the chase, along with a score of other persons. Yancey fired upon the negro as he cornered him in the yard.

"Damn you, you've got to kill me," Watson yelled, "I'll take you with me should as he rushed upon the deputy and snatched the still smoking revolver out of his hand."

With this he drew the knife and plunged it into and again into the body of Yancey. The deputy sank to the ground mortally wounded, but the blood-maddened negro kept hacking and stabbing the limp body.

My Rushes to Aid.

Young Starnes, who had hastened to the officers assistance, picked up one brick after another and hurled them at the negro, but the latter paid no attention to the blows.

When Watson had set his preposterous body of Yancey and ran up bloody passages he leaped from the street, taking refuge, when hotly pressed, in the cellar of the vacant boiler on 22 Windsor Street.

He was quickly surrounded by the posse of officers. Thrusting their weapons under the house, they commenced a fusillade upon the negro which failed to subdue him until he was almost riddled with bullets.

Several bullets took effect in his leg and his hands, but he was both above and below the knees. Another

FUND IS STARTED FOR YANCEY'S FAMILY

This newspaper has headed the list with $25. The amount is small--not commensurate in any manner with the price paid by Yancey. But its smallness invites contributions from other sources--from the public whom Yancey served. The Georgian will gladly receive these contributions and see that they are put in the hands of the bereaved family as a poor substitute for what it has lost.

Friends of the family who are ready to contribute to the fund, please forward the amount to the following:

THE GEORGIAN ..... $25
Frank L. Harrison ..... 5
H. W. G. ..... 5
J. W. Moore ..... 5
High praise was given the deputy by Sheriff Mangum, his superior officer.

"Yancey was a fine man," said the sheriff, "and he had given good service to the public."
