TRAIL LEADS MOTHER TO PACIFIC

Mrs. Lily Lamar Martin, Fulton County, Locates Little Daughter in Los Angeles, Cal.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—After a two-year search, extending across seven States, Mrs. Lily Lamar Martin, of Fulton County, Georgia, has located her little daughter, Sarah Alice, at 1242 West Thirty-eighth Street, Los Angeles.

Human Officer McLaughlin, at the request of the mother, applied for a writ of habeas corpus ordering the child's father, A. R. Martin, to produce the child in Judge Wilbur's courtroom Monday.

Martin is charged by McLaughlin with kidnaping the child from its mother after its custody had been awarded Mrs. Martin. The Martins were divorced in Georgia April 18, 1911. The mother is now in Dallas, Tex., but is leaving for Los Angeles to regain possession of the child.

The litigation with the little girl in the center dates back to December 25, 1910, when A. R. Martin filed a petition for divorce in the Fulton County courts. He charged his wife, Mrs. Lily Martin, with grossly inhuman and cruel treatment, asserting that she had plotted a plot at his home to stab him with a butcher knife and had threatened to poison him by putting strychnine in his food. After his last threat, his petition alleged, he became afraid for his life and fled. He asserted also that she had threatened to kill their daughter, Sarah Alice, who was 6 years old at the time of the filing of the petition. Martin asked for the custody of the child.

Mrs. Martin at once filed a cross-bill, denying the charges made by her husband, and praying the court to allow her to keep the little girl. Both Martin and his wife were granted a divorce, and she was given a judgment for alimony. The court ordered the child placed in the Baptist Orphan Home, at Hapeville, but because of the crowded condition of the home the girl was placed temporarily with her grandfather, F. L. Fry.

A few months after the court's decision, while Mrs. Martin was visiting in America, Ga., Martin took out a writ of habeas corpus and took the child away from Fry. He then left with the little girl for San Francisco, and the case began. Mrs. Martin trailed her husband through several States in the West and across the entire continent, finally locating him at Los Angeles.

62 Sunday Concerts Planned by Music Festival Association

Plans for an unbroken series of Sunday afternoon concerts at the Auditorium-Armory next year are now being prepared by the Atlanta Music Festival Association. It is the hope of the association to arrange with the Auditorium Committee of the General Council to secure the building for each Sunday during the year that there may be no break in the series of concerts.

Meeting of representatives of the association and of the Council committee was held in Mayor Woodward's office Friday afternoon. V. H. Krieger declared that during the last year the association had paid $4,000 for an organ, but because other attractions were booked Sunday, it had been able to give only 48 concerts. He declared that a break in the series caused people to lose interest, and he urged the committee for an arrangement whereby each of the 52 Sundays of the year could be used for a concert.

FIGHT NEGRO AS FEDERAL OFFICIAL

Dixie Lawmakers Roused by Wilson's Selection of Oklahoma Lawyer as Treasury Register.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The selection of Adam E. Patterson, a negro, of Muskogee, Okla., for Register of the Treasury by President Wilson has created a stir here among Southern Democrats, who declare they will fight the negro's confirmation to the post.

Patterson, a lawyer and author of several treatises on the Democratic party, has received the endorsement of Senator Gore and Representative Carter, of Oklahoma. It is said, with these two exceptions, the Oklahoma delegation is solid against him.

Race Antagonism Seen. Southern Democrats, including Representative Davenport and Murray, of Oklahoma, condemn the selection of Patterson on the grounds that a negro should not be placed in a position where he will exert authority over white men and women, thus antagonizing the race.

Beauregard, they point out that Oklahoma's Constitution makes the negro a negligible factor in politics. The job for which Patterson has been selected pays $5,000 per year and has been held by a negro for several years.

Confirmation Is Opposed. Other Southern Democrats, while not hesitating to express themselves, refused to be quoted in regard to the matter. That they will put their shoulders to the wheel and fight hard against the confirmation when it comes up in the Senate is certain, however, it is said.

ATLANTAN HURT IN WRECK ON SOUTHERN

MACON, July 25.—Southern passenger train No. 13 (northbound) and No. 14 (southbound) had a head-on collision on a siding at Hilton, near Macon, this morning at 3:10 o'clock, resulting in the death of Will Jackson, the negro porter, who operated the switch, and injuring Engineer H. G. Jennings, of Macon, and Fireman W. E. Jones, of Atlanta, of train No. 24.

When train No. 24 was within 100 yards of the siding the porter became excited over the apprehension that he had not turned the switch properly. He turned it again opening the siding to the approaching train. He was struck by the engine of train No. 24 and instantly killed.

Engineer Jennings sustained a bruised shoulder and sprained back, and Fireman Jones had a rib broken. None of the passengers was hurt, although all were severely jarred.

A delay of less than an hour was occasioned by the wreck, train No. 23 taking train No. 13 on to Atlanta, while the passengers from No. 24 were transferred and brought to Macon.

BOTH SIDES HIDE VITAL PHAGAN FACTS

State's Prosecutor Shrouds Identity and Stories of Scenes of Witnesses in Secrecy.

Prosecution and defense continued their preparations for the Frank trial Saturday, the last-hour hurry of gathering new witnesses and interviewing the stray ends of evidence giving a fair promise that the trial will start as scheduled next Monday forenoon.

That Solicitor Dorsey has nearly a score of important witnesses whose testimony has been carefully guarded from the defense and the general public is well known. These witnesses have come to his office from time to time, and the solicitor has refused to give out the vaguest intimation of the line of testimony they would give at the trial.

The prosecution has reserved their evidence to spring as a surprise during the trial. On these persons the State depends to clinch its case against the young factory superintendent. Some of them will be called to bear out different portions of the negro Conley's affidavit, in which was told the story of the disposal of Mary Phagan's body. The Solicitor is understood to have witnesses who will corroborate portions of Conley's story which have been under the severest Think Conley Story True. The Solicitor several times has announced that he believes Conley is telling the truth in the essential statements of his affidavit. He has strengthened his belief by interviewing many people who were in a position to know of different circumstances mentioned in Conley's story. The only possibility of an alteration in the State's theory is that the time element may be modified in certain respects.

Similar surprises may be expected from the defense. Attorney Rouse has not been communicative with the newspaper men. The few bits of his evidence that have become known to the public were obtained in spite of him. Except for the Milroy affidavit, published in The Georgian, most of the important evidence of the defense has been so carefully guarded as to make it still a matter of conjecture. The general plan of Frank's defense can be surmised, but the contents of the hundred or more affidavits in the possession of Attorney Rouse remain a deep mystery.

No one expects at this time that the pay envelope, the bloody club or the piece of rope found on the first floor will play any large part in the trial. Neither side is convinced of their genuineness. The suspicion of a "plant" has prevailed from the time of their discovery.

Two operatives who began turning up this sort of startling evidence at the moment they were placed on the case soon were taken off to a Phagan mystery by the Pinkerton agency.

Both sides announce themselves ready for the trial to proceed. It is regarded as doubtful that the defense will ask for another continuance, except on account of the absence of material witnesses or the illness of counsel. About 150 witnesses already have been summoned by the defense.

His stationery classifies him as "national medical director."

TRAP MATTFORD AFTER HUNT OF 3,000 MILES

Atlanta, Accused of Kidnapping Barwick Children, Taken in Boston—Mother Sought.

BOSTON, July 25.—Charged for more than 3,000 miles, from Atlanta to Boston, John L. Mattford, 30 years of age, was arrested here today charged with being a fugitive from justice. Mattford is charged by the Atlanta police with kidnapping John A. Barwick, Jr., 5 years old, and his sister, Dorothy T. A. children of John A. Barwick, of Atlanta.

Mattford pleaded guilty in the police court today and was held to $10,000 for the Atlanta police.

The police also are looking for Mrs. Barwick, mother of the children, and Mrs. Annie Laugel, mother of Mrs. Barwick. Mrs. Jones is also charged with abducting the children.

For the past three months inspectors Dorey and O'Neal had been searching for Mattford. He had been trailed all over New England, but escaped. For several weeks Mattford and Mrs. Barwick were registered at the Clarence Hotel under the name of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin.

Shortly before 10 o'clock today they saw Mattford walking down Court street avenue alone. Inspector Dorey approached him, took his name and Mattford turned. He was immediately taken under arrest and taken to police headquarters.

Gradly revived unconscious. He is not expected to live. Engineer C. A. Tennant, of Abbeville, S. C., was shaken up and bruised, but was not seriously injured.

The front track of the first coach, a combination passenger and baggage car, left the tracks, and the occupants, all negroes, were given a severe jolting. None of the other four cars was derailed.

Officials of the Seaboard, in an effort to fix the responsibility for the wreck, are investigating the report that the signal board indicated "all clear" until the train was almost upon the switch and that at this instant the operator in the tower pulled the signal set against him.

T. L. Brock, of No. 86 Turner street, long in the employ of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, is the supervisor. He denied the signal had been set against the incoming train just as the interlocking switch was reached, resulting in the derailment.

There was a dead Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic train on its way to the yards was crossing the Western and Atlantic track on which Seaboard train No. 17 was approaching, and that Tennant must have overlooked the signal set against him.

Two Employees Shift Blame. Tennant claims that the signal was white. Foreman Brook declares that it was red. The W. & A. officials who were with the Seaboard in the investigation. Tennant has been with the Seaboard since 1903 and has been regarded as careful and trustworthy.

He has had a passenger run for three years. The train was running at about 40 miles an hour when the derailment occurred. The engine crossed along the ties about 30 feet and struck a deep pathway through the black dirt at the side of the track, finally toppling over. A small passenger car rolled off among the white passenger cars, but no one was hurt.

ben R. Arnold declined flatly to say whether they would permit the trial to proceed without introducing some motion for a postponement, and the report was that witnesses had been summoned to be on the safe side in the event a request to put off the trial is refused.

Frank is Ready. The accused man was in the best of health and spirits, according to an announcement from the Tower Friday, and was anxious that the case go to trial. His illness would be the best ground upon which to secure a delay, but the inability of any one of the more material witnesses to come into court would more than likely be considered a sufficient legal reason.

Judge Roon considered it highly improbable that the case would be out of an account of his indisposition. He said that he was in the best of health, and left for Atlanta at 12:30 in the afternoon.

Little Change in Bill. The bill, as amended, showed a difference of but three of five appropriations recommended by the committee. This included $1,550,000 for the public school fund for each of the years 1913 and 1914, which was an increase of $50,000 over the committee recommendation; $100,000 instead of $250,000 for the maintenance of the Soldiers' Home, and a slight increase in the appropriation for clerical help in one of the Statehouse departments.

day morning to begin serving the 144 venenrem whose names were drawn Thursday afternoon by Judge John T. Pennington.

The fact that the jury actually was drawn and several had been served Friday morning and that the State witnesses were ready under subpoena to be at the courtroom Monday morning was the strongest argument that the trial would actually begin.

Judge Roan had been aware of putting the State to the expense of serving the jury until he was reasonably certain the trial would begin, and he will urge that both sides go to trial rather than inconvenience the jury by adjourning, thereby making it necessary to make arrangements to absent themselves from Roan to be at the courtroom Monday.

Chief Deavers questioned again this Thursday and was made to repeat his movements on the day of the tragedy, being taken to the jail rooms where he asserted he visited the afternoon and afternoon of April 26.

Chief Deavers assumed charge of the case and was assisted by Detective Starnes and Campbell, who had taken Conley to the Tower the day before without the latter's permission.

Conley was taken from the station secretly, and the four were in the "chick" automobile and out of sight before the officers' attention was attracted near the factory that he "would give a million dollars if he could get a white man."

Conley also was taken to the office of Chief Deavers, where he was questioned closely in regard to his recollection of the events of the night of the murder.

Joseph Sherrill, chairman of the Board of Health from the First Ward, said a stranger from South Georgia who had come to Atlanta on an excursion asked him where the electricity was.

Mayor Opposes Option. The stranger said he had come to Atlanta to see the sights and that after viewing the Capital and the Federal Penitentiary he would like to see the electricity he had heard so much about.

But deeper than the joking was a serious matter. The Aldermen Board had before the Council in overruling him and appropriating $5 for an option on the Electric Power of the League of American Municipalities at Winnipeg, Canada.

Mayor Woodward had indicated that he might accept himself and his own expense. That Friday he announced that he would continue to deny himself a vacation, even on such a trip, as that, for if he left town he knew that $5 million check would be signed by Mayor Pro Tem James E. Warren.

Mayor Woodward may be known, missed and forced to sign the check.

Young Woman's Skirt Fired by Blaze in Grate—Parent Unable to Save Her

As a result of severe burns when her skirts caught fire from a grate in which she was burning some trash at her home, No. 849 Capitol avenue, Miss Beatie Lyon, 19 years old, died Thursday night at the Georgia Hospital. She was the daughter of R. E. Lyon, superintendent of the Mason Building.

In the room next to the one in which the girl succumbed, her heroic mother Friday lay, suffering from cross burns received while trying to extinguish the flames, which enveloped the daughter.

The accident occurred Wednesday afternoon. Miss Lyon had swept some light trash into the grate in front room on the second floor, and after applying a match to it, turned to leave. A tongue of flame leaped up to the top of the grate, and immediately the girl's skirt was ignited.

When the girl discovered her plight, all attempts to smother the fire failed, and she burst open the door and leaped into the hallway. Her body by this time was enveloped in flames.

Her mother, rushing from a back room, saw her daughter as she bounded down the stairs, clutching a blanket. She ran after her, reaching the girl as she reached the first floor of the building, where Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lyon live.

A struggle between the two women ensued before the blanket was placed about the younger one. In her efforts to save her daughter, Mrs. Lyon lost the flames catch in the sleeves of her own dress, and for a time it looked as though both women would be burned to death.

Rescue from the street reached Mrs. Lyon, straggling from a back room, saw her daughter as she bounded down the stairs, clutching a blanket. She ran after her, reaching the girl as she reached the first floor of the building, where Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lyon live.

Girl's Dress Burned Off. So fiery was the material of the daughter's dress, however, that it burned off her before the fire was out. The girl was unconscious and nearly lifeless.

An ambulance was called and the two women were taken to the Georgia Hospital. The daughter never regained consciousness. The mother received burns about her face and arms, from which she will recover.

CHAPTER 4 IN PHAGAN MYSTERY

Inquest Into Slaying of Factory Girl and First Sensational 'Confession' of Negro Sweeper Jim Conley.

CHAPTER IV.
Through all the interrogation of witnesses by the coroner's jury and through the ordeal of a half day's inquest on Thursday, May 21, the direct and positive evidence developed against either Leo Frank or Frank. When, however, at the close of their session on Thursday, May 21, the six jurors found that Mary Phagan had come to her death by strangulation and ordered that Frank and Leo be held in the grand jury, they did the only thing left to them. So far as they knew at that time Frank and Leo were the only persons who could have had the opportunity to commit the crime. They knew they were unequal to the mystery, the baffling elements of which mounted in numbers and proportions as the grand jury proceeded. They named Leo Frank and Frank as the two persons who presumably would know the most about the crime, were probably the most important witnesses, but in a closet interrogation of the negro failed to bring out any important testimony that he had not already given the officers.

Frank Replied to Stand.
Frank was recalled to the stand for a few moments when the inquest resumed Thursday, May 21, but nothing was developed. The spectators, however, were sure that disclosures which might fit the guilt for the crime would be made during the testimony of Frank, who had been working on the case for the Pinkertons. Scott told the grand jury that he had been working on the case for the Pinkertons. Scott told the grand jury that he had been working on the case for the Pinkertons. Scott told the grand jury that he had been working on the case for the Pinkertons.

Little room was hushed awaiting the answer when Coroner Hines shot at him just as his testimony was concluding.
"Have you any definite else to say to me," he asked, "or do you wish to be committed to the grand jury?" Scott's reply was a disappointment to those in the crowded forenoon room. "I would not care to commit myself any further," he said.

Have you any definite suspicion? asked Coroner Hines.
"I am working along on a chain of evidence which I would not care to give out," the detective replied.

Detective Non-committal.
Detective Hines, who had been given a non-committal. It was a striking commentary on the fact that the detectives had been working on the case for several weeks and had had no more idea of the identity of the murderer of Mary Phagan than they had at the end of the first three days of the body of the girl.

They had a "chain of evidence" which established the fact that the girl was killed in the factory when Mary Phagan arrived and later was attacked by a man whose name was given as "John." Frank, who had been working on the case for the Pinkertons, had been working on the case for the Pinkertons.

Mullins Freed by Gilt.
The loyal defense of Mullins by Mrs. Pearl Robinson, in the year-old sweatshirt, was one of the bright spots in the proceedings. When she heard of the things which the grand jury were doing her lover she went with all her might to the station and pleaded that anyone could make such a murder as to suggest that Mullins told the detectives what she thought of them, declared that Mullins had with her at the time the crime then was thought to have been committed and finally all but stormed the station and took him away with her.

Burns Man Investigated.
The "greatest detective" proved to be Frank Pond, at one time a Pinkerton operative. What evidence of value he uncovered is still a secret closely guarded by the Pinkertons. About the same time negotiations were started to bring the world-famous W. J. Burns to Atlanta. Burns, however, was absorbed in what taken part in the search for J. Wilberforce Martin, the wealthy Memphis man, and was unable to come at once. C. W. Tobie, one of the Burns superintendents, came in his chief's place and worked on the case for several weeks, and then left without making any important disclosures.

Along with these about a half dozen other experts were drawn into the mystery. Among them were J. A. Pike, the New York finger-print expert; L. J. Fletcher, Burlington expert in the Federal airport, and a number of physicians and bacteriologists.

Lessening in significance much of the work accomplished and the defense found by these men was the fact that Frank's character was not what they had been led to believe. They knew nothing in the factory at the time the girl was attacked.

Pond's Theory Shattered.
Frank Pond, the greatest detective, is understood to have said that he could fix the guilt upon Frank by a process of elimination. He considered one person after another, showing that it would have been impossible for each one of them to commit the crime.

When he had finished, Leo Frank was the only one to whom suspicion apparently had been afforded. But he was unaware of the presence in the building of a stinking negro who from his hiding place watched the factory girl and left the building.

As the day for the grand jury session approached, the superintendent doubled his efforts to obtain some definite evidence for presentation to the jurors. A sensation was created when the director of the State Board of Health, made a secret trip to Atlanta to examine the body of Mary Phagan in the little graveyard there.

It was a re-examination of the body, the mystery which has been the subject of a second trip was made to the cemetery and the body again taken up. Harris never revealed the results of his examination of the body, but it was made on the theory that she had been drugged.

A succession of witnesses visited the factory day after day. The superintendent was not allowed to admit anyone, definite evidence for presentation to the jury. It was supposed that if any of these girls gave the testimony which would lead to the conviction of Frank, they would be killed.

His testimony at the inquest was straightforward and convincing of his innocence.

Mary Phagan by choking her to death with a cord about her neck. The jurors had barely gathered when over the police station Jim Conley, practically ignored by the detectives, made his first confession following an interview with the Georgian with E. Holloway, day watchman at the factory, in which Conley said that he had seen the body of the girl.

"I wrote them notes," the negro said, as soon as Black appeared. Black was thunderstruck. The possibility that Conley wrote the notes that Frank committed the crime and readily adopted the belief that the negro had been in the factory and saw the girl's body.

Black at once took Conley to the office of Chief Lanford to obtain his full statement. An affidavit was prepared and the negro swore to it. It related that he had written the notes at the direction of Frank and had written them on a white envelope which he had hidden in a box in the factory at the time of the murder, and that Frank came to him and told him to come into the office. It was four minutes past 10 o'clock.

Says Frank Dictated Notes.
Frank told him to write: "Dear Mother, a long black negro did this by himself," according to Conley. He wrote several times on a white envelope which he had hidden in a box in the factory at the time of the murder, and that Frank came to him and told him to come into the office. It was four minutes past 10 o'clock.

Conley's remarkable story created a turmoil in police circles and aroused the public to a pitch of excitement that had not been equalled since the days following the slaying. It pointed to the certainty that Conley knew a great deal in regard to the murder, it had, however, no puzzle in the public mind of much of its credibility.

Conley asserted that the notes were written on Friday. This statement on his face was utterly ridiculous and improbable. No one believed that the murder was planned a day ahead of time. If he was guilty, did not know that Mary Phagan was coming to the factory at a certain time the next day, and had, however, no one held the conviction that he deliberately planned her slaying.

thought that Mary Phagan herself had committed the crime. By the next day the detectives had decided that Conley's story was worthless so far as it accused Frank. It must be changed if it were to be regarded as incriminating in the least.

Light Seismic Shocks Felt at Georgetown

WASHINGTON, July 15.—A moderate earthquake shock was recorded at Georgetown University today. The disturbance lasted at 7:14 o'clock and ended at 8:08 o'clock.

The shock was along the east and west line and is estimated by Father Torrey, in charge of the observatory, to have been about 3,000 miles from Washington.

When he was called into Chief Lanford's room the afternoon of May 21, it was recognized that it was to be a test of strength between the detectives and the negro. It was a question of whether they would be able to break down the negro's story and force him to give out a true statement of all he knew about the mystery.

He was taken into the office of Chief Lanford shortly after noon. He was not returned to his cell until after 6 o'clock in the evening. For six hours questions were asked of him without ceasing.

Grilling Is Terrible.
"You might as well tell us the truth now," he was told when the long interrogation began.

Time after time he protested that he had told everything he knew, and that he had not seen Mary Phagan. He had, however, seen the girl in the factory on the morning of the attack. He had, however, seen the girl in the factory on the morning of the attack.

Late in the afternoon Lanford's secretary, G. C. February, was hurriedly called into the room. Another statement was being taken from the negro.

When Conley, looking worn and exhausted, was taken to his cell that night it was known that he had made another confession.

Had he acknowledged having a part in the crime or having actually killed Mary Phagan?

Biohazard Victim Saved After 10 Days
ST. LOUIS, July 15.—Physicians at the City Hospital today claimed the first victim of over 100 cases of biohazard after it had gained considerable headway.

After ten days' treatment, they say Edward B. Fischer, victim of the poison, will recover.

He was vague on several other points that made his story suspicious. He appeared to be holding something back.

Conley's story created a turmoil in police circles and aroused the public to a pitch of excitement that had not been equalled since the days following the slaying. It pointed to the certainty that Conley knew a great deal in regard to the murder, it had, however, no puzzle in the public mind of much of its credibility.

EVERGLADES CAN BE RECLAIMED, HALL SAYS

Geologist Has Just Completed Survey—Declares Vast Latent Wealth Is There.

Warren C. Hall, district engineer of the United States Geological Survey, returned to Atlanta Friday from the Florida Everglades where, in company with E. T. Perkins, M. O. Leitch and Isaac Handolph, he made a survey to determine the feasibility of reclaiming the great swamps.

Mr. Hall is pleased with the results of the investigation and declares it will be possible to reclaim most of the water-covered area.

"There are," said Mr. Hall, "thousands of square miles in the Everglades where no white man has ever set foot. I predict that just as soon as enough money can be appropriated and judiciously used this now useless territory can be turned into the most fertile farm land in the world."

Canal To Be Built.

"The first great task to be undertaken will be the construction of a canal which will connect Miami and Fort Myers, thus cutting the east and west coasts of Florida. This canal will be made navigable for the largest ships and will reduce the distance between these two points 150 miles."

Florida some time ago made an appropriation for drainage work. Several million dollars were spent. The work done is lost time and money uselessly spent for the water does not run the right way.

"An appropriation of $10,000,000 has been made recently for investigation also to determine exactly what can be done. Our report has gone in and $5,000,000 will be appropriated at once."

Battles of Okoches.

"The place where the drainage work previously done proved a success—Zooch, Fla., about eight miles west of Fort Lauderdale, a road and canal company purchased 10,000 acres of land for $1 an acre. This company is selling this land at $50 an acre."

The Everglades are about 20 feet above sea level and the water is made to run easily into the ocean by a canal system in the dry season. The soil is rich and black and the climate is ideal. No malaria is found in the center of the Everglades and Okoches—a beautiful lake about 10 miles from the center of the swamp, might term it. There is not a natural spring there, but one has been pumped in. There are several hundred of them, and as yet there is not a boat a continual splashing to be heard.

Killed Some Alligators.

"The air was very oppressive. So far this summer the temperature in the Everglades has been in the 90's and 100's degrees in the warmest day."

"We traveled many of the rivers and swamps. I may travel in combination with power yachts. In the evening, when the moon is bright, we eat in our boat and fish. I caught many bass as large as seven pounds and shot a number of snappers. The snappers are of great length. They have very large eyes and make a noise in their mouth."

"I enjoyed the trip very much and can confidently say that the opportunity and fabulous wealth available in the Everglades of Florida."

House Seems Sure To Pass Drugs Bill

The special drug bill has been made effective in the House for Tuesday. Indications are that it will pass. The bill provides for a limited enforcement of the law against the sale of narcotics. It allows for a right of appeal from the conviction and to be kept in stores. Inspectors are provided for. A special tax of $10 on drugs will maintain the system.

CHAPTER VI IN PHAGAN CASE

The Negro Conley's Confession That He Was Frank's Accomplice and Events Leading Up to Trial.

CHAPTER VI.

The day Frank told me that he had been up to get the girl, that he had let her fall, and that her head had hit against something, she didn't know what it was, and for some time she was in a dazed condition. I was standing by her side and she said she didn't know what she was doing. I said she was dead.

With this startling revelation, Jim Conley indicated his chief concern. Under the rack of a merciless hand, continued through the week-end of the 24th, he was weak and became desperate toward the law and came out with his remarkable affidavit, which had the reputation for the killing of Mary Phagan.

It was true, the negro simply had to tell the truth. He had no choice. He was in a desperate position and he had to get out of there. He was in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Time no false, the negro's story was wonderfully impressive to the thousands of people who were present. It was a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Negro, Blinks to Him.

observers entered the building, the tale of Mincey took on new importance. He was taken to the office of Attorney Rosser and there his statement was transcribed.

Story Causes Turmoil.

The publication of his accusations created great excitement in the city. It was a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Chief Lanford scouted the story and said he believed it to be a baseless charge. He had no doubt that the story was a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

conference of the attorneys June 24, and by agreement between counsel set the date for next Monday, July 23.

Conley Indictment Urged.

With the publication of the sensational charges of Mincey came a demand for an investigation of the Phagan case by the grand jury.

He looked at Mincey's history in every place he had lived in Georgia. He was a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Subsequent developments are expected. It is a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Subsequent developments are expected. It is a story of a man who had been in a desperate position and he had to get out of there.

Conley again set himself in opposition to this plan, declaring that the State had been prepared to go ahead since June 30 and that there was no valid reason apparent why it could not go on when called July 23.

Frank will go on trial for his life next Monday if no motion for a continuance is successful. The present indications are that no effort will be made for a postponement. Witnesses are being summoned by both sides, the judge has expressed his opinion that the trial will proceed, and the venue has been drawn.

The young factory superintendent will go before the tribunal expressing confidence in his acquittal. Through the three months that he has been imprisoned in a cell at the Tower his opinion never has left him for a moment. He is one of the most remarkable prisoners ever in the county jail. He has been assured and confident. He has talked little of the crime, even among his friends. He has read the papers and magazines closely. When he has been visited by his wife and other relatives, the conversation invariably has been on cheerful subjects. He has refused to be drawn into a discussion of the mystery which surrounded the Phagan case.

PINKERTON CHIEF SCORED BY LANFORD

SAYS PIERCE BROKE HIS PROMISE

Detective Head Also Asserts Phagan Evidence Private Sleuth Unearthed Was Plant.

Chief of Detective Lanford, by Second H. B. Pierce, head of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in Atlanta, Saturday for what he termed questionable procedure in connection with the Phagan murder investigation.

When application was made by the agency for permission to operate in Atlanta and the matter was under consideration by the Police Board, the promise was made that the Pinkerton's would work in harmony with the city detective department and would cooperate in the apprehension of criminals.

This promise, according to Lanford, has been kept by all connected with the agency with the exception of Pierce. The chief intimated that the Police Board would be asked to take action against Pierce personally.

Lanford hints at "plant."

"In the Phagan case Mr. Scott has reported to this department every day and has turned over all the evidence he has found," said Chief Lanford. "During his absence from the city a bloody stain and an envelope, supposed to have been that in which the money for the Phagan was placed, were turned over to the attorney for the defense, and no mention of the fact made to the detective department.

"The place where these articles were reported to have been found before were searched by officers so thoroughly that it was an absolute impossibility for them to have been found and before a search ten feet around had been made for blood spots.

"In addition to this the insurance company had all the rubbish removed from the part of the building and the floor scrubbed afterward and before the articles were said to have been found. They were not there at the time and if they were found there, the place, claims, they were placed there for a purpose.

Charles Brand of Faith.

"Mr. Pierce has not made good his promise (for the profile of his company) to the Police Board, and if the matter is taken up by the board, I will give them the facts."

The Police Board probably will take the matter up at its next meeting.

Harry Scott, who has conducted the investigation into the Phagan murder mystery for the Pinkerton's since the services of the agency were engaged, was subpoenaed Saturday as a witness in behalf of Leo M. Frank by counsel for the factory superintendent. The detective previously had been served with a subpoena from Solicitor Derry's office.

Inasmuch as Scott's attitude since from the first has appeared to be distinctly unfavorable to Frank, this move on the part of the defense was generally unexpected and was the cause of considerable surprise.

Scott, however, is known to be in possession of facts that seem on their face damaging to the negro convict, as well as facts that are being used to bring about the conviction of Frank.

"I wish it understood that I am wholly neutral in this matter," said Scott Saturday afternoon in remarking on the subpoena for the defense.

"The investigation was made by the Pinkerton's without fear or favor. We uncovered a large amount of evidence. Some of it was valuable. Some of it was worthless in the light of present developments. Some of it pointed strongly toward the guilt of Frank. Other evidence could be interpreted as being damaging to the negro."

"Our function is to present all the evidence to the jury."

FIGHT NEGRO DOBBS' MEN AS FEDERAL COOP FIRST OFFICIAL GAME

Dixie Lawmakers Roused by Wilson's Selection of Oklahoma Lawyer as Treasury Registrar.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The selection of Adam E. Patterson, a negro, of Muskogee, Okla., for Registrar of the Treasury by President Wilson has created a stir here among Southern Democrats, who declare they will fight the negro's confirmation to the last ditch.

Patterson, a lawyer and author of several treaties on the Democratic party, has received the endorsement of Senator Gore and Representative Carter of Oklahoma. It is said, with these two exceptions in the Oklahoma delegation is said against him.

Race Antagonism Seen.

Southern Democrats, including Representatives Davenport and Murray, of Oklahoma, condemn the selection of Patterson on the grounds that a position where he will exert authority over white men and women, thus antagonizing the race.

Besides, they point out that Oklahoma's Constitution makes the negro ineligible for office. The job for which Patterson has been selected pays $5,000 per year.

During the last three Republican administrations a negro has held this office. The first of the trio was Judson Lyons, of Augusta, Ga. Next came William T. Vernon, of Miami, Fla. The third and present negro Registrar is J. C. Napier, of Nashville, Tenn.

Believes Him Capable.

"While I believe this man to be capable," said Representative Davenport, "I do not believe any colored man should be placed in a position of authority over white men and women. I don't think anything ought to be done to accentuate the race question."

Representative Murray, commonly known as "Alfalfa Bill," said he was surprised at the President's selection of Patterson, and believed it was a political mistake on the latter's part. The registrar class in the Oklahoma Constitution, he said, made the negro a negligible factor in politics.

Confirmation Is Opposed.

Other Southern Democrats, while not hesitating to express themselves, refused to be quoted in regard to the matter. "That they will put their shoulders to the wheel and fight hard against the confirmation when it comes up in the Senate is certain, however," he said.

Patterson was selected from a number of negro applicants, including W. C. Chambers, of Charlotte, N. C., who had received the endorsement of several members of the State delegation.

Yankees Take Third Match; Another Win Brings Tennis Title

Special Cable to The Georgian.

WIMBLEDON, ENGL., July 26.—On the flaming red head of Maurice E. McLoughlin, the "California Comet" will rest the laurel for bringing the tennis title to the United States. Mr. Davis, who is a member of the Davis Cup tennis team, defeated McLoughlin yesterday.

McLoughlin, assisted by the veteran Harold Hackett, to-day played rings around H. Roger Barrett and C. F. Dixon in the doubles and by a surprising victory put the American team in the lead in the international match. Yesterday McLoughlin was out of form. To-day he was a whirlwind and, while Hackett played a steady and dependable game, it was McLoughlin's terrific serve and invincible passing that gave the Americans the decisive victory over England's best doubles team. The score of the match was 5-7, 6-2, 5-6, 7-5 and 6-4.

The matches Monday will bring together McLoughlin and Dixon and H. Barrett and C. F. Dixon. The latter, who is a member of the Davis Cup tennis team, defeated McLoughlin yesterday.

PINKERTON CHIEF SCORES BY LANFORD

SAYS PIERCE BRAKE HIS PROMISE

Detective Head Also Asserts Phagan Evidence Private, Sluith Unearthed Was Plant.

Chief of Detectives Lanford scored H. H. Pierce, head of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in Atlanta Saturday for what he termed questionable procedure in connection with the Phagan murder investigation.

When application was made by the agency for permission to search in Atlanta and the matter was under consideration by the Police Board, the records were made that the Pinkerton's would work in harmony with the city detective department and would cooperate in the apprehension of criminals.

This promise, according to Lanford, has been kept by all connected with the agency with the exception of Pierce. The Chief intimated that the Police Board would be asked to take action against Pierce personally.

Lanford flirts at "plant" in the Phagan case Mr. Scott has reported to this department every day and has turned over all the evidence he has found," said Chief Lanford.

"During his absence from the city a bloody stick and an envelope, supposed to have been that in which the money due Sluith Phagan was placed, were turned over to the attorneys for the defense, and no mention of the fact made to the detective department."

"The place where these articles were reported to have been found had been searched by officers so thoroughly that it was an absolute impossibility for them to have been overlooked. A search for ten feet around had been made for blood spots."

In addition to this, the insurance company had all the building and the other searched afterward and before the articles were said to have been found. They were not there at the time, and if they were found there, Mr. Pierce claims, they were placed there for a purpose.

Charles Breaux of Faith, Mr. Pierce has not made good his promise for the promise of his company to the Police Board, and if the matter is taken up by the board, I will give them the facts."

The Police Board probably will take the matter up at its next meeting.

Henry Scott, who has conducted the investigation into the Phagan murder mystery for the agency since the services of the agency were engaged, was subpoenaed Saturday as a witness in behalf of Leo M. Frank by counsel for the factory superintendent. The detective previously had been served with a subpoena from Solicitor Dora's office.

Inasmuch as Scott's attitude almost from the start has appeared to be distinctly unfavorable to Frank, this move on the part of the defense is generally unexpected and was the cause of considerable surprise.

Scott, however, is known to be in possession of facts that seem on their face damaging to the negro, as well as facts that are being used to bring about the conviction of Frank.

"I wish it understood that I am not neutral in this matter," said Scott Saturday afternoon, remarking on the subpoena for his testimony. "The investigation was conducted by the Pinkertons without fear or favor. We uncovered a large amount of evidence. Some of it was valuable. Some of it was worthless in the light of present developments. Some of it pointed strongly toward the guilt of Frank. Other evidence would be interpreted as very damaging to the negro."

"Our function is to present all the evidence to the jury."

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—After a two-year search, extending across seven States, Mrs. Lily Lamar Martin, of Fulton County, Georgia, has located her little daughter, Sarah Alice, at 1242 West Thirty-eighth street, Los Angeles.

Humane Officer McLaughlin, at the request of the mother, applied for a writ of habeas corpus ordering the child's father, A. R. Martin, to produce the child in Judge Wilbur's courtroom Monday.

Martin is charged by McLaughlin with kidnapping the child from his mother after he custody had been awarded Mrs. Martin.

The litigation with the little girl as the center date back to December 28, 1908, when A. R. Martin filed a petition for divorce in the Fulton County courts.

He charged his wife with adultery and cruel treatment, asserting that she had pointed a pistol at him, treated to a great deal of violence, and had threatened to poison him by putting arsenic in his food.

After the divorce was granted, Mrs. Martin fled with the child to Los Angeles, where she was living at the time of the filing of the petition.

Mrs. Martin at one time filed a cross-petition, denying the charges made by her husband, and praying the court to allow her to keep the little girl.

Similar surprises may be expected from the defense as well as from the evidence that has become known to the public.

Two operatives who began turning up this sort of startling evidence the moment they were placed on the case were taken off the Phagan mystery by the Dinkerton agency.

Both sides announce themselves ready for the trial to proceed. It is regarded as doubtful that the defense will ask for another continuance.

AD CONTEST IS 'CROWN-UPS' GAME, TOO

Fine Opportunity for Winning an Automobile by Work Among Business Men Uptown.

The American and Georgian's Want Ad Contest is opening up in great style.

Don't think this is just a "side game." It isn't every day that an automobile or a plane or a trip to California is given for a bit of light work.

A young man or young woman with some business ability and some spare time can win a prize worth while by working uptown among the business men.

Real estate firms, retail stores, every kind of business offers opportunity for want ads, and they count just the same as house-to-house business.

Some of the contestants have brought in prize lists and others should do it.

The Want Ad Man is planning a campaign to help the contestants.

One young man, in his teens, won big success on his first day out. He will suggest want ads in one street. It may be that you'll find something an ad worth being put in a hint that she could rent that vacant room or hire a new cook or bring an old piece of furniture will always be an advertisement.

The coupon published on another will count 1,000 votes for a start-up. It will help them spread the news and assist them in rounding up the business and the votes.

TO PRESENT NEW EVIDENCE AGAINST FRANK Kidnaped Child Found After Two Years

TRAIL LEADS ANOTHER TO PACIFIC

LOS ANGELES, July 26.—After a two-year search, extending across seven States, Mrs. Lily Lamar Martin, of Fulton County, Georgia, has located her little daughter, Sarah Alice, at 1247 West Thirty-eighth street, Los Angeles.

Humans Officer McLaughlin, at the request of the mother, applied for a writ of habeas corpus ordering the child's father, A. R. Martin, to produce the child in Judge Wilbur's court Monday.

Martin is charged by McLaughlin with kidnapping the child from its mother after it custody had been awarded Mrs. Martin. The Martins were divorced in Georgia April 18, 1911. The mother is now in Dallas, Tex., but is leaving for Los Angeles to regain possession of the child.

The litigation with the little girl as the center dates back to December 28, 1908, when A. R. Martin filed a petition for divorce in the Fulton County court.

Mrs. Lily Martin, with grossly human and cruel treatment, asserting that she had pointed a pistol at him, tried to stab him with a butcher knife and had threatened to poison him by putting strychnine in his food.

He asserted also that she had threatened to kill their daughter, Sarah Alice, who was 6 years old at the time of the divorce.

Mrs. Martin at once filed a cross-bill, denying the charges made by her husband, and praying the court to allow her to take the child.

THE WEATHER

Forecast for Atlanta and Georgia--Local thunderstorms Saturday and Sunday.

Prosecution and defense continued their preparations for the Frank trial Saturday, the last hour of interviewing new witnesses and gathering up the stray ends of evidence giving a fair promise that the trial will start as scheduled next Monday forenoon.

That Solicitor Dorsey has nearly a score of important witnesses whose testimony has been carefully guarded from the defense and the general public is well known. These witnesses have come to his office from time to time, and the Solicitor has refused to give out the vaguest intimation of the line of testimony they would give at the trial.

The prosecution has reserved itself evidence to spring as a surprise during the trial. On these points the State depends to clinch its case against the young fugitive superintendant. Some of them will be called to bear out different portions of the negro Conley's affidavit, in which was told the story of the disposal of Mary Phagan's body. The Solicitor understood to have witnesses who will corroborate portions of Conley's story which have been under the severest fire.

Thinks Conley Story True.
The Solicitor several times has announced that he believes Conley in telling the truth in the essential statements of his affidavit. He has strengthened his belief by interviewing many people who were in a position to know of different circumstances mentioned in Conley's story. The only possibility of an alteration in the State's theory is that the time element may be modified in certain respects.

Similar surprises may be expected from the defense. Attorney Rosser has not been communicative with the newspaper men. The few bits of evidence that have become known to the public were obtained in spite of him. Except for the Mincey affidavit, published in The Georgian, most of the important evidence of the defense has been so carefully guarded as to make it still a matter of conjecture. The general plan of Frank's defense can be surmised, but the contents of the hundred or more affidavits in the possession of Attorney Rosser remain a deep mystery.

"Plant" Generally Suspected.
No one expects at this time that the piece of rope found on the first floor will play any large part in the trial. Neither side is convinced of their genuineness. The suspicion of "plant" has prevailed from the time of its discovery.

Two operatives who began turning up this sort of startling evidence the moment they were placed on the case soon were taken off the Phagan mystery by the Pinkerton agency. Both sides announce themselves ready for the trial to proceed. It is regarded as doubtful that the defense will ask for another continuance, except on account of the absence of material witnesses or the illness of counsel. About 100 witnesses already have been summoned by the State.
