Defense Fights Hard to Establish its Theory of Killing

GEN. HUERTA IS ARMING JINGOS

Hated Against Americans in Capital Stirred by President—Lind Warned Not to Come.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The administration today decided to ignore entirely the note sent by President Huerta to the American government and to direct Special Envoy Lind to proceed to Mexico City without delay on his arrival at Vera Cruz to-night, unless he be held back by armed force. "The President declines to be bluff," stated a prominent government official today.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—With the approval of Provisional President Huerta, arms were issued today to the cadets of the National Military Academy, who yesterday drafted a resolution praising Huerta for declaring John Lind, the special American envoy, persona non grata to the Mexican Government.

A number of residents in the American colony, who have fortunes invested in Mexico, are planning to make a demonstration Sunday when the protests will be lodged against the action of President Wilson in sending a personal representative to Mexico City and urging that the Mexican Government be upheld. Foreign Minister Aldape and other members of the Cabinet are doing all in their power to arouse the patriotism and enthusiasm of the people. Meetings of young hot blooded Americans are being encouraged. They are standing up for President Huerta in his defiance of the Stars and Stripes, are being encouraged. Mexican secret service agents have been detailed to watch every movement that Mr. Lind makes here and the envoy will be under constant surveillance.

The newspapers today carried flaming stories of "Yankee interferences" and warned the State Department to recall Mr. Lind from Vera Cruz and not allow him to come to Mexico City.

Direct consequences are promised if President Wilson and Secretary Bryan continue their present course of trying to settle the internal affairs of Mexico while withholding official recognition of the Huerta administration. "All the papers carry warm words of praise for Huerta and promise that he will stand like a rock in behalf of his policy of Mexicans for Mexican affairs."

United States warships in the harbor at Vera Cruz were in wireless communication with the New Hampshire, upon which Mr. Lind is coming, and it is expected that the New Hampshire will reach Vera Cruz about 4 o'clock to-night.

Some Would Ignore Lind. There was a gathering of Cabinet Ministers and Huerta adherents in Congress at the National Palace today at which the existing American-Mexican situation was thoroughly discussed. Some are for completely ignoring Mr. Lind, while the rest insist that he shall be expelled unconditionally.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 8.—In a race, collision between two freight trains which occurred Friday morning on the Ala. and N. Railroad at Falato, a few miles below here, Engineer P. B. Bosworth was slightly injured. The train was delayed six or eight hours.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Theodore Kytko, a handwriting expert, was the first witness examined today in the trial of Murray D. No reason was given for the several times unreliable.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary of State Bryan today issued the following statement relative to Governor Lind and his mission to Mexico: "The statement of the Mexican Government in respect to the sending of Governor Lind as adviser to the president of Mexico is entirely within his rights and that the United States Government is not bound to do anything to prevent his going. His going will be regarded as an act of the president of Mexico and his mission is understood."

JOHN JOHNSTON OF 3 RAILS OR CRACKERS IN FIRST

United States Senator Victim of Pneumonia After Nine Days' Illness at Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Senator Joseph P. Johnston, of Alabama, died at 9 o'clock this morning at his apartment in the Virginia Hotel. Senator Johnston had been ill for eight days, suffering from pneumonia. As a mark of respect to the memory of Senator Johnston, the Senate adjourned immediately after assembling at noon.

Senator Overman offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee of Senators to take part in the funeral and ceremonies and to accompany the body to Birmingham, where burial is to be made.

The Vice President appointed the following committee: Senators Hancock, of Alabama; Bacon, of Vermont; Chamberlain, of Illinois; Clarke, of South Carolina; Johnson, of North Carolina; Thompson, of Virginia; and Cullinger, of Georgia. Bradley and Keating were alternate members.

The funeral jury will leave here to-night, and is expected to reach Birmingham tomorrow night. The funeral will take place Sunday morning.

Senator Joseph Forney Johnston of Birmingham was born in North Carolina in 1842. He served in the Confederate army from the beginning of the war to its conclusion, and was wounded four times. He rose from a private to the rank of captain, and was frequently mentioned honorably for gallant conduct.

Senator Johnston served four years as governor of Alabama, before his election to Congress in 1897. His first election to the Senate was to the expiration term of Senator E. W. Pettus in 1901. He was re-elected in 1907 to his present term.

Senator Johnston's death at this time undoubtedly will bring about some political change in Alabama. His seat was being contested at the time of his death by Congressman J. C. Underwood and the fight between them had grown very bitter. It is practically certain that Underwood will not be permitted, now that Johnston is dead, to have the succession unopposed.

There has been talk of Congressman Underwood as a candidate against Mr. Hobson, and the death of Senator Johnston likely will revive that. His immediate successor will be named by Governor O'Neal, which means that Mr. Hobson will not get the immediate appointment.

Mobile Offers Stevens To Fill Vacancy. MOBILE, Aug. 8.—Mobile will ask Governor O'Neal to appoint State Senator F. P. Stevens to the vacant seat in the United States Senate, caused by the death of Senator Joseph P. Johnston.

Immediate Election May Be Necessary. MONTGOMERY, Aug. 8.—Governor O'Neal may be compelled to call an extra session of the Alabama Legislature to order an election at once to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate, as it is generally believed at the Capital here today that under the Seventeenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution the Governor has not the power to appoint a successor to the late Senator J. P. Johnston, who died in Washington today.

Medical Bill is Passed, with Amendment

After a bitter night in which Representative Wohlwendler of Missouri, charged under influence by advocates of the measure, the House of Representatives Friday morning passed the Carlin medical bill, known as the medical practice act, by a vote of 191 to 3, amended so as to prevent the members of the allopathic school of medicine having a majority of the proposed State Board of Medical Examiners. The original bill provided for a board of five allopaths, two eclectics and one homeopath.

The original bill, it was alleged by its opponents, was drawn by representatives of the American Medical Association, referred to on the floor of the House as the "medical trust." It was favorably reported by the committee, and a minority report opposing the bill was offered by E. J. Arnold, of Henry County, a member of the Hygiene and Sanitation Committee.

Chairman Brooks of Jefferson, who occupied the Speakership during the early part of the consideration of the bill, broke a tie vote on the amendment of Governor of Missouri, which was carried to the right by the original bill. The chairman's vote carried the amendment, which was carried to the right by the original bill.

The bill as amended and passed provides for a State board of control, divided into three sections, and two homeopaths, thus preventing any arbitrary ruling based on the State board. The bill, however, takes through a combination that it is thought impossible to effect. The amended bill was approved by both factions.

The bill will raise the standard of physicians in Georgia to the 40 percent. It provides that applicants for license as practicing physicians must have attended a recognized school of medicine for four

FOREMAN OF FACTORY GIVES STARTLING NEW EVIDENCE FOR FRANK

That the door leading from the entryway on the first floor of the National Pencil Factory, which had been nailed up since the first of January, was found broken open shortly after the murder of Mary Phagan was the startling testimony of N. V. Darley at the trial of Leo Frank Friday afternoon.

No testimony of this nature had been presented before and no intimation of such a discovery had been made during the investigation of the murder mystery. Its production, if the statements remain uncontroverted, opens up the possibility that the murderer of Mary Phagan attacked her on the first floor, broke open the door into the rear of the building and threw the body down one of two trap doors, one of which opens onto a chute and the other onto a steep stairway.

The defense did not appear to be abandoning its theory that Conley might have attacked Mary Phagan and thrown her down the elevator shaft only a few feet distant or down the scuttlehole right by the elevator. On the contrary, Reuben Arnold in questioning Darley and other witnesses emphasized the case, which which such a deed might have been accomplished. It seemed to be the effort of the defense at this time not to center upon any theory, but to show the jurors that the negro might have perpetrated the crime and disposed of the body in any one of four or five ways.

Darley, in advancing the striking possibility that the body had been carried through the door on the first floor into the rear of the building, said that the door had been nailed up again a few days after the crime as mysteriously as it had been broken open. Darley Suspected Conley.

Darley said that he had kept watch of employees after the murder and that his suspicion immediately had fastened upon Conley because of the negro's peculiar actions. He said he had detailed the day watchman to maintain an espionage over Conley. C. B. Dalton's story received a severe blow at the hands of Darley. Darley said that no negro night watchman had been employed at the factory before April, 1913. Dalton did not visit at the factory prior to this time and said he was met by a negro night watchman.

Solicitor Dorsey, cross-examining Darley, made the witness admit that detectives had been in the factory after the crime and might themselves have broken open the door. The solicitor has brought out that if the body had been thrown down the chute in the rear of the factory, it would have dropped behind a pile of boxes where it would have been more effectively hidden than where it was discovered by Newt Lee. The solicitor claimed that the trap door over the rear stairway into the basement was nailed.

The attorneys for Frank vigorously assailed Friday the stories of two of the State's two of the State's negro witnesses, Jim Conley, the accuser of Frank, and Albert McKnight, who said he saw Frank at the Selig house Saturday afternoon, April 28. The motorman and conductor of the street car on which Mary Phagan is believed to have come to town the day of her death both testified that they know the girl and that she was on their car which arrived at Broad and Hunter Streets not before 12:07 o'clock. She stayed on the car, they said, until the car reached Broad and Hunter Streets, which was about 12:10 o'clock. Consequently, it would have been impossible for her to reach the factory before 12:11 or 12:12 o'clock.

If the testimony of the two street car employees is accurate, it completely upsets Jim Conley's story that he saw Mary Phagan enter the factory before Monteen Stover came in. By the Stover girl's own testimony she entered the factory at 12:05 o'clock and left at 12:10 o'clock. Thus, she had gone by the time the Phagan girl arrived.

It also serves to destroy the significance of the Stover girl's testimony that Frank was absent from his office when she arrived there. As Mary Phagan had not yet arrived, according to the testimony of the street car men, it could hardly be regarded as a suspicious circumstance that Frank was not in his office, if it develops that he really was not. The defense also contends that Miss Stover, who admits she did not enter the inner office, could have looked through the doorway without seeing Frank.

STATE IS FORGED TO PIN HOPES ON CONLEY

Must Stand By White Defense Seeks Weak Link in the Negro's Story.

By JAMES B. NEVIN. As the defense in the Frank case gets under way, it is evident enough...

The State eliminated its case thrillingly and with deadly effect in the Negro.

He came through the fire of cross-examination, exhaustive and thorough...

Through the cross-examination, however, there ran an evident vein of deadly purpose upon the part of the defense...

The question is, did he go TOO FAR? Did he in his last minute effort to get in EVERYTHING that possibly might work against the defendant...

That is the defense's task—THIS UNDOING OF CONLEY. Conley the State's All.

Conley is the heart and soul of the State's case—without Conley, the State is rendered helpless.

That great detective, William J. Burns, says "they always criticize the Negro."

Burns declares there never was a lead to a criminal that did not have in it SOMETHING of a fatal weakness...

Today is the defense's day in court—during its progress, which may be for a week or more, even as the State's day lasted 24 hours...

Well, maybe he can, and maybe he can not—at least, in the name of justice and decency and all that is right...

One Side of the Case. During the progress of the State's case, the defense has led far into the gloom...

Conley's story has not YET been broken down—no. But it MAY be broken down.

In an article a few days ago, I said this, and I feel like repeating it now: "In judging this Frank case, purely from the State's own standpoint, there is nothing so important as the TIME ELEMENT..."

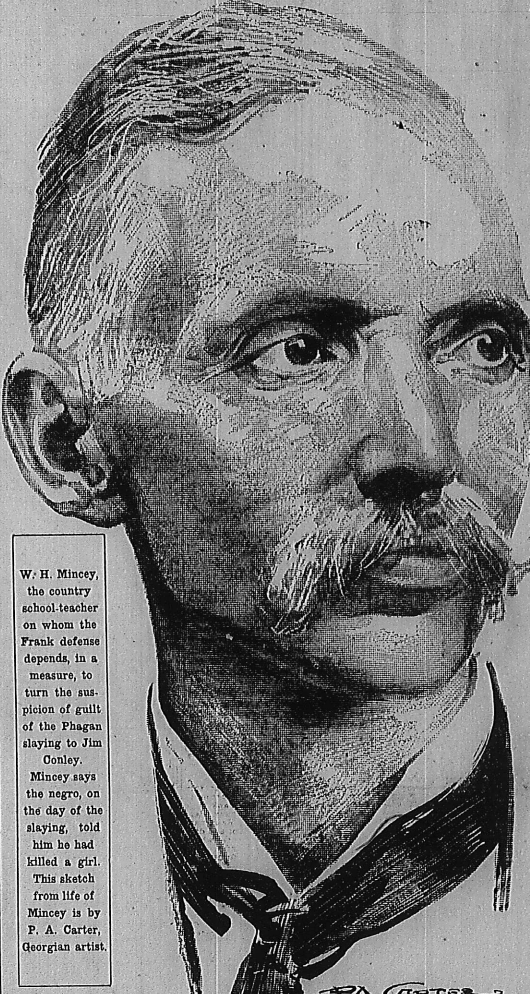

Remember, too, that the only weak link which appears to knowledge of suspicion of any unimpeachable conduct upon the part of Frank is—again—Conley.

When it came to corroborating Conley, Dalton proved a lame corroborator. The ugly, nasty charge of perjury and degeneracy, gibby dropped from the lips of Conley, rests EXCLUSIVELY AND ENTIRELY on Conley's word.

Remember, the defense has hardly started its story yet—it may be able to make abundant those very prophecies the State has set up.

MAN WHO SAYS NEGRO JIM CONLEY CONFESSED SLAYING OF LITTLE GIRL

W. H. Mincey, the country school-teacher on whom the Frank defense depends, in a measure, to turn the suspicion of guilt of the Phagan slaying to Jim Conley. Mincey says the day of the slaying, told him he had killed a girl. This sketch from life of Mincey is by P. A. Carter, Georgian artist.

honorably sustained witness, that the tale Jim Conley tells is utterly absurd—and IMPOSSIBLE!

Will you be prepared, if forced to a conviction against your will, if it be that way right with you, to say to Frank: "All right, you came through the fire, at times seemingly sure to consume you, unhurt and unscathed, but you came through, and I am content."

STATE SEES BITS OF EVIDENCE AS ROPE STRANDS

Chain as Strong as Its Weakest Link, but Cord Must Be Cut Thread by Thread.

By O. B. KEELER. They call it a chain that the State has forged, or has tried to forge, to hold Leo Frank to the murder of Mary Phagan.

But isn't a rope? A chain, you know, is as strong as its weakest link. Take one link out and the chain comes apart.

With a rope, it is different. Strand after strand might be cut or broken, and the rope still hold a certain weight. Then might come a time when the cutting of one more strand would cause the rope to break.

And that is what the various bits of circumstantial evidence might better be called—strands of the rope of evidence against Leo Frank.

Applying the system of the well-known Dupin to the case in point—and REGARDING IT, BE IT UNDERSTOOD, STRICTLY FROM THE STATE'S VIEWPOINT—an analysis of part of the evidence against Leo Frank follows:

First off, the isolated circumstance of Conley's ability to write would seem as futile as a smoke wreath in maintaining Conley's guilt, except against Conley himself.

But to that fact is added the fact that Frank knew Conley could write. Still, the thread is flimsy, and even connected with the case against Frank, would appear worthless.

But when it develops that Frank knew Conley could write, and knowing the police were trying to find the author of the murder notes—when Frank, well aware of these things, did not inform the police that Frank was lying when he said he could not write, the following deductions appear:

(1) That Frank did not want to connect Conley with the murder, and the natural and prompt inclination of a suspected man who knew nothing of the crime himself, so that (2) it appeared Frank knew something of the murder, and (3) he knew that Conley knew something of the murder, which (4) justified the conclusion on the part of the State that Frank was lying.

Of course, this strand may be broken, and the State will have to prove that Frank never knew the police were hunting for Conley's name to write before the police learned it themselves.

But there is one pretty substantial strand of evidence, the State would have all having its genesis in the simple fact that Conley never told his wife and at first denied it.

Why did Conley do this? Surely would he fall to carry the burden of the crime. There must be other reasons.

Conley's story is presented only by reason of many strands that surround and support it, and are weakened by the dry rot of self-interest. Conley's story never would win a verdict against Leo Frank.

LEO FRANK AIDS HIS LAWYERS IN QUESTIONING OF WITNESSES For First Time Prisoner Takes Active Interest in Trial for His Life

ARCHITECT IS QUIZZED TO REFUTE TEST MONY OF NEGRO IN FRANK'S HOME

Continued From Page 2. ing a cot, a bed or a sofa?—A. No. Q. Did you find anything that looked like a bedroom, except the ladies' room?—A. No.

Hooper—Cross-Examined. Attorney Hooper took the witness on cross-examination. Q. You told us the location of the body?—A. Mr. Scott, in the factory?—A. Yes. Q. You found a gun in the basement?—A. Yes.

Arnold objected and his objection was sustained. Q. You based all your measurements on Mr. Scott's location of the body?—A. Yes.

Q. If that was wrong, all of your measurements were wrong?—A. Yes. Q. You found a gun in the basement?—A. Yes.

Q. On the third floor you depended for light on the front door and the window?—A. Yes.

Q. There is also a gas jet further back?—A. Yes. Q. On the first floor you say there is a trap door near the elevator two feet by two feet three inches, leading to the basement?—A. Yes.

Q. A man of your size would have a hard time getting through it?—A. Yes. Q. Two people couldn't get through?—A. No.

The scuttle hole back on the first floor leads to the basement?—A. Yes. Q. You don't look in a curved line down the stairs?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, what do these curved lines show?—A. They indicate the direction he probably went. Several of the Jurymen were inattentive during these examinations.

Q. Anyone coming into this office would be if anyone was in there, wouldn't he, if the door adjoining was open?—A. Yes.

Q. Nobody standing on the fourth floor at the head of the stairway could see down to the second floor?—A. I don't think they could. Q. Don't you know they couldn't?—A. They might have a little view.

Arnold took the witness on the direct examination. At the suggestion of Frank Arnold asked the witness near Frank's office there was a lavatory.

Q. How long since you took these photographs?—A. About a month. Q. How long since you took the diagram of the factory?—A. About a month.

Q. How long since you took the photograph of the kitchen?—A. About a month. Q. How long since you took the photograph of the room to the left of the kitchen?—A. About a month.

CONLEY'S STORY PUT IN PECULIAR LIGHT WHEN DEFENSE CALLS SCOTT

Harry Scott, of the Pinkerton agency showed up the "confession" of Conley in a peculiar light when he was called to the stand by the Frank defense Thursday afternoon.

The detective, questioned by Luther Hooper, told the jury that Conley, when he had told everything, he had accused Frank of the killing and had made himself an accessory after the fact by declaring that he had hidden the body in the room.

When every motive for holding anything back had been swept away by his third affidavit, still denied by Conley (Scott) many of the alleged circumstances to which he testified while he was on the stand the first three days of the week.

It will be the contention of the defense that these many additions to Conley's tale, inasmuch as all reason for concealing them had passed, were made in order to bring his accusations against Frank and his confession of his own part in the crime, are pure fabrications of the black man's imagination, as are the other details of his tale.

Conley said that he had grilled and badgered Conley repeatedly about the facts of the case, but that he never had heard a shrill scream when he was standing in the room. He told the detectives that he did not see Jerome Quinn or Morten Stover enter the factory, although he was sure that he had seen them both and so testified on the stand.

Conley said on the stand when he was questioned by Hooper that he thought he had told all these things to the jury the first time, but that he was making his third and final affidavit in order to bring his accusations against Frank and his confession of his own part in the crime, are pure fabrications of the black man's imagination, as are the other details of his tale.

It takes a baby a year or more to get six teeth.

In a year or less six of your teeth will be seriously damaged by lack of proper care. Proper care does not mean that you have to spend an hour a day scrubbing your teeth. Just two or three minutes in the morning and two or three at night.

And the care that you give your teeth is an investment that comes back a hundred fold in better health, and a better chance to make your mark in the world.

A few cents invested in a daily toothbrush will pay for itself into the regular habit of tooth care in common sense of health for your entire future.

You too should use COLGATE'S RIBBON DENTAL CREAM.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX WRITES OF "THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME," BY HALL CAINE

The Brilliant American Poetess Analyzes the Tragedy of the Woman Whose Child Had No Father, the Horror of Her Loveless Marriage and the Great Problem of This Day.

Look at the Picture Below, Then Look at Yourself.
You Can Find in This Picture More Information About "How to Succeed" Than Carnegie or Rockefeller Could Give You in Two Hours Talk.
(Copyright, 1915)

Work, hurry, plan, achieve—the others rest. That is the big secret of success. The turtle won the race against the hare in the fable, because the turtle walked ALL THE TIME. He could not run very fast but HE KNEW ENOUGH NOT TO LIE DOWN AND GO TO SLEEP. Take a lesson from that turtle. Take a lesson from this picture.

Your competitors are asleep on the grass. They are thinking that it is too hot to work. They are pitying themselves. They will have more cause to pity themselves later for having pitted themselves so much NOW.

Don't envy the man who is paddling a canoe and telling some young person with a high color what wonderful things he is going to do NEXT WINTER. Let him paddle his canoe and talk about himself.

YOU WORK NOW.

Lucky the man who works in August, lucky the man who is found by the hottest sun's rays ATTENDING TO BUSINESS. When you are racing side by side with others, and when all are running, you can not do more than keep even.

Now, while others rest, is your chance to get ahead. Take it. Don't pick this up and say to yourself that it is a rather nice picture, and put it down again. LOOK at it, study it. THEN LOOK AT YOURSELF.

Ask yourself, and don't deceive yourself in the answer, whether you are the man WALKING in this picture, or whether you are one of those figures lying asleep on the grass.

The answer to that question will answer your question as to what your probable position will be in the world a few years from now.

There is a better sermon on success in this picture by Tad than in all the nice interviews given out by Mr. Rockefeller telling how he saved his first dollar, or by Mr. Carnegie saying what a wonderful thing it is to give away libraries WITH NO BOOKS IN THE LIBRARIES.

July is gone. If you wasted that month, don't waste more time now or next. Start off in the right way in August. WALK fast. WORK hard. THINK for yourself, look ahead.

Remember that no man ever hurt himself with too much work.

IT'S WHAT YOU DO BETWEEN WORKING HOURS THAT HURTS YOU.

Remember also, that no man cheats his employer. You can only cheat yourself by doing a thing less well than you know how to do it. Be the steady walker. Be the man who gives time when others rest, be the man who gets ahead.

And if you really try, good luck to you. If you don't, you'll be HALLU. This doesn't fail.

HALL CAINE.

Frederick the Great

By REV. THOS. B. GREGORY.

FREDERICK THE GREAT became King of Prussia one hundred and seventy-three years ago—May 21, 1740. It was not much of a triumph then, but the little man in the blue coat with the red trimmings made it one of the first powers of the Continent.

A very lovable old fellow, in many ways, was Frederick the Great. Underneath the king there was ever visible the man. After he had conquered his political position, he made his nobles and aristocrats treat the common people fairly. He personally went to the jail but laws were instituted. He mortally hated fanaticism and bigotry. When the churchmen attempted to invade him in religious persecution, he replied: "Let the parsons go to Heaven their own way, and let every body else do the same."

At heart he was favorable to democratic institutions. When King George wanted to hire soldiers of him to fight the Americans he indignantly spurned the proposition, and refused to let the Hessians pass through his territory on their way to join the British. He admired the things for which the Americans were fighting as ardently as he did the persons, qualities and solidary spirit of the man who led their armies.

HALL CAINE'S latest work of fiction, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," is a striking illustration of the change which has taken place in the world of literature during the last score of years.

For frank realism and courageous attacks upon time-worn traditions, it takes the lead of all other books written by all other authors.

The heroine of this novel is a young English girl, reared by an angelic mother and a traditionally brutal British father.

The father is a self-made man, who attains great wealth, and who marries his daughter to a debauched man of title.

The girl's feelings and ideas are not taken into consideration in the least. Neither has she been instructed regarding the meaning of marriage. The death of her mother when she was a mere child deprived her of the one tender tie, and left her with only the companionship of disagreeable relatives or paid attendants.

From the hour of her marriage the trials and problems of life begin to present themselves to this young girl. With the first approach of the husband as a lover, all her womanly instincts arise in revolt and the bride refuses to become a wife.

Father, aunt, and clergymen are called into consultation, to small avail. Afraid as the girl is of her father, she is still more terrified at the thought of giving herself to her husband.

She insists upon returning home to her father, but is finally prevailed upon to go away with the husband, if he will leave her undisturbed until he can win her affections.

To this situation the husband consents, wishing to avoid a public scandal. However, his method of winning his bride's affections is not a successful one. Intemperance and vulgarity are among his characteristics and the young wife finds herself growing more and more disgusted with him, daily.

Then comes the designing adventuress, in the guise of an old school friend and relative, who enters the home and becomes the mistress of the husband.

Had as the man is, by nature and habit, one cannot help feeling that his position in his own home was a sorry one, and his affiliation with a woman of his own type does not seem at all surprising.

However, it ends all possibility of his ever winning the heart of his wife. Just at this moment the ideal man enters upon the scene and new complications arise.

Heart, soul, brain and body awaken simultaneously in the young wife, and it is quite naturally a blow to the husband's pride and to his self-conceit when he discovers that the chaste Diana, who has refused her husband's kisses, is an expectant mother.

The wife runs away, alone, and goes to London, where her child is born, and where, in the present phase of the story now running in Hearst's Magazine, she is facing poverty and despair in her efforts to support herself and child.

We must remember that she was a very young and perfectly ignorant girl, knowing nothing of life, of the world, or of human nature, when she was plunged into all these distressing situations. All her instincts were high and fine, yet through the curious complications of her destiny, she became the mother of a child of a man she loved while married to a man she loathed.

Mighty problems face her in this situation. Everywhere she sees women despised and shunned because they have brought forth children with love only to legitimize birth.

Her young mind is torn and tortured with all the great problems suggested by these experiences. Meantime, the lover she believes to be dead is sailing on the high seas searching for strange goals and wholly unconscious of all that has happened to the woman of his heart.

Besides these two central figures are several other very interesting characters: one a beautiful young woman who clopes with a clergyman connected with the school where this young girl was educated. In the midst of her great distress, in her efforts to make a living for her child, she comes upon them in the slums of London; the clergyman dying and the woman selling herself, soul and body, to supply him with the necessities of life.

Just how Mr. Caine is going to deal with all these characters eventually is a question to all readers of his remarkable novel.

No amount of brilliant writing and no amount of realistic pen pictures can change to any marked degree the situation of a woman who becomes a mother without the sanction of the law.

Birth needs, first and foremost, both the legitimate call of love and the sanction of marriage to make it ideal and beautiful.

When either element is lacking the child is not well-born in the fullest meaning of that word.

Physically, mentally and morally the child may be perfectly equipped to meet the demands of life, with only love as a dowry from both parents; but we live in a world which has been obliged to make social laws to protect its social rights, and where there is a flaw in the birth certificate of a child, in this respect, it is sure to cause suffering and trouble sooner or later for all concerned.

But Mr. Caine's story will set people to thinking along broader and kinder lines regarding these topics.

It presents great subjects for the mature deliberation of all classes, and the followers of all creeds. The methods of public charitable institutions toward erring women are fully illustrated in this novel, and will no doubt lead to much discussion and many protests. Read the great story, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me."

Hall Caine's extraordinary novel "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," may be begun in the number of Hearst's Magazine now on the newsstands. A complete synopsis of previous chapters is printed in the magazine.

The Woman With the Secret Eyes

By WINIFRED BLACK.

SHE lives down in the valley by the running water, the woman with the secret eyes. She has three children, a boy and two girls; her husband has gone away, they say.

She is poor, and she is angry about it. She does not like the old house by the running water and she hates the song the water sings all day and all night.

"If I could only get up on the hill," she says whenever a neighbor will stop to talk with her, "it would be better up there. See what my lives the people on the hill live. They have company and the lights shine through their windows far, far into the night; and they laugh and sing, and down here, where I live, we hear only the water—all day and all night the water."

And he's smart.

"My children don't like it here, either. I am going to send them away so you'll hear it—all day and all night, the running of the water there by the door."

"The boy is going away to the city. Did you see the new suit I bought him? Oh, I can manage when I have to, and the new shoes, too, and the hat? Nothing better in town than those clothes—he's as good as the rest now."

And he's smart, too; he will make his way, and then we will live on the hill, too, maybe.

"The girls are going, too. I shall see to that. Did you notice the pretty new hats I have bought them? Not a girl in town has prettier ones—and their stockings, too. Some day they shall have a piano like the little girls up there on the hill. I will get it for them. You'll see, you'll see. They won't always be so poor."

Last night when I took a walk by the running water I met the three children, far, far out on the road toward town, and I saw a man alink through the low trees to the door of the woman with the secret eyes. I heard the woman's voice. She was laughing a cruel, wicked laugh, a dangerous laugh like the warning of a snake, and the man laughed, too.

Tomorrow the three children will have more new things to make them look like the children in the houses up there on the hill—and the woman with the secret eyes will laugh again and be proud of the fine shoring her children make—and all this time she is digging, digging, digging a pit for their poor little feet for the people of the town are beginning to whisper.

They nod together, the old women; they grin together, the old men—and the children wonder why it is that people look so strangely at them when they put on their new finery and go out—to be seen.

"As good as the rest!" Poor woman with the secret eyes, don't you know, can't you understand that those children would be better off if they went barefoot, ragged and had too little to eat, and carried with them into the comprehension of growing youth no secret wonder, no half-hidden doubt of you and the way you earn the money to spend so freely on them?

The boy who's going to the city town, what can he ever be with such a mother? The little girl, with the soft eyes there, how can she ever hold up her head—when she remembers and understands? The slender child with the puzzled eyes, what will she care what dresses she wears—when she lived down by the running water? All she will know is that there was something "queer" about her mother.

Can't Hide Her Story.

Oh, woman with the secret eyes, work, scrub, starve, do anything honest, anything decent, and give your children a memory of you that will keep them straight when their own feet begin to wander. Your eyes are secret, but they can not hide your story. Some day, some day these little ones of yours will know it, alive as you may be, dressed in diamonds on the hill and friends and joy.

Just how the water runs through the fragrant willows. Tomorrow," she says, "tomorrow if you never listen to the warning it is trying to give!

Mexico's Defy Ignored Until Lind Delivers Note.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Pending the arrival of the Mexican Ambassador Lind and personal representative of President Wilson, this government will have no action with respect to the act by which the Mexican government threatens to deport former Governor Lind as an undesirable alien.

Official confirmation of the issuance of the threat was reached by the State Department, but Secretary Bryan and other government officials say the United States will make no move until it is seen whether the Mexican government intends to carry out its threat.

Governor Lind is due to reach Vera Cruz tonight. If he makes good connections he should get to Mexico City in time for a conference with President Huerta tomorrow afternoon. It is believed here that the President will be forced to confer with President Wilson's representative if only to discover the nature of the communication it has been reported Huerta has deemed it best to expect Mr. Lind, the United States minister in Mexico, to take drastic measures, but it is hoped at the State Department that the President will be able to avoid a change of front on the part of the Mexican government.

Sheriff Mangum Answers Handcuffing Criticism.

Sheriff Mangum issued the following announcement Saturday morning: To the Public and Citizens of Fulton County:

Some complaints are being made in regard to the handcuffing of a prisoner while being transported to and from the Tower to court.

When only one prisoner is to be handled, if he is not violent or unruly he is allowed to walk with an officer or soldiers without being handcuffed. He is handcuffed only when necessary for his own protection.

The Sheriff and his deputies are responsible for the safe handling of a prisoner and my belief is in the justice of Fulton county having precedence in their Sheriff and his men.

Respectfully, C. W. MANGUM, Sheriff, Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 8, 1913.

GEN. HUERTA'S ARMING JINGOES

Hated Against Americans in Capital Stirred by President—Lind Warned Not to Come.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The administration today decided to ignore entirely the note sent by President Huerta to the American government and to direct Special Envoy Lind to proceed to Mexico City without delay on his arrival at Vera Cruz to-night, unless he be held back by armed force. "The President declines to be bluff," stated a prominent government official today.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—With the approval of provisional President Huerta, arms were issued today to the students of the National Military Academy, who yesterday drafted a resolution praising Huerta for declaring John Lind, the special American envoy, persona non grata to the Mexican Government.

A number of residents in the American colony, who have fortuna invested in Mexico, are planning to make a demonstration Sunday when protests will be lodged against the action of President Wilson in sending a personal representative to Mexico City, and urging that the Mexican Government be upheld.

The newspapers to-day carried flaming stories of "unlike temperance" and warned the State Department to recall Mr. Lind from Vera Cruz and not allow him to come to Mexico City.

Some would ignore the fact that the New Hampshire will reach Vera Cruz on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock before Judge George L. Bell, of the Superior Court.

The petitioners set forth that Sheriff Armstrong is treating New Lee as an ordinary criminal, despite the alleged fact that he is a witness in the Mary Phagan case having been released in prison, while the negro New Lee, who is held as a witness only, is being treated as a criminal.

The petitioners set forth further that New Lee is charged with the murder from which Lee was released, and being given all the benefits and privileges of a detained guest, even being allowed to visit the attorney who takes his meals.

It was charged that the attorney who has charged the attorney that this latest move is part of a general plan to have Sheriff Armstrong by judicial motives.

LATEST NEWS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Secretary of State Bryan today issued the following statement relative to Governor Lind and his mission in Mexico: "The statement of the Mexican Foreign Office was based on the representation for which this Government is not responsible."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The House today adjourned until Tuesday out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Johnston of Alabama.

Habeas Corpus to Free Lee Sought In Superior Court

Charging that Leg M. Frank charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, is being given all the liberties of a detained guest, while Conroy, who is held as a witness only, is being treated as a criminal, attorneys today filed in the Superior Court a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Lee.

The petitioners set forth that Sheriff Armstrong is treating New Lee as an ordinary criminal, despite the alleged fact that he is a witness in the Mary Phagan case having been released in prison, while the negro New Lee, who is held as a witness only, is being treated as a criminal.

FOREMAN OF FACTORY GIVES STARTLING NEW EVIDENCE FOR FRANK

Portions of E. F. Holloway's testimony were badly shaken Solicitor Dorsey finished a grilling cross-examination of the National Penalty Factory timekeeper and watchman late Friday.

Holloway appeared a very willing witness for the defense and Dorsey went after him vigorously as soon as Reuben Arnold was through the direction questioning. The Solicitor, by his line of questioning, first imputed that Holloway had sought to get Kendrick, a former night watchman to swear that Frank had been in the habit of calling him up at night as he called New Lee. Holloway denied this indignantly. Dorsey next asked Holloway if he had not told L. P. Whitfield, a Pinkerton operative, to come around the next day and he was sure the detective would find something. The next day the bloody club was found. Holloway also denied this.

Holloway testified that N. V. Darley left the factory at about 9:20 o'clock. Dorsey showed him his own affidavit saying that Darley left with Frank about 10:45. Holloway gave Jim Conley the lie when he was recalled to the stand. Under the guidance of Reuben Arnold, he took up Conley's charges of grave misconduct against Frank and denied each one of them.

The day watchman declared that he always had been in the factory at the time Conley testified he had watched the door for Frank and that he was positive such things never had taken place. Holloway asserted that Frank never had brought women to his office and that women never were in his office, except members of his family. Conley when he made his sensational charges of misconduct against Frank, cited Thanksgiving as one of the days that Frank had women in the factory. Holloway said Conley was not in the factory that day.

Reuben Arnold brought out the striking fact that it was snowing on Thanksgiving Day as a point against Conley's statement that a woman visited the factory that day and that she wore white shoes and white stockings. In response to the call of the defense led Attorney Arnold to ask Judge Ross if he could not get an attachment for the kid. It was explained that the court deputed merely had been unable to locate the missing witness and that he would be brought into court the first thing in the morning.

The door leading from the entryway on the first floor, of the National Penalty Factory, which had been nailed up since the first of January, was found broken open shortly after the murder of Mary Phagan was the startling testimony of N. V. Darley at the trial of Leo Frank Friday afternoon. No testimony of this nature had been presented before and no intimation of such a discovery had been made during the investigation of the murder mystery. Its production, if the statements remain uncontroverted, opens up the possibility that the murderer of Mary Phagan attacked her on the first floor, broke open the door into the rear of the building and threw the body down one of two trap doors, one of which opens onto a chute and the other onto a steep stairway.

The defense did not appear to be abandoning its theory that Conley might have attacked Mary Phagan and thrown her down the elevator shaft only a few feet distant or down the scuttlehole leading by the elevator. On the contrary, Reuben Arnold in questioning Darley and other witnesses emphasized the ease with which such a deed might have been accomplished. It seemed to be the effort of the defense at this time not to center upon any theory, but to show the jurors that the negro might have perpetrated the crime and disposed of the body in any one of four or five ways. Darley in advancing the striking possibility that the body had been carried through the door on the first floor into the rear of the building, said that the door had been nailed up again a few days after the crime as mysteriously as it had been broken open. Darley said that he had kept watch of employees after the murder and that his suspicion immediately had fastened upon Conley because of the negro's peculiar actions. He said he had called the day watchman to maintain an espionage over Conley. O. B. Dalton's story received a severe blow at the hands of Darley. Darley said that no negro night watchman had been employed at the factory before April, 1913. Dalton told of night visits to the factory prior to this time and said he was met by a negro night watchman. Solicitor Dorsey, cross-examining Darley, made the witness admit that detectives had been in the factory after the crime and might themselves have broken open the door. The Solicitor has brought out that if the body had been thrown

DEFENSE PUTS ON MANY WITNESSES

Three Called to Break Down Negro's Stories

GEN. HUERTA'S CHARMING JINGOES

Hated Against Americans in Capital Stirred by President—Lind Warned Not to Come.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The administration today decided to ignore entirely the note sent by President Huerta to the American government and to direct Special Envoy Lind to proceed to Mexico City without delay on his arrival at Vera Cruz to-night, unless he be held back by armed force. 'The President declines to be bluff,' stated a prominent government official today.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—With the approval of Provisional President Huerta, arms were issued today to the students of the National Military Academy, who yesterday declared John Lind, the special American envoy, persona non grata to the Mexican government.

A number of residents in the American colony who have fortunes invested in Mexico, are planning to make a demonstration Sunday when protests will be lodged against the action of President Huerta in sending a personal representative to Mexico City and urging that the Mexican government be upheld.

Foreign Minister Altamir and other members of the Cabinet are doing all in their power to arouse the patriotism and enthusiasm of the people. Meetings of young hot bloods, who are standing up for President Huerta in his absence of the States and Stripes, are being encouraged.

Mexican secret service agents have been detailed to watch every movement that Mr. Lind makes here and the envoy will be under constant surveillance.

The newspapers to-day carried flaming stories of 'Yankies interfering' and warned the United States to recall Mr. Lind from Vera Cruz and not allow him to come to Mexico City.

Direful consequences are promised if President Wilson and Secretary Bryan continue their present course of trying to settle the internal affairs of Mexico while withholding official recognition of the Huerta administration.

All the papers carry warm eulogies for Huerta and promise that he will stand aside as a rock in behalf of his policy of 'Mexican for Mexican'.

United States warships in the harbor at Vera Cruz were in wireless communication with the New Hampshire, upon which Mr. Lind is coming, and it is expected that the New Hampshire will reach Vera Cruz about 3 o'clock to-night.

Some would have a general Lind. There was a suggestion at Cabinet meetings and Huerta adherents in Congress at the National Palace today, at which the existing American-Mexican situation was thoroughly discussed. Some are of the opinion that Mr. Lind will be expelled immediately, but that he should be expelled immediately.

WASHINGTON OF ALABAMA IS DEAD

United States Senator Victim of Pneumonia After Nine Days' Illness at Capital.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Senator Joseph F. Johnston, of Alabama, died at 9 o'clock this morning at his apartment in the Brighton. Senator Johnston had been ill for eight days, suffering from pneumonia. As a mark of respect to the memory of Senator Johnston, the Senate adjourned almost immediately after assembling at noon.

Senator Overman offered a resolution for the appointment of a committee of Senators to take part in the funeral ceremonies and to accompany the body to Birmingham, where burial is to be made.

The Vice President appointed the following committee: Senators Bankhead, of Alabama; Bacon, of Oregon; Chamberlain, of Michigan; Clarke, of Arkansas; Vardaman, of Louisiana; Smith, of South Carolina; Thornton, Warren, of West Virginia; Cannon, Bradley and Kenyon.

The funeral party will leave here to-night, and is expected to reach Birmingham to-morrow night. The funeral will take place Sunday morning.

Senator Joseph Forney, of North Carolina, in 1912. He served in the Confederate army from the beginning of the war to its conclusion, and was wounded four times. He rose from a private to the rank of captain, and was frequently mentioned honorably for gallant conduct.

Senator Johnston served four years as Governor of Alabama, before his election to the Senate in 1907. His first election to the Senate was for the unexpired term of Senator E. W. Pettus, deceased. He was re-elected in 1909 to his present term.

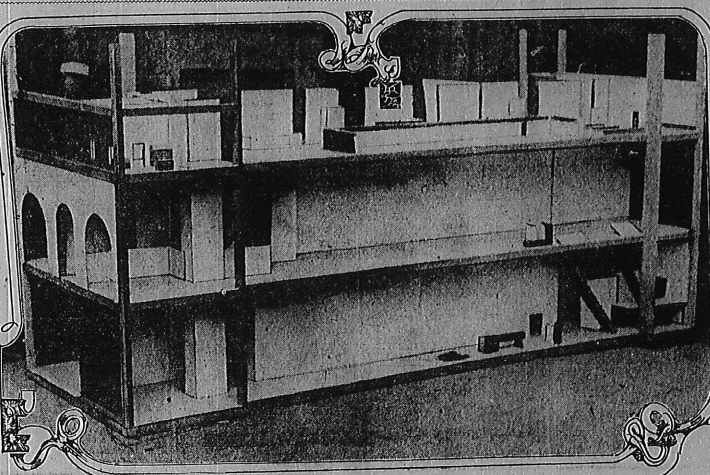

Senator Johnston's death at this time undoubtedly will bring about an acute political crisis in Alabama. His seat was being contested at the time by the late Congressman H. H. Hobson, and the fight between them had grown very bitter. It is practically certain that Hobson will not be permitted, now that Johnston is dead, to have the succession uncontested.

There has been talk of Congressman Underwood as a candidate against Mr. Hobson, and the death of Senator Johnston likely will revive that.

His immediate successor will be named by Governor O'Neal, which means that Mr. Hobson will not get the immediate appointment.

He had been in poor health for several weeks. Mr. Johnston was with her husband when he died, as well as Governor Johnston, who arrived from his home in Birmingham yesterday.

PAPER MODEL OF PENCIL FACTORY PUT BEFORE JURY BY THE DEFENSE

Model shows basement where body was found; ground floor, where Jim Conley sat, and second floor, Frank's office in front, and in rear machine room, where Slate says she was killed.

DISCREPANCY SHOWN BY CAR CREW AS TO TIME OF THE TRAGEDY

The attorneys for Leo Frank vigorously assailed Friday the stories of two of the State's negro witnesses, Jim Conley, the accuser of Frank, and Albert McKnight, who said he saw Frank at the Selig home Saturday afternoon, April 26.

The motorman and conductor of the street car on which Mary Phagan is believed to have come to town the day of her death both testified that they knew the girl and that she was on their car which arrived at Broad and Hunter streets not before 12:07 o'clock. She stayed on the car, they said, until the car reached Broad and Hunter streets, which was about 12:10 o'clock. Consequently, it would have been impossible for her to reach the factory before 12:11 or 12:12 o'clock.

If the testimony of the two street car employees is accurate, it completely upsets Jim Conley's story that he saw Mary Phagan enter the factory before Monteen Stover came in. By the Stover girl's own testimony she entered the factory at 12:05 o'clock and left at 12:10 o'clock. Thus, she had gone by the time the Phagan girl arrived.

It also serves to destroy the significance of the Stover girl's testimony that Frank was absent from his office when she arrived there. As Mary Phagan had not yet arrived, according to the testimony of the street car men, it could hardly be regarded as a suspicious circumstance that Frank was not in his office, if it develops that he really was not. The defense also contends that Miss Stover, who admits she did not enter the inner office, could have looked through the doorway without seeing Frank.

Witness Refutes McKnight's Story. Soon after court reconvened in the afternoon, H. J. Hinchey, of 391 Peachtree street, manager of the South Atlanta Blownpipe Company, appeared at the court house under subpoena of the defense to discredit the story of Albert McKnight. McKnight testified that he was at Frank's home the afternoon of the murder and that he saw Frank board a Georgia Avenue car to return to the factory.

Hinchey stated before he went on the stand that he was riding in his automobile on Washington street Memorial day and at 2:15 o'clock he saw Frank get off a Washington street car at Washington and Hunter streets when the car was stalled by the parade. Frank then was on his way to the factory.

Earlier in the day the defense introduced other evidence to discredit McKnight. Photographs and blue prints of the Selig home were displayed to show that it would have been practically impossible for McKnight to see Frank at the sideboard, as the negro testified when he was on the stand.

Photos, Blueprints and Model Introduced. Photographs and blue prints of the pencil factory also were put in evidence and in the afternoon a large sized model of the pencil factory, constructed on a scale of three-eighths of an inch to the foot was brought into the court room. It was made by T. H. Willett, a patternmaker, of 100 Highland avenue, and John Cox, an attaché of Reuben Arnold's office.

The model and blue prints were submitted in an effort to demonstrate that the State's theory of the crime is unreasonable and preposterous, and to illustrate the theory that the defense holds. Attorney Arnold, who was conducting the examination during the forenoon, sought also to throw a deep shadow of suspicion upon the story of young George Epps, who testified that he rode up town with Mary Phagan the day she was killed.

Mathews said that another girl was seated with Mary the latter part of the ride to town. He did not recollect that Epps was on the car at all. The motorman said that he was relieved at Broad and Marietta streets and that he sat behind Mary and her companion all the way to Hunter street. He said the two alighted at Hunter street and proceeded toward Forsyth, on which the factory is located.

This is in direct contradiction to the story of Epps, who testified that he saw Frank at the Selig home Saturday afternoon, April 26.

Suffragette, Denied Liquor and Cigars, Says U. S. Is Horrid

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Ruth Grayson, socialist, suffragette and writer, is angry at the United States and scoffs at the idea that it is a free country. In detailing her grievances, she said: 'I have just returned from the United States and intend to unmask the ridiculous idea that it is a land of freedom. It is a terrible place, where I refused to let my smoky cigarettes in the hotel and when I tried to get into the smoking compartment of a train to smoke a cigar was refused. That that was not the worst. When I went into a saloon they refused to serve me at the bar. At a beach resort, I was reprimanded for not wearing a bathing suit. I think the United States and its so-called freedom is a horrid place.'

Paris Gown Saves Life of Vanderbilt

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 8.—That William K. Vanderbilt, Jr. had a narrow escape from death in the automobile accident that claimed the life of S. Osgood Platt and William Laibner, because of the fact that he wished to protect a Paris gown worn by Mrs. Platt, became known when he testified at the inquest.

He would have been in the machine had he not stopped to secure a limousine driver with which to cover Mrs. Platt's gown. The rest of the party went on with out waiting for the couple, who took another car and followed.

England Rapidly Is Besting Demon Rum, King's Doctor Avers

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. LONDON, Aug. 8.—In addressing the International Medical Congress today, Sir Thomas Barlow, M. D., personal physician to King George and president of the congress, declared that England is rapidly becoming the most temperate nation in the world. He declared that the use of alcohol in the army and navy is diminishing at a fast rate.

Dr. Barlow, of Texas, one of the American delegates, in speaking of pellagra, said it cost 2,699 lives in America in 1912, and that there were fully 55,000 persons afflicted with the disease.

Embezzling Governor Now Is a Swineherd

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—An extraordinary story of the downfall of a high official in Russia is told here today. Some time ago the Governor of the Province of the Don Cosack hired a swineherd for his farm at Matopok. Shortly after the swineherd told him that the new employee made the most extraordinary statements when he was in a drunken condition, and used to say that he was really Governor of the Don Cosack province.

Investigation showed the guardian of the pigs eight years ago was Governor, but had been recalled and sent to the States for embezzlement.

Mrs. Gould Against The High Skirt

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Edwin Gould today severely criticized present-day street attire and one-piece bathing suits for women.

'I am not in favor of frank or suggestive modesty,' said Mrs. Gould. 'The extreme slit skirt to which objection has been taken in various parts of the country is not worn in New York by any of my friends. Nor do I know of any one who appears at bathing beaches in one-piece suits such as Chicago has forbidden.'

Offers $200 For Old War Engine's Whistle

DALTON, Aug. 8.—An offer of $200 for the whistle taken from the outfit 'General' when it was captured by Andrew Raiders has been made to James Barry, of Dalton, who owns the whistle. He announced recently that he intended to sell it and give the money to the orphan's home at Dalton.

The offer comes from H. T. Thomas, of Clyde, Ohio, who says he is desirous that one of his uncles was a member of the Federal band that undertook to escape with the famous engine.

Farmer's Beans Are Cooked by Lightning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—William Williams, a truck farmer, went out to gather some string beans for the family table the other day. Much to his surprise, he discovered that they were deliciously cooked.

'I had thought for a time that he had got Barbanks' barbans, but his reflection divulged the reason. In pulling he had played wire between the poles, and during a recent storm lightning struck the wires and cooked the beans.'

Shower Routs Heat, Cool Spell Premised

The heavy downpour of rain last Thursday afternoon broke up the hot wave that for the past week has been plaguing Atlanta, with the exception of a few showers. Thursday night was cool, and at 7 o'clock Friday morning the thermometer registered 71 degrees. At 1 o'clock it had climbed to 80 degrees, and at 5 o'clock it was at the same time the past several days.

'Plenty of cool breezes and occasional showers will keep Friday night and Saturday comfortable, according to the forecast of properly qualified meteorologists.'

Ostend Bathing Suits In U. S.? Goodness, No!

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 8.—'Any woman who takes surf baths must go for a trifling amount of money to advantage on the beach. I have seen a bathing suit that cost $100 and was made of all women goods,' says Mrs. Henry Holt, former wife of the artist.

'I had thought, when women go to the beach in coats, one-piece bathing suits may be all right, but I don't know where we lounge so much upon the beach, they would cause pity.'

Weyler Uses Waived Fist in Strike Riots

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. BARCELONA, Aug. 8.—Martial law was proclaimed here today on account of violence in the general strike.

General Weyler, commander in chief, was responsible for the declaration of martial law.

Immediate Election May Be Necessary

MONTEVIDEO, Aug. 8.—Governor O'Neal will be compelled to call an extra session of the Alabama Legislature to order an election at once to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate, as it is generally believed at the Capitol here today that under the Seventeenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution the Governor has not the power to appoint a successor to the late Senator J. E. Johnston, who died in Washington today.

DAISY HOPKINS DENIES VISITING PENCIL FACTORY WITH DALTON Girl Mentioned by Conley Swears That Leo Frank Never Spoke to Her

STREET CAR CREW TELL OF MARY PHAGAN'S LAST RIDE TO PENCIL FACTORY

ified that he and Mary left the car at Forsyth and Marietta streets and that he walked with her toward the factory as far as the viaduct.

Hollis did not remember seeing Epps on the car. He said Mary was alone when he collected her fare after the car got on English avenue. He left the car at Forsyth and Marietta streets and did not see Mary Phagan alight there.

Albert Kaufman, an architect, was called to discredit several of the State's witnesses. He had blue prints of the Selig home which he displayed to the jury to show that it was impossible for Albert McKnight to have seen from the kitchen into the dining room, as he testified he did, on the Saturday afternoon that Frank came home from the factory.

His testimony was to the effect that Monteen Stover could not have seen over the safe door into Frank's office at the time she declared she was unable to find him on her visit to the factory. Shows Diagram to Aid Frank.

He said that there was room for several bodies to pass down the scuttle hole into the basement. He exhibited a diagram of the factory to show that Frank could have sat in his office and not been aware of anything taking place beyond the time clock—for example, anyone coming up or going down the stairs.

Miss Daisy Hopkins, who C. B. Dalton said was his companion on visits to the factory basement, was called by the defense and denied Dalton's statements.

She said she never had spoken to Frank, and that Frank never had spoken to her.

Solicitor Dorsey made an attack on her character and forced her to admit she had been in jail on a statutory charge. It was brought out, however, that she was released without trial.

Frank, for the first time during the trial, took an active part in helping direct the course the case was taking. He arose from his seat several times to make suggestions to his lawyers, and at his request certain questions were put.

Before Daisy Hopkins was called Solicitor Dorsey said he wanted to ask Harry Scott one more question. Attorney Rosser said he also wanted to ask one more question of Linda Rosser, Detective J. M. Starnes and George Epps. Detective Scott was the first witness called.

Dorsey asked: Q. Mr. Scott, how long did it take you to get Jim Conley to write after he had admitted that he could not and you decided to let him without delay?—A. Two or three minutes.

Daisy Hopkins on Stand.

Miss Hopkins is a woman of very small features, with bright, keen eyes and wore a cotton striped dress that looked a bit too short. She wore white shoes and stockings. Mr. Arnold began the questioning:

Q. Did you ever work for the National Pencil Company?—A. Yes. I went to work there about October 1, 1911, and quit June 1, 1912.

Q. What department?—A. Packing department.

Q. How many other girls worked there?—A. Sometimes there were as many as ten.

Q. Did you know Leo M. Frank?—A. I know him when I saw him. I saw him pass around the factory and I did not ever speak to you?—A. No, never in my life.

Dennis Drisking in Frank's Office.

Q. Did you ever go into Frank's office and drink beer and soda drinks with other women?—A. No, I never went into his office and I don't drink.

Q. Do you know C. B. Dalton?—A. I know him when I see him.

Q. Did you ever speak to him?—A. I went to his home once to see his sister and spoke to him. That is the only time.

Q. Did you ever go to the pencil factory with Dalton?—A. No, I never did.

Q. Did you introduce him to Mr. Frank?—A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you ever go into the factory and into the basement with Dalton?—A. No, I don't even know where the basement is. I never have been in it.

Says She Was Married.

Dorsey took the witness on cross-examination.

Q. Were you ever married?—A. Yes.

Q. Who was your husband?—A. E. A. Billie.

Q. Who married you?—A. Preacher Mills.

Q. Who is your doctor?—A. Dr. Young.

Q. What is the reason you got a stomach trouble?—A. I don't know.

except they were dressed in something light.

Q. Well, tell us anything that Mary Phagan had on?—A. I don't know anything except she had on a dress and hat.

Q. Yes, she had on shoes and stockings, too?—A. Yes, and her dress was light colored.

Q. You didn't see George Epps?—A. No, I didn't see him.

Q. What color was Mary Phagan's hat?—A. It was light color.

Q. You say it was a light color. Just what color was it?—A. I don't know.

Q. What did you say light color for? Come, don't you know?—A. Arnold Calls Halt.

Attorney Arnold interrupted. "Just wait a minute. That is not the form to question him."

"All right, I'll put the question differently," said Dorsey.

Q. Mr. Matthews, you did not observe what color her clothes were?—A. No, sir.

Q. What time did you hear about her murder?—A. Sunday morning.

Q. What time did you go down to identify her?—A. About six in the afternoon.

Q. You recognized her as the girl who had carried down the box before?—A. Yes.

Q. How did you recognize her?—A. Well, I knew her. One day she was late and I waited for her and she said she was mad because she was there every time after that I would look like I might have been.

Falls on Color of Hat.

Attorney Arnold took the witness and showed him the dress Mary Phagan wore.

Q. Was this the dress she wore that day?—A. I am not sure, but it looks like it might have been.

Booked Dorsey took the witness.

of short?—A. Short cars.

Q. Was there any difficulty in bearing what was said on the front end when the car was standing still?—A. No.

Q. So such things as being ahead of time ever happen?—A. No, sir. It is against the rules of the company.

Attorney Hooper took the witness again.

Q. Do you mean to say that you obey the rules of the company so well that you are never ahead of time nor never a little late?—A. It isn't against the rules of the company to be late.

Q. Then you are never early—not even when going to the barn?—A. It isn't against the rules of the company to come in ahead of time when going to the barn, so long as you don't run reckless.

Q. And that day you brought Mary Phagan in was your last trip?—A. Yes.

Defense Turns Over Books.

Attorneys for the defense at this juncture turned over to the prosecution the case book and the bank book of the National Pencil Company.

Hollis was excused and Albert Kaufman, an engineer, who drew a plot and diagram of the Selig residence where Frank resided, took the stand.

He was examined by Attorney Arnold.

Q. What is your business?—A. Civil engineer.

Q. Have you made a drawing of the Selig residence on Georgia avenue?—A. Yes.

Q. When?—A. Last week.

Q. Did you make a plat of the kitchen, the dining room, the reception hall, the parlor and the hall?—A. Yes.

Q. How many feet is it from the kitchen door to the passageway?—A. Fourteen feet.

Couldn't See Mirror.

Q. How wide is the passageway?—A. Two and one-half feet wide and about two feet long.

Q. Did you stand in the kitchen door and see if you could see the mirror in the dining room?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you see it?—A. No. No part of the glass was visible.

Q. Were you present when a photographer took views of the place?—A. Yes.

Q. Standing on the south side of that door, did you see the sideboard?—A. No, with two or three feet of it.

Q. Have you drawn a plat of Georgia avenue?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you draw a diagram of the block bounded by Pulliam street?—A. Yes.

Q. How far is it from the Selig home to Pulliam street?—A. 221 feet.

Q. How far to Washington street?—A. 175 feet.

Q. What does this represent? (A diagram of the pencil factory was displayed.)—A. That is the pencil factory.

Gives Dimensions of Factory.

Q. What was the size of the elevator shaft?—A. Six by eight.

Q. What is the length and breadth of this hole? (A spot where the ladder goes down into the basement of the factory was indicated.)—A. Two feet by three inches.

Q. What is the distance from the elevator to the spot where the body was found?—A. 116 feet.

Q. To the boiler?—A. 20 feet.

Q. From the elevator to this toilet?—A. 113 feet.

Q. The distance from the elevator to the back door?—A. 185 feet.

Q. The dimensions?—A. 5 feet wide, 15 feet long.

Q. Was that large enough for a human body to go down?—A. On or several.

Q. How far from the elevator is the boiler?—A. About 20 feet.

Q. How far is the back door from the elevator?—A. 163 feet.

Q. The total length of the building?—A. 200 feet.

Q. What are the widths of the walls?—A. Four feet.

Q. What kind of a bunk is in that enclosure back there by the boiler?—A. A big box.

Q. What is in it?—A. All kinds of trash.

Q. How far is the trash pile from the spot where the body was found?—A. Sixty-one feet.

Q. The toilet?—A. Twenty-one feet.

Q. From the back door?—A. Forty-two feet.

Q. What is the line of vision from the toilet to where the body was found?—A. Yes.

Q. And you say you overheard a conversation between her and the mortician?—A. Yes, he asked her if she was mad, and she said yes, she was late.

Said She Was Late.

Q. She went down early in the morning as a rule?—A. Yes, when she said she was late, it was ten minutes to 12 o'clock?—A. Yes.

Attorney Arnold took the witness on the redirect examination.

Q. Are the cars on this line long short?—A. Short cars.

Q. How far would the line of vision throw you from this partition?—A. About 2 feet.

Q. Could you see a body there?—A. Not all of it.

Q. Is it an accurate plan of the first floor?—A. Yes.

Q. What is the width of the front door?—A. Six feet.

Q. What is the length of this partition from the front door?—A. Twenty-six feet.

Q. From the front door to the railway, how far is it?—A. Thirty-six feet.

Q. From the stairs to the elevator shaft?—A. Thirteen feet.

Q. From the railway to this hole?—A. Ten and one-half feet.

Q. Is there a long hallway on the first floor?—A. Yes.

Trap Door Near Tragic Spot.

Q. Does it extend to the west end of the building?—A. Yes.

Q. What is it used for?—A. Maybe a storeroom.

Q. What is closed?—A. Yes.

Q. What was in there?—A. Two toilets.

Q. How far back?—A. About 50 feet.

Q. Is this the spot directly over where the body was found?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you find on the right-hand side next to the toilet?—A. A tin door.

Q. Were there steps?—A. Yes.

Q. How near to this chute was the body found?—A. About 20 feet.

Q. When the trap is open, where does it lead to?—A. To the basement.

Q. What is it used for?—A. To send boxes down.

Q. Did you observe the door of the hole when it stood open in the outer office?—A. Yes.

Q. To what extent did it close off the view to the inner office?—A. Slightly.

Q. Could you see over that safe door?—A. Yes.

Q. Could a girl?—A. I don't think so.

To the right of the door in the inner office, what did you find?—A. A desk.

Q. Are there two windows there?—A. Yes.

Q. They open on the street, don't they?—A. Yes.

Office 150 Feet From Dressing Room.

Q. This is Frank's desk?—A. Yes.

Q. A person on the other side of the street could see the desk, couldn't they?—A. Yes.

Q. How far is it from Frank's office to the dressing room?—A. One hundred and fifty feet.

Q. What kind of a view is it from Frank's office to the railway?—A. None at all.

Q. What kind of a view is it from the clock?—A. He could see about one-quarter of the first clock.

Q. What are these open spaces pointing to the diagram?—A. Passageway.

Q. How wide are the doors to the metal room?—A. Six feet.

Q. How far from that door is it to the ladies' room?—A. About 10 feet.

Frank Makes Suggestion.

Q. From that point how far is it to the ladies' room?—A. Thirty-seven feet.

Q. How far from the ladies' toilet?—A. Fifteen feet.

Here Frank arose from his seat and walked across to Attorney Rosser and made a suggestion for a question.

Q. What is the size of these vats?—A. Six by four.

Q. Could you get a girl into one of those vats?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you find in this whole building.

STATE IS FORCED TO PIN HOPES ON CONLEY

Must Stand By While Defense Seeks Weak Link in the Negro's Story.

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

As the defense in the Frank case gets under way, it is evident enough...

The State climaxed its case thrillingly and with deadly effect in the negro.

He came through the fire of cross-examination, exhaustive and thorough...

Through the cross-examination, however, there ran an evident vein of deadly purpose upon the part of the defense.

The question is, did he go TOO FAR?

Did he, in his last minute effort to get in EVERYTHING that possibly might work against the defendant...

That is the defense's task—THIS UNDOING OF CONLEY.

Conley, the State's All.

Conley is the heart and soul of the State's case—without Conley, the State is rendered helpless.

That great detective, William J. Burns, says "they always—criminals—leave something out of gear in the story they tell."

Burns declares there never was a tie to shield a criminal that did not have in it SOME WEAKNESS.

Today is the defense's day in court—during its progress, which may be for a week or more, even as the State's day lasted 240 hours.

Conley can do it!

Well, maybe he can, and maybe he can not—let us, in the name of justice and decency and all that is right, he must have full and free OPPORTUNITY.

One Side of the Case.

During the progress of the State's case, the defense was led far into the gloom.

Could Leo Frank have the same reputation, of fair name and unblemished integrity, college bred and studious in habits...

In a rather remarkable interview Mrs. Leo Frank gave The Sunday American some few weeks ago, she said this of Frank and herself:

"They still are going 'hand in hand,' the man and the woman, the husband and the wife—the one holding up as best he can under the terrible charge of murder, the other beside him—for better or worse, in sickness and in health, for richer or poorer—until death, or worse than death, shall sever the tie that binds."

It is the defendants' day in court—and he is entitled to fair play and a fair chance!

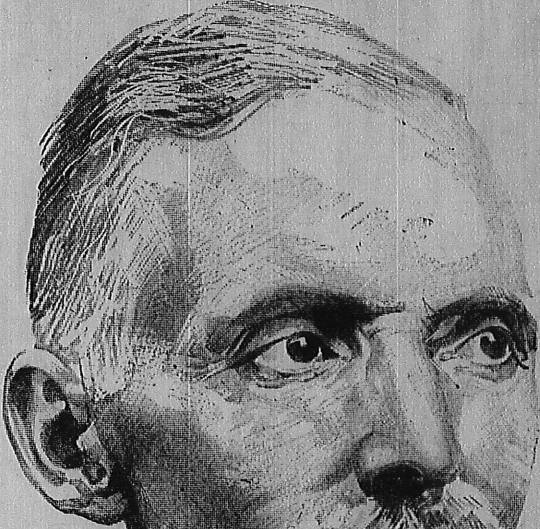

To some it may seem that the burden has shifted, that it is up to the defense now, notwithstanding the more or less "fictitious" presumption of innocence the law justly has established in his favor.

It is that, as it may seem, that the burden has closed about him and all he holds most dear in this world is still in a human bond in very dire distress, as yet unconvicted, and it is only right that the public should be patient as he sits forth in his state of this terrible affair.

And I give it as my opinion here and now, for whatever it is worth, that the case against Leo Frank yet may be far from conclusive—and it may never be made conclusive.

Conley's Fate Improbable?

MAN WHO SAYS NEGRO JIM CONLEY CONFESSED SLAYING OF LITTLE GIRL

W. H. Mincey, the country school-teacher on whom the Frank defense depends, in a measure, to turn the suspicion of guilt of the Phagan slaying to Jim Conley.

W. H. Mincey, the country school-teacher on whom the Frank defense depends, in a measure, to turn the suspicion of guilt of the Phagan slaying to Jim Conley.

Mincey says the negro, on the day of the slaying, told him he had killed a girl.

This sketch from life of Mincey is by P. A. Carter, Georgian artist.

Conley's story has not YET been broken down. But it MAY be broken down.

In an article a few days ago, I said this, and I feel like repeating it now.

In judging this Frank case, purely from the State's own standpoint, there is nothing so important as the TIME ELEMENT.

Conley's story has not YET been broken down. But it MAY be broken down.

Remember, unless Conley's story holds together, the case against Frank goes to pieces.

Suppose it can be shown, and it is shown, that the story Conley told CAN NOT be true?

The defense MUST show that, if Frank is told, it has been committed.

The State has annexed itself down to exact and definite propositions.

The crime, according to the State's witnesses, ALL have been committed, thus and so, in exact order, and

STATE SEES BITS OF EVIDENCE AS ROPE STRANDS

Chain as Strong as Its Weakest Link, but Cord Must Be Cut Through by Thread.

By O. B. KEEBLER.

They call it a chain that the State has forged, or has tried to forge, to hold Leo Frank to the murder of Mary Phagan.

But isn't it a rope?

A chain, you know, is as strong as its weakest link. Take one link out, and the chain comes apart.

With a rope, it's different. Stripped after several might be cut or broken, and the rope still holds a certain weight.

And that is what the various bits of circumstantial evidence might be called—strands or threads.

Applying the system of the well-known Dappin to the case in point—RICHARDSON, JR., BY THE UNDERSTOOD, STRICTLY FROM THE STATE'S VIEWPOINT—

First of the isolated circumstances of Conley's ability to write, would seem as futile as the mere fact of maintaining any weight of evidence, except against Conley himself.

But to that fact is added the fact that Frank knew Conley could write. Still, the thread is flimsy, and even connected with the case against Frank, would appear worthless.

But when it develops that Frank, knowing Conley could write, and knowing the police were trying to find the author of the murder notes, when Frank will aware of these things, did not inform the police that Conley was lying, he has nearly exhausted the philosophical phase of accumulative circumstance and its relation to evidence.

But there is one truly substantial and valid evidence, and that is the fact that Frank, knowing Conley could write, and knowing the police were trying to find the author of the murder notes, when Frank will aware of these things, did not inform the police that Conley was lying, he has nearly exhausted the philosophical phase of accumulative circumstance and its relation to evidence.

FRANK TAKES ACTIVE INTEREST IN CASE AND ASSISTS HIS LAWYERS

The vital time element which may serve alone to convict Leo Frank or set him free, entered largely into the evidence presented Friday by the defense at the trial of the factory superintendent.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, LONDON, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—Huerta, socialist, suffragette and writer, is angry at the United States and scoffs at the idea that it is a free country. In detailing her grievances today, she said: "I have just returned from the United States and intend to unmask the ridiculous idea that it is a land of freedom. It is a terrible place. Why, they refused to let me smoke cigarettes in the hotels and when I tried to get into the smoking compartment of a train to smoke a cigar I was refused. "But that was not the worst. When I went into a saloon they refused to serve me at the bar. At a beach resort I was reprimanded for not wearing a bathing suit. I think the place called the United States with its so-called freedom is a horrid place."

Embezzling Governor Now Is a Swineherd

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian, ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—An extraordinary story of the downfall of a high official in Russia is told here today. Some time ago the Governor of the Province of the Don Cosacks hired a swineherd for his farm at Miatopolsk. Shortly after the servants told him that the new swineherd made the most extraordinary statements when he was in a drunken condition, and used to say that he was the Governor of the Don Cosacks province. Investigation showed the guardian of the pigs illegal and in possession of a gun, but had been recalled and sent to prison for embezzlement.

The company admits transmitting the message, but denies responsibility.

Paris Gown Saves Life of Vanderbilt

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Aug. 8.—That William K. Vanderbilt, Jr. had a narrow escape from death in the automobile accident that claimed the life of S. Osgood Pell and William Laimbeer because of the fact that he wished to protect a Parisian gown worn by Mrs. Pell, became known when he testified at the inquest. He would have been in the machine had he not stopped to secure a line of wire which with which to cover Mrs. Pell's gown. The rest of the party went on out waiting for the couple, who took another car and followed.

Farmer's Beans Are Cooked by Lightning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—William Williams, a truck farmer, went out to his garden to get beans for the family table the other day. Much to his surprise, he discovered that they were deliciously cooked. He thought for a time that he had not purchased burbancks, but a little reflection divulged the reason. In planting he had placed wires between the poles, and during a recent storm lightning struck the wires and cooked the beans.

Mrs. Gould Agrees to the High Slit Skirt

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Edwin Gould today severely criticized present court attire and one-piece bathing suits for women. "I am not in favor of frack or suggestive modes," said Mrs. Gould, "the extreme slit skirt to which objection has been taken in various parts of the country is not worn in New York by any of my friends. Nor do I know of any one who appears at bathing beaches in one-piece suits such as Chicago has forbidden."

Hollis did not remember seeing Epps on the car. He said Mary was alone when he collected her fare after the car got on English avenue. He left the car at Forsyth and Marietta streets and did not see Mary Phagan alight there. Albert Kaufman, an architect, was called to discredit several of the State's witnesses. He had blue prints of the factory which he displayed to the jury to show that it was impossible for Albert McLaughlin to have seen from the kitchen into the dining room as he testified he did on the Saturday afternoon that Frank came home from the factory. Denies Stover Girl's Story. His testimony was to the effect that Monteen Stover could not have seen over the safe door into Frank's office at the time she declared she was unable to find room for her visit to the factory. He said that there was room for several bodies to pass down the scuttle hole into the basement. He exhibited a diagram of the factory to show that Frank could have sat in his office and not been aware of anything taking place behind the time clock, for example, anyone coming up or going down the stairs. Miss Daisy Hopkins, who, C. B. Dalton said, was his companion on his visit to the factory basement, was called by the defense and denied Dalton's statements. She said she never had spoken to Frank, and that Frank never had spoken to her.

DAISY HOPKINS DENIES VISITING PENCIL FACTORY WITH DALTON Girl Mentioned by Conley Swears That Leo Frank Never Spoke to Her

STREET CAR CREW TELL OF MARY PHAGAN'S LAST RIDE TO PENCIL FACTORY

MRS. LEO FRANK PHOTOGRAPHED AS SHE LEAVES COURTHOUSE IN AUTO

The wife of the defendant in the Phagan case is always among the first to reach the courtroom in the morning.

Continued From Page 1. Q. What department?—A. Packing department. Q. What floor?—A. Second floor. Q. How many other girls worked there?—A. Sometimes there were as many as 15. Q. Did you know Leo M. Frank?—A. I knew him when I saw him. I saw him near around the factory. Q. Did he ever speak to you?—A. No, never in my life. Daisy Dining in Frank's Office. Q. Did you ever go into Frank's office and drink beer and cold drinks with other women?—A. No, I never went into his office and I don't drink. Q. Do you know C. H. Dalton?—A. I know him when I see him. Q. Did you ever speak to him?—A. I went to his home once to see his sister and speak to him. That is the only time. Q. Did you ever go to the pencil factory with Dalton?—A. No, I never did. Q. Did you introduce him to Mr. Frank?—A. No, I did not. Q. Did you ever go into the factory and go into the basement with Dalton?—A. No, I don't even know where the basement is. I never have been in it.

Says She Was Married. Dorsey took the witness on cross-examination. Q. Were you ever married?—A. Yes. Q. Where?—A. Redair. Q. Who did you marry?—A. E. A. Miles. Q. Who married you?—A. Preacher Miles. Q. Who is your doctor?—A. Dr. Penick. Q. What is your treating you for?—A. Stomach trouble. Q. Were you ever in jail?—A. No. Q. Do you know this man here, Garner, my deputy?—A. No. Q. Did he get you out of jail?—A. No, he was along. Q. What were you charged with?—A. Somebody told later on me. Q. Who brought you down here?—A. Mr. Burke. Q. Bill Smith Har Lawyer. Arnold took the witness on the stand. Q. Who got you out of jail?—A. My lawyer. Q. Did you pay anything?—A. I only paid my lawyer's fee. Q. Who was your lawyer?—A. Mr. Bill Smith. Q. M. Matthews, foreman on the English Avenue car on which Mary Phagan is supposed to have come to town from her home, Saturday, April 24, followed Mrs. Hopkins on the stand. Q. What was your run on April 23?—A. English Avenue that runs to Bellwood. Q. What time did you pass Lindsay street?—A. Ten minutes to 12. Q. Was that on schedule?—A. Yes. Q. Did a little girl named Mary Phagan get on at Lindsay street?—A. Yes.

Set Behind Mary Phagan. Q. What is the distance from Lindsay street to Broad street?—A. About two miles. Q. What time did you get to Marietta and Broad streets?—A. At 12:07 1/2. We were on time. Q. Do you recollect where this little girl got off?—A. At Broad and Hunter streets. Q. What time did you reach that point?—A. About two and one-half minutes later. It took that long on account of the crowd. Q. It took that long?—A. Yes. I was not running the car then. I was sitting behind Mary Phagan. There was a little girl on the seat with her. Q. Where did she get off?—A. At Broad and Hunter streets. Q. What time was it then?—A. 12:10 as near as I could recollect. Q. Where did she get when she got off?—A. She walked to the sidewalk with the girl that was with her. Q. Did you see this little girl get on the car?—A. Yes. Q. Did a little boy get on the car with her?—A. No. Q. Didn't See Epps Boy. Q. Do you know this little boy Epps?—A. Yes. Q. Did he get on the car with her?—A. No. Q. He didn't sit on the seat with her?—A. No, I didn't see him. Dorsey took the witness. Q. You said you arrived at Broad and Hunter streets at about 12:10 o'clock. Why do you say about 12:10 if you are sure of 12:12?—A. It was about that time.

Q. Did you see Detective Whitfield, of the Pinkertons, that you might have been three or four minutes ahead of schedule?—A. No. Q. You are sure you never told him that?—A. No. Q. How is it that you are willing to tell this jury that Mary Phagan did not get off at Marietta and Broad streets?—A. I wait a minute and I will tell you. There was an extra conductor sitting by me. He had a pin on his coat. I took it off and leaning over to Mary Phagan I said, "Little girl, that your picture." She said, "No, it ain't." That made me positive I can't describe clothing. Q. You will now show these little girls were dressed?—A. I don't remember, except they were dressed in some-thing. Q. Well, tell us anything that Mary Phagan had on?—A. I don't know anything except she had on a dress and hat. Q. Yes, she had on shoes and stockings, light blue. Yes, and her dress was light colored. Q. You didn't see George Epps?—A. I didn't see him. Q. Would you know George Epps if I told you he was here?—A. I would know him if I were to see him now. Q. Tell me one thing about him by which you can identify him?—A. I can't remember. Q. What color was Mary Phagan's hat?—A. It was light color. Q. You say it was a light color. What color was it?—A. I don't know. Q. What did you say light color for?—A. Come, don't remember. Attorney Arnold interrupted. "Just wait a minute. That is not the form to question him." "All right, I'll put the question differently," said Dorsey. Q. Mr. Matthews, you did not observe what color her clothes were?—A. No, sir. Q. What time did you hear about her murder?—A. Sunday morning. Q. What time did you go down to identify her?—A. About 6:45 in the afternoon. Q. You recognized her as the little girl you had carried down the day before?—A. Yes. Q. How did you recognize her?—A. Well, I know her. One day she was late and I waited for her and she said she was mad because she was late. Every time after that I would ask her if she was mad. Falls on Color of Hat. Attorney Arnold took the witness and showed him the dress Mary Phagan wore. Q. Was this the dress she wore that day?—A. I am not sure, but it looks like it might have been. Solicitor Dorsey took the witness. He showed the witness Mary Phagan's hat. Q. Is this the light hat you just now told the jury Mary Phagan had on? (The hat was of dark lavender material). Q. The girl you saw had on a light hat?—A. That's what I remember. The witness was excused, and W. T. Hollis, conductor on the English Avenue car on which the Phagan girl rode to town Saturday, April 25, took the witness stand. Arnold examined him. Q. What is your business?—A. Street car conductor. Q. Where were you on April 25?—A. On the English Avenue and Cooper Street line. Q. Did you cross Lindsay street?—A. Yes. Conductor Saw Girl. Q. On what street?—A. Bellwood Avenue. Q. How many miles is it from this point to the heart of the city?—A. I couldn't say. Q. What time do you leave the other end of the line?—A. On the hour, quarter and half. Q. What time did the car that left at 10 minutes to 12 get to the city?—A. It took 22 1/2 minutes. Q. Did the little girl get on at Lindsay street?—A. Yes. Q. Did you know her name then?—A. No. Q. When did you see her again?—A. The next day at 12:10. Q. Did this little boy, George Epps, get on the car and ride with her?—A. No, he was not with her when I collected the fare. Q. Was the car crowded?—A. There were only three passengers. Q. What time did you get to Broad and Marietta streets?—A. About 12:07 1/2. A. Marietta and Forsyth streets. Q. Where did you get off?—A. At Marietta and Forsyth streets. Q. Did this little girl get off there?—A. No, I left her on the car. Q. Did this little boy, Epps, get off there?—A. No. Q. How long did it take to get from Broad and Marietta to Hunter street?—A. About 2 1/2 minutes, as a rule. Q. Do you recollect how she was dressed?—A. No.

Q. You don't know whether these are the clothes?—A. No, I never noticed. Attorney Hooper took the witness on cross-examination. Q. There was nothing unusual about her coming in that day, was there?—A. No. Q. There was no particular reason why you should remember these things, is there?—A. Yes. Never Ahead of Time, He Says. Q. You don't know whether these are her clothes, or not, do you?—A. No. Q. You always notice when any thing happens to throw you off your schedule, don't you?—A. Yes. Q. But you don't pay any attention to being a few minutes ahead of time, do you?—A. We don't ever come in town ahead of time. Q. Are you ever late?—A. Yes, sometimes. Q. Was there anyone sitting with Mary Phagan on the car?—A. No. Q. You didn't see a little girl sitting beside her?—A. No. When I got her fare, she was sitting alone as I remember. Q. She usually came down early in the morning, factory hours—didn't she?—A. Yes; she usually caught the car that gets to town at 7:00. She said she was late, it was ten minutes late when she caught that car, when she said she was mad. Q. Which end of the car did she get on?—A. The front end. Q. Which end were you on?—A. The back end. Q. And you say you overheard a conversation between her and the conductor?—A. Yes, he asked her if she was mad, and she said yes, she was late. Said She Was Late. Q. She went down early in the morning as a rule?—A. Yes, when she said she was late, it was ten minutes to 12 o'clock?—A. Yes. Attorney Arnold took the witness on cross-examination. Q. Are there any things long or short?—A. Short cars. Q. Were you present when a photo-grapher took views of the place?—A. Yes. Q. Scheduling on the south side of that road, did you see the sidewalk?—A. Not within two or three feet of it. Q. Have you drawn a plan of George Epps?—A. Yes. Q. Did you draw a diagram of the block bounded by Palladium street, 1/2 St., 26 1/2 St., and the company's office?—A. Yes. Q. Do you mean to say that you have the rules of the company so well that you are never ahead of time nor ever a little late?—A. I stand against the rules of the company to be late. Q. Then you are never early—not even when going to the barn?—A. If I get against the rules of the company to come in ahead of time when going up the barn, so long as you don't run reckless. Q. And that day you brought Mary Phagan in your last trip?—A. Yes. Defense Turns Over Book. Attorney Hooper for the defense at this juncture turned over to the prosecution the cash book and the bank book of the National Pencil Company. Hollis was excused and Albert Kauffman, an engineer, who drew a plan and diagram of the Solig residence where Frank resided, took the stand. He was examined by Attorney Arnold. Q. What is your business?—A. City Engineer. Q. Have you made a drawing of the Solig residence on Georgia Avenue?—A. Yes. Q. When?—A. Last week. Q. Did you make a plan of the kitchen, the dining room, the reception hall, the parlor and the hall?—A. Yes. Q. How many feet is it from the kitchen door to the passageway?—A. Fourteen feet. Couldn't See Mirror. Q. How wide is the passageway?—A. Two and one-half feet wide and about two feet long. Q. Did you stand in the kitchen door and see if you could see the mirror in the dining room?—A. Yes. Q. Could you see it?—A. No. Q. Who would you present when a pho-

measurements were wrong?—I mean about lines of vision, etc.—A. Yes. Q. You found a gas jet burning in the basement?—A. Where was it?—A. Near the front door. Q. On the third floor you depended for light on the front doors and windows?—A. Yes. Q. There are all glass?—A. Yes. Q. There is also a gas jet further back?—A. I didn't see any. Q. On the first floor you say there is a trap door near the elevator two feet by two feet three inches, leading to the basement?—A. Yes. Trap Door Small. Q. A man of your size would have a hard time getting through there, wouldn't he?—A. Yes. Q. Two people couldn't get through?—A. No. Q. The scuttle hole back on the first floor leads to the basement?—A. Yes, to the kitchen in the back. Q. A man doesn't look in a curved line, does he?—A. No, sir. Q. Nobody standing on the second floor could see down to the first floor?—A. Those indicate the direction he probably walked. Several of the jurymen were inattentive to these demonstrations. Q. Anyone coming into this office could see anyone who was in there couldn't he, the door adjoining was open?—A. Yes. Q. Nobody standing on the fourth floor at the head of the stairway could see down to the second floor?—A. I don't think they could. Q. Don't you know they couldn't?—A. They might have a little view.

STATE, TIED BY CONLEY'S STORY, NOW MUST STAND STILL UNDER HOT FIRE

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

As the defense in the Frank case sets under way, it is evident enough as it has been from the beginning of this case, that there is but one big, tremendously compelling fact before the annihilation of Conley's story!

The State claimed the case thrillingly and with deadly effect in the Negro. He came through the fire of cross-examination, exhaustive and thorough, in remarkably good shape, all things considered. He unfolded a story more horrible than the criminal related. Certainly, in every conceivable way, he has sought to demass the defendant—never going to the extent of lodging against him another crime than murder.

Through the cross-examination, however, there ran an evident vein of deadly purpose upon the part of the defense. Conley was given full limit to go his length. He went in—no disputing that.

The question is, did he go TOO FAR? Did he, in his last minute effort to get in EVERYTHING that possibly could be worked against the defendant, tell things, or say things, that eventually will rise to plague him in his utter undoing?

That is the defense's task—THE UNDOING OF CONLEY. Conley is the heart and soul of the State's case—without Conley, the State is rendered helpless. He is the Alpha and the Omega of the charge against Leo Frank.

That great detective, William J. Burns, says they always—criminals—leave something out of gear in the stories they tell. Burns declares there never was a lie told to shield a criminal that did not have in it SOMEWHERE a fatal weakness, that might be located if patiently sought for. The more elaborate the tale the criminal relates, the more chance there is, no matter how infinitely shrewd he may be, to find that he will be discovered.

TV-day is the defense day in court—during its progress, which may be Frank's week or more, Leo Frank, Leo Frank must stand the awful story of Jim Conley, and the State must meet it, in all the various charges brought against him. Can he do it?

Well, maybe he can, and maybe he can not—at least, in the name of justice and decency and all that is right, he must have full and free OPPORTUNITY.

abundant—IMPOSSIBLE! What then? Will you be prepared, if forced to a conviction against your will, if it be that way with you, to say to Frank: "All right, you came through the fire, at times seemingly sure you came through, and I am content, but you came through, and I am content."

Conley's story has not YET been

The Frank trial audience laughed when this witness said he didn't know where he was born.

broken down—no. But it MAY be broken down. In an article a few days ago, I said this, and I feel like repeating it now. In judging the Frank case, guilty from the State's own standpoint, there is nothing so important as the TIME ELEMENT in which the State unconsciously claims the crime was committed.

In another article a few days thereafter, I said this, and this I also feel like repeating now. If the Conley story is a lie, if it has been TOO CLEVERLY "framed up"—if it is a thousand other "ifs"—what matters that? It matters this: If it is a lie, it MUST break down, somewhere, sometime; if it is the truth, it will stand against ALL the assaults made upon it!

Remember, unless Conley's story holds together, the case against Frank goes to pieces. Everybody who has read the evidence and who still is capable of rendering just judgment will admit that.

Suppose it can be shown, and it is shown, that the story Conley told CAN NOT be true? The State and MUST show that, or Frank is lost!

Can the defense do that? The State has placed itself dead to exact and definite propositions. Remember, the defense has hardly started the story yet—it may be able to make absurd those very propositions the State has set up.

Upon it the State will stand or fall eventually. If Mary Phagan was NOT killed before 11:05, then Leo Frank did not kill her. If she was not killed at that time, Conley's story will not hold. Then is when the State says she

BITS OF CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE, AS VIEWED BY STATE, STRANDS IN ROPE

By O. B. KEELER.

They call it a chain that the State has forged, or has tried to forge, to hold the Frank to the murder of Mary Phagan. But isn't it a rope? A chain, you know, is as strong as its weakest link. Take one link out and the chain comes apart.

With a rope, it's different. If a strand after strand might be cut or broken, and the rope still holds a certain weight. Then might come the cutting of one more strand would cause the rope to break. The point is, the finished rope will sustain a weight that would instantly snap any one of its several strands.

Bits of Evidence Threads. SOFIA, Aug. 8.—In a communication issued today by the Bulgarian Government it was announced that Bulgaria will begin demobilization of her army as soon as a peace treaty is signed, upon the understanding that the powers favor the Enoze-Midja line as the southern Bulgarian boundary. This would give Adrianople to Bulgaria.

Will the Rope Hold? There is Frank's position at home and at the factory. There is the story of habitual "cheat" at the factory, testified by Conley as watchman. And the sending away of New Lee that afternoon. And the seeing of Conley by Mrs. White, "rotating" at the place he fixes for himself as watchman, and at the time. And the alleged reluctance of Frank to confront Conley at the jail.

HUERTA TO REPORT ENVOY LIND

Mexican President Declares U. S. Representative Must Bear Recognition of New Regime.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 7.—John Lind, now on his way to Mexico City as special representative of the United States, will not be received by President Huerta unless he presents credentials from the President of the United States, accompanied by recognition of the present government of Mexico.

Official announcement of this was made today by President Huerta. The statement was delivered to Charge O'Shaughnessy at the American Embassy by Manuel Garza Aldape, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs of Mexico. It was also sent to Washington and to the powers of Europe.

Lind, Huerta's announcement said, will be expelled from the country as an undesirable alien unless he goes before the Mexican government and explains his official character and intentions or else brings official recognition of the Huerta administration from the Wilson Administration in Washington.

This is the boldest and most belittling course yet taken by Huerta, and if the Mexican President can carry his threat Mexico will have accomplished what, in the eyes of international usage, usually constitutes a casus belli.

In accord with the new aggressive policy of the Mexican government, a delegation will walk upon Mr. Lind upon his arrival in this city, probably Saturday, and the attitude of the United States will be outlined then in unmistakable terms. The United States battleship carrying Mr. Lind is expected at Vera Cruz to-morrow night.

Must Bear Credentials.

The following official statement was issued to the press today by Senator Aldape:

The Mexican Department of Foreign Affairs has sent a note to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires of the United States, stating by order of the President that, if Mr. John Lind, who, the Mexican government is informed, is to come to Mexico intrusted with a mission from President Wilson, does not establish in due manner his official character before the Mexican chancery, or if he is not the bearer of recognition of the Mexican government by that of the United States, his return to his Republic will not be regarded as satisfactory to this government.

This was the first time that Huerta formally recognized Mr. Lind as an Ambassador from the United States President.

To some extent the action of Huerta has the approval of some of the Americans here because it establishes the position of the Mexican Government. Otherwise the auspices attending the coming of Mr. Lind and the consequences which may follow would only be prolonged.

Judge Cooper, Noted In Alabama, Dies

ANNISTON, ALA., Aug. 7.—W. H. Cooper, Probate Judge of Calhoun County, died in a Birmingham hospital Thursday morning, following an operation for cancer of the stomach. The body will be brought back here for burial.

Judge Cooper's ancestors came over in the Phoenix with Oatthorpe and the family has long been active in affairs in Alabama and Georgia. Both Judge Cooper and his father were members of the Alabama Legislature.

Governor O'Neal will appoint Judge Cooper's successor. He was elected last year over J. J. Arnold, who was appointed while a member of the Legislature by the Governor to succeed E. P. Cook, who resigned on account of illness.

Striker Arrested on Charge of Assault

MOBILE, Aug. 7.—Joseph Mahler, a union machinist, was arrested here today by City Detective J. W. Murphy on a warrant charging him with assaulting William Arnow, a bricklayer, last night after he left the Home Industry Foundry.

William Kluge, operator of the foundry where Arnow was employed, denounced the swearing out of the warrant for disorderly conduct as a farce, as it was purely a case of assault. The police today are guarding all the iron plants in anticipation of trouble.

Indictment Found in Postal Fraud Case

GAOSEN, Aug. 7.—The Federal Grand Jury today returned a true bill against E. C. Drew, the true name of the promoter, for using the mail to defraud. There are 47 counts.

Whether Drew will be tried at this term of court is to be determined at the completion of the session today.

The indictment was returned in a special report of the Grand Jury, that body not yet having completed its work. A mistrial resulted in the case of Oscar Ponder, charged with violating the white slave law.

Alderman Accused Of Wasting Funds

COLUMBUS, Aug. 7.—A mild sensation was created in the semi-monthly meeting of Girard Council, when Mayor Marchant announced he had accused Alderman Tillman from former service on the Street Committee, because he had undertaken a job that would cost the city $1,000 more than necessary, because he had not taken the necessary steps to get competitive prices.

Mayor Marchant brought forth a list of items from Alderman Tillman.

Light Money Causes Reduction of Fines

EUFAULA, Aug. 7.—The tight money market is providing a boon to offenders in the city police court. In eight cases this morning Mayor Mercer caused the fines as previously assessed practically in half.

Money is too scarce just now to place fines at the same figure as during the winter," said the Mayor as he cut them down as low as $2.50.

E. Z. Jones Florida Game Commissioner

TALLAHASSEE, Aug. 7.—Governor Park Trammell has appointed E. Z. Jones of Jacksonville, to the State Game Commissioner. The office was created by the recent Legislature.

George W. Scoble, of Intermarine, has been appointed State Attorney for the Ocala Circuit. He has served as a member of the Legislature.

SCHOOL CHANGES URGED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 7.—Advocates of increased school facilities on Row Hill and in the northern part of the city in general, and suggesting the present High School building be turned into a grade school and an academic high school, are lined up on the grounds of the Columbus Industrial High School, the report of the Columbus Public Schools has been sent to Council.

REAPER BLADE SLASHES MAN

ANNISTON, Aug. 7.—The body of a merchant of Anniston, Ala., was seriously injured yesterday by a moving machine blade operated on the farm of his brother-in-law. While near there, the blade struck his "hides" against his leg, almost severing it.

BILL TO AID TEACHERS KILLED

House Defeats Measure Providing Election on Special Levy to Pay Tutors.

Dear to the appeals of the country schoolteachers of the State, who have not been paid one cent for more than six months, the Georgia House of Representatives on Thursday morning overwhelmingly defeated a constitutional amendment submitting to the voters of the State a proposition for a special tax levy of 1 mill in 1915 and 1-2 mill in 1916.

The revenue derived from both levies was to be added to the common school fund, and would, advocates of the bill claim, have relieved conditions that exist at present, under which the State has permitted its schoolteachers to go unpaid.

The vote was—AYES, 10; NAYS, 59. It needed 53 votes of receiving the requisite two-thirds majority.

Called Slap at States.

Headed by a denial of the request of the schoolteachers that they be paid what is due them, the action of the House in defeating the constitutional amendment is construed as a direct slap at Governor Slaton, inasmuch as the additional tax levy is advocated in his platform, and he has made a special request that the bill be passed, allowing the people to decide whether the teachers shall be paid.

The House by its action put itself on record as being opposed to any measure that will provide for the payment of the teachers.

The defeat of the Governor's constitutional amendment Thursday was accomplished by the same coalition that defeated his two bills Wednesday afternoon and which has declared it will fight to the bitter end all efforts to pass measures favored by Speaker Burwell and the Governor.

Hardman Leads Fight

The fight against the bill was led by Hardman, of Jefferson, who declared he was opposed to it because it raised the limit of taxation. Among those who spoke in favor of the bill were Fullbright, of Burke County; Gover, of Crisp; Wall, of Bibb; McMichael, of Marion; Wimberly, of Bibb; and Wheatley, of Sumter.

Prior to the defeat of his constitutional amendment bill Governor Slaton secured the enactment of the first of his measures that the Legislature has seen fit to pass. It was the inheritance tax bill, providing for taxation of legacies ranging from 1 per cent on $5,000 to 6 per cent on $100,000. The vote was 135 to 15. An amendment proposed by Greaves, of Houston, that all inheritances of whatever amount be taxed was lost.

The House also passed a resolution authorizing the governor to borrow any amount up to $500,000 provided to remedy the deficit in the State's revenues. The vote was 113 to 6.

Dixie Mayor Shot In Battle in Africa

LOUISVILLE, KY., Aug. 7.—Major Charles S. Young, U. S. Army, in charge of the military expedition sent to Liberia by the United States to train the Liberian army in modern warfare, was shot in the right arm and seriously wounded while leading his men in a battle with one of the fierce tribes of the interior, a letter from Major Young, of Louisville, told of the fray.

Young has been ordered to his home in Green County until he recovers from the interior "letter from Major Young, of Louisville, told of the fray."

Butt of Ram Kills Tennessee Woman

COCKEVILLE, TENN., Aug. 7.—Mrs. George Chubb, wife of a farmer, is dead today, the result of being struck by a vicious ram.

She had driven a pasture to herd the sheep when the animal attacked her, striking her with its head with great force.

TRIPPE AND GIRL GO TO STOCKADE

Salesman Placed on Probation and Typist Are Arrested Together in Macon.

A. M. Trippe, No. 74 Donna street, a salesman, and Miss Beatrice Henfroy, a young typist, both of whom figured in the police spotlight a few weeks ago, Thursday morning were each sentenced by Recorder Pro Tem. Fremont to serve fifty days in the city stockade.

Mrs. Trippe, who is the mother of three small children, was in court, but made no statement.

Trippe and the young typist were brought back to Atlanta from Macon early Thursday by Assistant Probation Officer R. L. Hollingsworth.

When they were arraigned before the time, Trippe promised to forgo the penalty and support his wife and children, and was placed on probation. Miss Henfroy was sent to the Martha House. Two or three nights later she made her escape and went to Macon. Trippe joined her there a week ago.

DALTON DISAPPOINTS COURT CROWD; ROSSER CALLS DR. L. W. CHILDS

Luther Rosser and Reuben Arnold began an assault Thursday noon upon the structure of evidence erected by the State against Leo M. Frank, accused of the murder of Mary Phagan.

It was the first opportunity the defense had been given to employ offensive tactics in the grim battle for Frank's life.

The testimony of Dr. H. F. Harris, who had just left the stand, was made the object of the first battering attack of Frank's determined lawyers.

As Dr. Harris left the stand at 12 o'clock Solicitor Dorsey announced that the State rested.

Dr. L. W. Childs, a physician and surgeon, immediately was called by the defense.

His first testimony of importance, if it was believed by the jury, served utterly to demolish the most sensational declaration of Dr. Harris, who startled his hearers last Friday by announcing with every appearance of certainty that Mary Phagan came to her death probably within 30 minutes of the time she ate her dinner April 23, positively within 45 minutes. Dr. Harris stated that he knew, because the cabbage he found in the girl's stomach hardly had been affected by the digestive juices.

Cabbage No Key to Time of Death.

Attorney Arnold showed Dr. Childs the specimen of cabbage from the Phagan girl's stomach.

The medical expert examined it and said:

"I have seen cabbage less changed by the digestive juices than that which had been in a person's stomach for 12 hours."

Dr. Childs continued his rebuttal of the testimony of Dr. Harris by saying that it was impossible to tell within hours how long any of the carbohydrates, of which cabbage is one, have been in the human stomach.

The digestive processes on carbohydrates, he declared, are practically nil while this class of foods is in the stomach. Cabbage, for example, may remain in the stomach for hours with little change from the digestive juices. The digestion, for the most part, occurs after the cabbage has passed into the small intestines, the physician said.

Dr. Harris' estimate, he declared, was only a guess.

He characterized in the same manner Dr. Harris' declaration that the blow Mary Phagan received on the back of the head caused unconsciousness.

Arnold's Hypothetical Question.

Arnold propounded to his witness a hypothetical question based on the circumstances under which Mary Phagan's body was exhumed and examined nine days after burial.

"If, under these circumstances," said Arnold, "there was found a wound on the back of her head which one physician said was 1 1/2 inches long and another said was 2 1/4 inches, and there was found no fracture of the skull or injury to the brain, and only a drop of blood which exerted no pressure on the brain, would any physician be justified in saying that the person receiving the blow was rendered unconscious?"

"He would have had to guess one way or the other," said Dr. Childs. "There was absolutely no way to tell whether the blow caused unconsciousness."

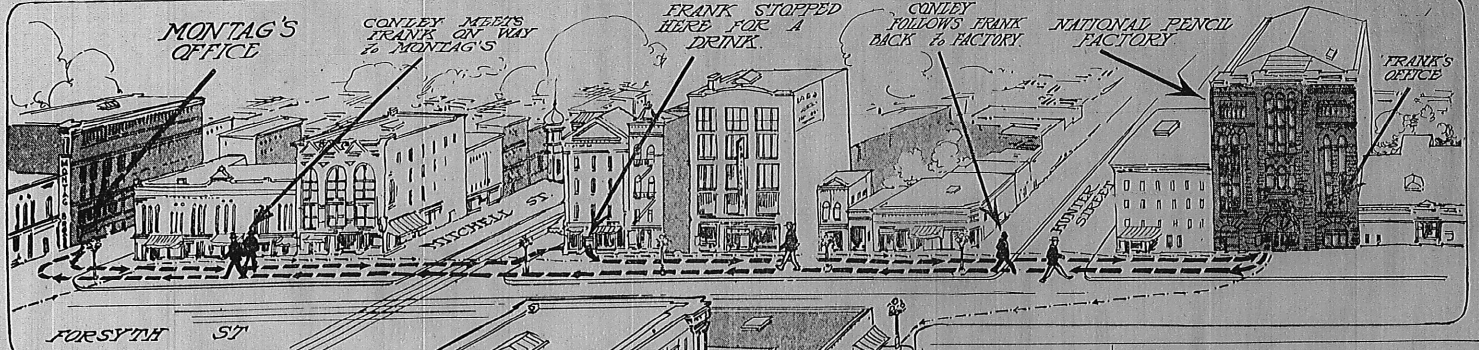

Arnold also brought out the startling testimony that a wound made from one to three hours after death has the same appearance as a wound shortly before death.

This statement was in direct contradiction of Dr. Harris' testimony and will be used by the defense in strengthening its theory of the manner in which the factory girl came to her death.

After he had reviewed some of the important bits of Dr. Harris' testimony and had put into the record Dr. Childs' testimony in rebuttal, Arnold asked the witness if he, in all his medical experience, had ever known of a physician of repute giving his opinion as to the unconsciousness of a person with no more data than had been in the possession of Dr. Harris.

Dr. Childs replied that he never had.

The mysterious C. B. Dalton, who was expected to make sensational revelations of incidents in which Leo Frank was alleged to have participated in the National Pencil Factory, proved a very tame and commonplace witness when he was called Thursday.

The most that Dalton could say was that, on several of his visits to the factory, he had seen women in Frank's office. He told of no compromising situations. He was not even able to identify the women. He did not know whether or not they were members of Frank's own family. All that he knew was that they did not appear to be stenographers as he never saw them writing.

Dalton, when he was questioned by Luther Rosser, was not even sure of his own birthplace. He thought it was somewhere in Laurens County. He explained his presence by saying that he had gone to the factory with a Miss Daisy Hopkins. He said that he saw Frank in the office with two or three women, and that cool drinks generally were in evidence. On one occasion he said Frank and his visitors were drinking beer.

Detective Rosser on Stand.

Detective Bass Rosser was on the witness stand for a few minutes and was questioned briefly. He testified that when he saw Mrs. Arthur White the Monday after the crime she failed to tell him that she had seen a negro in the factory the Saturday the girl was killed. He said he did not get possession of this information until May 6 or 7. It is the contention of the State that the defense suppressed these facts.

At the conclusion of Detective Rosser's testimony, Solicitor Dorsey announced that he was prepared to rest as soon as Dr. H. F. Harris had completed the testimony which was interrupted by adjournment Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Harris was unable to appear when court opened at 9 o'clock. The prosecution had nothing more to present at 9:45 and a recess was taken until Dr. Harris arrived at 11:10.

Reuben Arnold began at once on a cross-examination of Dr. Harris as soon as the physician took the stand. He forced Dr. Harris to say that there is much uncertainty in drawing conclusions about digestive functions and their time limitations.

Solicitor Dorsey also asked for the submission of the National Pencil Company's cash book and bank book before he rested his case. This was agreed to by Frank's lawyers.

One of the most interesting pieces of evidence for the purpose of demonstration in the possession of the defense is a large-sized model of the National Pencil Company constructed on an accurate scale.

Frank chatted with his wife and mother in the intermission while the court was awaiting Dr. Harris, and a little later engaged in conversation with his attorneys. Dr. Childs entered the courtroom and talked several minutes with the defendant.

Mr. Arnold said: "Further than this witness I don't know what line we will pursue at present."

Frank at the pencil factory?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"Last fall, some time."

Q. Where was Frank at that time?

A. At his office.

Q. Who was in there with him?

A. Some ladies.

Q. Were there any other men in there with him?

A. No; he was the only man.

Q. Who was you with?

A. Miss Daisy Hopkins.

Q. Do you know the names of the ladies in the office with Frank?

A. No.

Q. Where did you go?

A. I went to the basement.

Q. Were Miss Daisy with you?

A. Yes.

Q. When did you go to the factory?

A. Right before Christmas.

Q. Who introduced you to Frank?

A. Miss Daisy Hopkins.

Q. Did you see Frank, "This is my friend, Mr. Dalton," did she?

A. Yes.

Q. Went to Basement.

Q. You were never in his office after Christmas?

A. No.

Q. When you went into the factory with Miss Daisy, you went down to the basement with her, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did you go down into the basement?

A. We went down the ladder by the elevator.

Q. Where did you go in the basement?

A. Right to where there were some boxes in the little room in the rear.

Q. Where did you live last year?

A. No. 227 East Hunter street.

Q. Who did you work for?

A. Mr. Heltin, a contractor.

Q. Where did you work after that?

A. With Captain John McInnis.

Q. What time did you see Frank in his office?

A. Some time between 2 and 3 o'clock.

Q. Were the windows up?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you see any curtains?

A. No, but the office was very light.

Q. There were two windows in each office, weren't there?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether there was anyone else in the factory when you saw Mr. Frank?

A. Yes, the negroes were there.

Q. Saw Negro Watchman.

Q. What time at night was it when the night watchman was there?

A. I don't know.

Q. Was it a negro watchman?

A. Yes.

Q. Was that this year?

A. No.

Q. Where you ever in Walton County?

A. I lived there twenty years.

Q. How long were you away from there?

A. I went to Lawrenceville for a year.

Q. How long ago?

A. I don't know I forgot just how long ago it was.

Q. Did you ever go with anyone to the pencil factory except Miss Daisy Hopkins?

A. Yes, I used to go to the factory. I lived there twenty years close to walk home with the girls.

Q. Can you name the girls?

A. Yes, Miss Laura Atkinson and a Miss Laura Smith, of No. 143 South Pryor street.

Q. Did you ever see any more?

A. No; I haven't been to the Buay Bay in a long time.

Q. Do you ever see your born?

A. I don't know.

Q. When you first woke up, where were you?

A. Somewhere in Walton County.

Gave Conley Money.

Q. As a matter of fact, you know where your family lived when you were born, don't you?

A. Somewhere near Lawrenceville.

Solicitor Dorsey took the witness on the redirect examination.

Q. Did you ever give Jim Conley anything?

A. Sometime I would give him a quarter and sometimes 50 cents. Sometimes they would have cold drinks, and sometimes they would have beer.

Hosser took the witness again.

Q. When did you see beer there?

A. On Saturday afternoons—I don't remember the date.

Q. Can you name specifically any time last fall that you went there?

A. Not the day, but it was some time after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Frank would have the cold drinks on a water in his office.

Can't Give Woman's Names.

Q. And that is as definite as you can fix it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know the woman behind the ones you name?

A. No.

Q. Can you describe them?

A. "Come down."

City Detective S. L. Rosser took the stand.

Q. Since April 26, have you been engaged in this case?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you visit Mrs. Arthur White subsequent to that date?

A. Yes.

Q. At what time?

A. Monday, April 27.

Q. Did she say anything about seeing a negro at the pencil factory Saturday?

A. No.

Q. What was the first time she mentioned to you seeing a negro at the factory?

A. May 5.

I want to record an objection to that, your honor, said Hosser.

Rosser took the witness.

She Made Statement.

Q. Did you ask her?

A. No; but she made a statement.

Dorsey took the witness of redirect.

Q. Did you take anything to Dr. Claude Smith?

A. Yes, some chips.

Q. Are these the chips?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you make a search of the away-around the elevator?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you find anything like this (showing the blackboard alleged to have been found by the Pinkertons)?

A. No.

Q. Would you have found it?

A. Yes.

Attorney Rosser took the witness direct.

Q. Don't you know this roller has been in that factory two years?

A. It may have been, but it was not on the first floor when we made our search.

State Wins Ruling.

Q. You made a good search?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know these are the same chips?

A. Yes, I am sure of that.

The witness was excused.

Direct address of the court.

"I don't know whether we tendered that bloody shirt or not. If we did not, I want to tender it now. I want to enter these chips."

Attorney Rosser.

"They haven't been identified."

"They were identified by Detective show judgment?"

A. No. Very many people have indigestion several years and don't know it. They don't even feel it themselves.

Q. How long does the stomach take to free itself when it is full?

A. That has been investigated rather thoroughly, but it varies. I would say about 7 to 8 hours.

Q. How long does it take some substance that the stomach does not digest?

A. I don't know. It may be said to say. They probably pass through in a foreign body.

Q. How long would it take a—that depends. The stomach doesn't like to free itself of meat until it is emulsified. Then it goes out very freely.

About Digestion of Cabbage.

Q. That is just the point. Does the stomach emulsify cabbage or corn?

A. Oh, yes; there is always a constant churning motion.

Q. How about corn?

A. It might pass through without emulsifying.

Q. Peas?

A. Yes.

Q. Would you not attempt to enumerate what vegetables would pass through the stomach to the intestines?

A. No, I would not.

Q. Is it not a fact that the first knowledge of digestion comes from that Canadian case?

A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that the only experiments before that time were made on rabbits and other animals for vegetables, and animals for meat?

A. Yes.

Q. Is there any animal that eats everything that man does?

A. Yes, the swine.

Q. Any other?

A. I rather think the cat does.

Q. Well, isn't the wildest a carnivorous animal strictly?

A. I don't know. I never associated with one.

Q. You will admit that the experiments along this line are very limited with the exception of that Canadian case?

A. Yes.

Processes Not All Understood.

Q. It is practically in its infancy.

A. Well, I would not say that. We are fairly familiar with the various phases and the process of digestion, but there is still much to learn.

Q. Just what part does the mouth and saliva play in connection with the stomach and the gastric juices and the lower bowels? Is not this something that is not definitely known?

A. Yes, that is true.

Q. Don't you practice vivisection on these animals?

A. Yes.

Q. And you have never done it on humans, and you don't know how the process takes place in the human like you do in the animal?

A. I can't say with the stomach.

Q. What is the hardest vegetable to digest? I mean, leaving your experiments and speaking from the viewpoint of science.

A. I don't know that anyone has ever determined that.

Q. Isn't cabbage regarded as one of the hardest vegetables to digest?

A. I probably have heard that. It may be that after cabbage has gone through the stomach, trouble may be caused in the small intestines that may be what has given the general idea that cabbage is hard to digest.

Q. Didn't you say when you first testified that you couldn't tell anything about the bread in the stomach?

A. I don't think I made that statement.

Mr. Arnold read his testimony previously given.

Dr. Harris: "If I said that, I did not mean it in that sense. I meant that you could tell nothing about it by observing with the naked eye."

Q. You said it was impossible to state absolutely how long that cabbage had been in Mr. Frank's stomach?

A. I mean I could not state within a minute.

Q. Could you tell within two minutes?

A. No, not within 3, 4, or 5. Probably not within 10 minutes. But I could tell that it was somewhere between 30 and 45 minutes.

Q. Doesn't it all depend on how much digestion is delayed?

A. To an extent.

Q. All you are attempting to say, then, is that the process of digestion had only gone on a certain length of time?

A. Yes.

Q. Didn't you say that certain circumstances retard digestion?

A. Yes, but I don't say that anything could retard the flow of the digestive juices. No one has ever shown that anything could retard the process of digestion.

Head Wound Not Serious.

Q. I believe you said that wound on the head did not cause any pressure on the brain?

A. Yes.

Q. Was it cut through to the skull?

A. Yes.

Q. What arteries were there?

A. Only some trifling blood vessels.

Q. I believe you said it might have bled a good deal?

A. Yes, it might. A cut on the head usually causes a good deal of blood to flow.

Q. I believe you said it was not sufficient to have caused death?

A. Yes, I did.

Solicitor Dorsey then took the witness.

Q. Mr. Arnold was asking you yesterday about poisons. Was there any evidence on the mucous membrane of poisons?

A. There could not have been any irritant poison. Their evidence is always unmistakable.

Dr. Harris was excused.

Dorsey addressed the court: "Your honor, I wish to tender these samples of cabbage as evidence."

Arnold: "We want to object to all except that taken from Mary Prang."

JIM CONLEY, THE EBONY CHEALIER OF CRIME, IS DARKTOWN'S OWN HERO

Now that James Conley has been dismissed from the Frank trial, now that he has stood safely the fire of Mr. Rosser's most exhaustive grilling, what of him?

If Frank is convicted, Conley subsequently will be convicted, no doubt of being an accessory after the fact of Mary Phagan's murder—and that will mean three years, at most, in the penitentiary.

After that—when the Frank trial, more or less, has been forgotten, Conley will be at liberty to come back among the people of Atlanta.

Not far from Five Points, a little due east along one of the big thoroughfares meeting there, there is a negro bookshop, who now and then, when he is on the job, which for a negro he isn't, gives me a "shin" so much to my liking that it brings me back on other days.

It is a sort of Jim Conley negro—at least, he has an smattering of education, an insinuating air, and is polite, particularly when it pays him to be.

Quite without previous design, I stopped at this negro's stand Wednesday afternoon, and it was not long before he mentioned the famous trial. He having started the conversation, I asked him a few questions—and his replies, given herein in part, rather set me to thinking.

"Complimented on All Sides." "George," I said—not that I know his name is George, but that it no happens I address negroes unknown by name that way—"what do your friends down on Decatur street think of Jim Conley's story over the Phagan murder?" Baber cleverly, negro, Jim, eh?" said I to this bookish. "Well, boss, dat Mr. Rosser ain't nothin' on Jim 'til he's finished George."

I ventured the opinion that Mr. Rosser failed, at least to make Jim out to many different kinds of a liar that his story might not stick in spots. "Well, boss," continued my bureau of information, "dem niggers down on Decatur street, dey ain't talking of making but Jim Conley. He's de most talked about nigger anywhere. I guess, I hears him complimented on all sides."

"In other words, Jim's a sort of hero along Decatur street nowadays?" said I.

"Yassir, dat's it—Jim's a hero. He does not talk about him. He does not get de best of de masses of 'em. Nobody can't fool er nigger like Jim!"

Here Arnold "Butt In" Frank.

I presume, too, that something of the same condition prevails over on Peters street, in the neighborhood of the "Butt In" bar over there.

You remember the "Butt In" barroom in Peters street is the one wherein Conley filled up rather freely on the morning of the Phagan murder, also on being mixed with wine. The "Butt In," it also will be recalled is where Conley, obtained "double-header" beer—"double-header" being the order of the day always

PROSECUTOR DORSEY SNAPPED IN ACTION

This shows the Solicitor in an argument at the Frank trial.

It is not impossible that many a foaming "double-header" has been dumped into dusky citizens along the way of the "Butt In" bar over on Peters street, and the way he "done got de best of de masses of 'em, over dar in de big court."

If Jim Conley ever gets back to Decatur street, and hereafter he is permitted to tread the primrose way of the "Butt In" bar over on Peters street, all probability the drink will not cost him anything for many days.

The proprietor of the "Butt In" doubtless right now would scorn to mention the name of Jim Conley.

ROAN'S RULING HEAVY BLOW TO DEFENSE

Judge Declined to Order Out of Record Any of Jim Conley's Testimony.

Judge Roan administered a severe blow to the defense Wednesday when he ruled that all of Conley's story should stand, although portions of it, he acknowledged, would have been inadmissible had objection been made at the time the testimony was offered.

It was a particularly difficult allegation to combat. Unlike many allegations, it was exactly as hard to fight in the event it was false as in case it was founded on fact.

Judge Roan said in regard to the testimony of Dalton that he did not know what it was to be and that he would allow it to be presented so that he might rule on its admissibility as it came up.

Solicitor Dorsey put the final rivet in his case so far as it rested upon the testimony of Conley when at the close of his reading examination of the negro he brought to light the State's theory of the disposition that had been made of the Phagan girl's mesh bag.

Practically no mention of the mesh bag had been made during the week and a half of the trial. The only reference made to it was in the examination of Mr. J. Coleman, mediator of the slain girl, and of the officers who visited the scene of the crime immediately after the murder. The question was asked by the negro nightwatchman, Newt Lee.

Tells of Mesh Bag. Mrs. Coleman testified that Mary left home with the mesh bag in her hand. The detectives and policemen all testified that they were able to find no trace of it either the morning after the crime or in the search that had been conducted since then.

"Did you ever see the murdered girl's mesh bag?" Dorsey asked Conley, just as it appeared that he had finished his questioning.

"Yes, sah, I see it," Conley replied.

"It was right on Mr. Conley's desk when I went in there to write the notes?"

"Did you see what became of it?"

"Yes, sah; Mr. Frank went and put it in his hand."

Conley left the stand at 11:30 o'clock still sticking to his charge that Len Frank killed the Phagan girl and that, at Frank's direction, he (Conley) assisted in the disposal of the body. He had been on the stand fifteen and one-half hours and under the grilling cross-examination of Luther Rosser for more than thirteen hours.

Practically the only addition he made to his story is a statement in his direct examination as to his declaration that while he was writing the murder notes Frank took the mesh bag out of his hand and threw it into a later made him rub out the "X" he had written as he spelled out "negro" Conley said he wrote the note at that.

"A long tall black negro did this by himself."

A long argument over the admissibility of Conley's testimony in regard to the mesh bag took place at noon. Conley testified before the arguments were concluded, and the debate was resumed the next day.

Arnold cited opinions from courts in States from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but his arguments were unavailing, and the decision went against the defense. There was a murmur of applause and a stamping of feet.

Arnold instantly was on his feet with a motion for a mistrial, but he realized at once that the jury was not present and withdrew the motion. He threatened, however, to make a motion that the courtroom be cleared if such a demonstration occurred again.

Dr. Harris Recalled. Dr. Harris was recalled to complete the testimony which he was giving when he collapsed on the stand the Friday before. He repeated his assertion as to the time Mary Phagan came to her death after eating dinner at her home in Bellwood Saturday shortly before noon.

"I can say with almost absolute certainty," he declared, "that this little girl was killed within 20 or 40 minutes after she ate her meal that day."

If refused, under cross-examination, to change his testimony in the least in respect to the cause of death, he was asked to testify that the girl had been employed. It was plainly to be seen that the doctor's testimony about the girl's neck before death and the deep indentation showed that it was impossible for her to have breathed and caused death within a brief time.

Although Arnold was unable to make the physician alter the statement of his opinion, he obtained an order that a blow on the head sufficient to cause death might im-take Mr. Conley's honest money—the violent presumption being that Jim ever had, or ever will have, that kind of money—even for "double-header."

Jim has just passed through the fire. And he got through his reputation more or less damaged for truthfulness, to be sure, but not utterly shattered beyond patching up in such a way that it might be worked over more times, at least if necessary.

Conley already had been in jail several times that he could not recall precisely, and that had served to make him something of a hero in the newspaper headlines. His involuntary residence in duress vile heretofore has been in police circles and more costly changeage exclusively. So that didn't make him a particularly big hero—about it made him a hero not altogether to be sneezed at.

Now, however, Jim has been in "de big court," tangled all up in a murder case, suspected by some of being a principal to the murder, indeed, but cleverly side-stepping that too, dead and buried, and his name has been in all the newspapers hundreds of times, and before he gets through with it, he will be decorated by the State majesty in stripes—but the latter not so long that it will actually inconvenience anybody, particularly Jim.

All in all, Jim's a real hero in Darktown, at least—a real, ebony character of crime—and those brethren who frequent the "Butt In" and the "Butt Out," and those disparaging remarks of denigration will now down and worship Jim—for, in their philosophy, of such a Jim is the Decatur street "kingdom of heaven."

Ruling Generally Approved. The general impression seems to be that Judge Roan did the right thing in permitting the Conley story to go to the jury in its entirety, inasmuch as it had gone to deadly parts anyway.

Perhaps the evidence fixing upon Len Frank another crime, the one he stands charged with under the present indictment, was, primarily, inadmissible, but there was no way to relieve the jury of the charge. Conley made, and it would have been hard to get the jury, the court and even to the defendant to cut the story off there.

If the State is able to sustain its charge against Frank, it is in common sense now to let it proceed to the corroborator of Conley, if it can corroborate him.

To have left Conley's charge uncontradicted nor corroborated—that would merely have resulted in a probable corroborator in the minds of the public, if not elsewhere.

The things Conley said to the Frank jury can not be said and then forgotten.

It would have been folly to have asked a jury to forget—it would have been imposing upon it an impossible mental task.

Other Charge as Serious. If it so be that error was committed in not ruling out the story, a new trial will be granted, on appeal, in the event of Frank's conviction—and the trial next time undoubtedly will proceed without this particular evidence.

The State can, if it fails to sustain eventually its charge of murder, still move against Frank. If it so elects in the other direction—quick crime under the Code, is quick as a scorpion's sting.

One may feel the injustice of thinking at Frank, who on trial for murder, another capital charge—will be added to the list of charges, admitted, with protest, as an original proposition, few people will contend strenuously that the State should not be permitted to proceed to the conclusion of a line of evidence begun without protest.

I have heard Judge Roan's ruling discussed about town last night, and today, and I heard few who did fault in it.

Indeed, as matter of simple justice to Frank, he has less than in the States, and it will not do to forget that the State has large rights at stake in this matter. It seems common sense and elementary justice that the State, having made its a fool charge, he should either be corroborated, or that that appears to be—the public attitude in the matter.

FORSYTH NEGRO'S CABIN DYNAMITED

John Woolsey Suffers Broken Leg When Blown Through the Roof of House.

CUMMING, Aug. 7.—John Woolsey, the only negro in Forsyth County, was blown out of bed through the roof of his cabin, eight miles north of Cumming, and suffered a broken leg, when dynamite was set off under the house, according to information that has reached Cumming. The dynamiting took place on the farm of Wesley Smith. The dynamites cut all telephone wires into that part of the county, which prevented the news reaching here sooner. Woolsey was hurried out of the county to Gainesville by Smith.

The negro had moved to the Smith place just a few days ago. He was warned to get rid of him. Neither he nor the dynamiting resulted. The cabin occupied by Woolsey was completely wrecked.

I. W. W. Leaders Plan Great Lakes Strike

DULUTH, Aug. 7.—One of the most widespread strikes ever attempted by Great Lakes dock workers was in prospect today. Plans were being formed to extend the strike from all the docks in Duluth to the one ship in port in Wisconsin and Michigan.

Industrial Workers of the World planning the strike, contemplated calling out the dock workers at Two Harbors, Mich.; Superior, Wis.; Ashland, Wis.; Marquette, Mich., and Escanaba, Mich.

Dr. Harris, however, did not believe that the blow on Mary Phagan's head was enough to cause death. He said that the blow was not severe, but made from a little roll of wood on the brain which could not have caused any pressure, the brain was entirely normal.

ATLANTA, Aug. 7.—The latter part of the afternoon session centered in the examination of the witness in regard to the Phagan case. The witness, Dr. Harris, was present in the courtroom, but the testimony that was made for poison.

SENATE AND HOUSE BODIES IN JOINT MEETING AGREE TO FAVOR THE

The bill introduced into the House by Representative Ellis of Georgia to remove the Georgia Experiment Station from Griffin, Ga., to the Southern part of the state, was recommended for passage by both the Senate Committee on Agriculture and the House Committee No. 3 on Agriculture.

The favorable report on the bill was prepared at a joint meeting of the committees Wednesday afternoon. The bill has been favorably considered by the Senate Committee, which later voted to reconsider its action when pressure was brought to bear. The House Committee had not acted prior to the Wednesday meeting.

The report is expected to precipitate a fight in the House. It is regarded as unlikely that any definite action on the bill will be taken at this session of the Legislature. Members of the General Assembly who advocate Griffin as the place for the station have been active in their fight on the bill.

The meeting Wednesday was attended by many adherents of Griffin, and a number of those who want the station removed to South Georgia, as well as several who desire its removal to Athens.

Among those who addressed the meeting were Dr. A. C. True, of the Agricultural Department of Washington, who has supervision over all State experiment stations, and Commissioner of Agriculture J. D. Price, who said the removal of the station would not affect the Federal present location.
