HUNDREDS STORM COURT AS CASE NEARS THE JURY

With every prospect of Leo M. Frank's fate being in the hands of the jury before Saturday afternoon, Solicitor Hugh Dorsey Saturday morning resumed his masterful arraignment of the man accused of the slaying of Mary Phagan and the methods that have been used in his defense.

Hundreds clamored for admission when the courtroom doors were opened Saturday morning and there were more than a thousand in line when court opened.

The brilliance and dash of the Solicitor's opening had attracted the greatest crowd of the trial—a crowd unquestionably in sympathy with Mr. Dorsey.

Frank entered the courtroom as calm as usual, and took a seat be-character. David had a good character until he put Uriah in the forefront of battle that he might be killed, that he could get his wife. Judge Leavelle had a good character among those Twelve Men until he accepted those 20 pieces of silver.

"You know as twelve men seeking to get at the truth that they did not ask those hair-brained fanatics, as Mr. Arnold calls them, questions about Frank's character because they were afraid, and those witnesses, as good as any the defense put up, were unimpeached and are unimpeachable. And you tell me that because the good people come here from Washington street and testify to his good character is that he has one!

"I very often happens that a man's wife is the last person to know his wrongdoing. Sometimes the man uses charitable and religious organizations to cover up and hide his evil self. Very often his guilty conscience turns him that way. Many a man is a wolf in sheep's clothing.

"Dorsey moved over to the railing of the jury box as he opened his speech.

"Many a man is a white sapphire on the outside and absolutely rotten within. But suppose he has a good character, David had a good character. This defendant has not a good character. The conduct of the counsel in this case in failing to cross-examine, in refusing to cross-examine these twenty young ladies, refutes effectively and absolutely the claim of the defendant that he has a good character.

Says Defense Had Right to Refute Charge.

"As I said, if this man had a good character, no power on earth could have kept him and his counsel from asking those young girls where they got their information and why they dealt what they did. Now that's a common sense proposition.

"I have shown you that under the law they had a right to bring out all those things. You saw they dared not do it. Let's see what the law says. I'll read here from the Eighty-third Georgia Report:

"Whenever any persons have evidence in their possession and they fail to produce it, the strongest presumption arises that it would be harmful if they did, and their failure to produce evidence is a circumstance against them."

"Your honor and gentlemen of the jury," he said, "I was speaking to you you that, it's plain common sense. "Benedict Arnold was brave. He enjoyed the confidence of all the people and those in charge of the Revolutionary War until he betrayed his country. Since that day his name has been a synonym for infamy. Our dear Wilde, an Irish knight, a brilliant author, whose works will go down through time, gave us 'The Profound,' which I wrote while in jail—remarkable work—yet when the Marquis de Queensberry discovered that there was something wrong between Wilde and his son, Wilde had the effrontery and the boldness to sue him for damages. A suit in retaliation resulted in the conviction of Wilde for criminal practices. Yet, wherever the English language is spoken the effrontery of this man—an effrontery typical of his sort (turning to Frank) will always be a masterful deep study for lawyers and for people interested in that sort of degeneracy."

"He had a wife and two children. His shame probably never would have been brought to light but for the fact that he had the effrontery and the boldness to start a suit. It ended in his being sent to prison."

Dorsey's Opening.

Dorsey's Opening.

Solicitor Dorsey's fiery speech to the jury began at 3:30 Friday afternoon and was halted by adjournment about 5:15. The Solicitor was not slow in entering into his attack against the prisoner. And his criticism of the manner in which the lawyers of the defense had conducted the case.

It seemed carried away by his earnestness. His impassioned words as he appealed to the jury that the people would have to get another Solicitor General if they wanted to put the rope around Jim Conley's neck for the crime deeply stirred all within range of his voice.

The Solicitor declared that Conley was not guilty of the murder, and had no more part in the crime than he had (told) right on the stand.

"Conley is the self-confessed accessory after the fact," he said; "only that and nothing more. If you try to put a noose around his neck it will have to be under another Solicitor General, for right there sits the man guilty of this crime."

Dorsey took the Durant case, of which Attorney Arnold had made much the day before, and converted it into a boomerang against the defense. Arnold had related it as showing the terrible mistake that may come from circumstantial evidence. He had said that Theodore Durant was convicted of the brutal slaying of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams and was executed for the crime. Several years later the minister in whose church the body of Durant found sepulchred himself confessed to the murder, according to Arnold.

Dorsey tried to read a letter and a telegram he had received from San Francisco to controvert Frank's lawyer, but was prevented by objections. He was permitted to state from his own information, however, that no such confession ever took place, and that no man ever was guiltier than Durant, no jury more courageous and

On Durant Case.

Dorsey tried to read a letter and a telegram he had received from San Francisco to controvert Frank's lawyer, but was prevented by objections. He was permitted to state from his own information, however, that no such confession ever took place, and that no man ever was guiltier than Durant, no jury more courageous and no community more satisfied with a verdict.

"I don't know where my friend Arnold found the authority for his strange statements about this Durant case," said Dorsey. "If he is no more accurate than this in his statements that you have heard the testimony of every girl on the fourth floor of the factory as to Frank's good character, I fear there is a lot yet to be heard from."

The Solicitor laid particular stress on the failure of Rosser and Arnold to cross-question the character witnesses against Frank that the State had placed on the stand. In his opinion this raised a strong presumption that Frank was the immoral man that the prosecution had represented him to be.

"If charges are made that can be explained or controverted," he said, "and there is no effort made by the defendant to do so, it is reasonable to suppose that he is guilty of the accusations."

The Solicitor maintained that the State had been practically helpless in this respect. He said he had been able only to bring girls into the courtroom to swear to Frank's general character and to his general attitude toward women. He had been estopped by court ruling from showing particular acts of alleged immorality and improper conduct, he said.

But he maintained, if Frank were innocent of the acts of immorality charged against him, it was most unlikely that he would have let his lawyers be silent when those girls were on the stand testifying against him.

Why Did Frank Not Refute Charges.

He would have insisted on his lawyers finding out exactly how much these witnesses knew and where they got their information, the Solicitor declared.

"Now, gentlemen," he argued, "if you were of good character and twenty witnesses were brought here to testify that your character was bad, would you sit supinely and not make your attorneys insist upon specific instances? No, I know you wouldn't. Yet three able counsel let twenty girls tell the court that Frank's character was bad and that his character for lackluster, which uncontrolled and uncontrollable, led him to kill Mary Phagan, was bad, and never asked them how they knew.

Dorsey, in spite of the indignant denials made on the stand by Miss Rebecca Carson, related that she was one of the women who had gone into the dressing room on the fourth floor with Frank.

Cotton Seed Industry Growing in Georgia

SMYRNA, ASIATIC TURKEY, Aug. 23.—Warehouses owned by the Standard Oil Company, containing 2,300 cases of oil, were fired to-day.

Everything in the sheds was burned.

He dubbed the Solicitor and Detectives Starves, Black, Campbell, Ross, and Scott as "professors."

Chief Lanford happened to walk into the courtroom just at this moment.

"Ah, there's the dean himself," remarked Foster with a mock bow.

Jim Conley was his pupil, he said, only that he probably called him "James."

Conley's story he branded as a lie, and he admitted to see as it appeared in his first and second affidavits, and jury lies as it was contained in his third affidavit.

Defends Character of the Accused. He defended the character of Frank which he said had been blackened only by the lies of the perjured Conley and his white ally, Dalton.

He stated the conditions at the National Pencil Factory were no better and no worse than at any other factory employing about 100 women and about as many men.

Rosser charged that the whole case against Frank was based on flimsy suspicions and that there was not one direct or weighty piece of evidence from first to last.

He closed with an impulsive appeal to the jurors who he thanked for the close attention they had given him and his address and all the testimony that had been brought out in the three weeks and a half.

JUDGE PRESIDING IN FRANK TRIAL

Judge Roan has conducted many noted murder cases in his long career on the bench, but never has he had a more difficult task than in the present trial.

PARENT OF SLAIN MRS. GODBEE TO ASK JUSTICE

Dr. McNaughton's Attorney Is Retained to Defend Divorced Wife Who Killed Couple.

MILLEN, Aug. 23.—Following the funeral of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Boyer Godbee, the second victim of the shooting of last Monday, who was buried Friday by the side of her late husband, W. S. Godbee, in Waynesboro, Pa., made her first public statement concerning the dual tragedy since her arrival from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Godbee was the only daughter and had been the idol of the Pennsylvania home. Nothing was shared to give her every advantage.

In speaking of the tragedy Mrs. Godbee said: "Florence so often wrote me that she would be happy to see me."

Disfranchise Men Like Tillman, Is Plea

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 23.—Mrs. B. C. Gudden, one of the leading clubwomen of Wisconsin, in reply to the anti-suffrage speech of Senator Tillman, says:

"The sooner men are disfranchised the better for the State and family, judging from Senator Tillman's anti-suffrage campaign of politics with a dash of pitch. He would prefer degraded, corrupt politics to degraded and bad women an instinctive which attracts more than a million earnest women voters and indirectly millions of good men."

Court Denies Him His Wife's Teeth

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Separation from one's wife in the eyes of the law, furnishes no excuse for attempting to separate that wife from her teeth, even though the husband did buy them and considered them his property.

This is the ruling of Police Judge Auland, and as a result, Harry Hartley today is in the workhouse under a 30-day sentence.

He charged that the lawyer had paid for them. Hardesty expatiated. The judge declined to adopt the husband's viewpoint.

Thaw now has retained ten lawyers and is negotiating with attorneys in New Hampshire and Vermont to conduct a fight there for him if he is sent over the line in one of his States.

The fugitive was in a sorry frame of mind to-day. He had quarreled with W. L. Shurtless and with J. N. Greenhill, two of his counsel.

With his collar ruffled and hair flying wildly, Thaw stormed about his cell. He charged that the lawyers were not doing all in their power to help him.

The prisoner has telegraphed to William Blakee, District Attorney of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania (his attorney at Pittsburgh), asking that some official action be taken to protect him.

Under the Canadian law the immigration officials will take charge of the custody of the Superior Court next week. A court of appeal then will be held and it then will be decided that Thaw is an undesirable alien citizen.

Thaw has been represented by counsel at this sitting of the court and will protest against deportation, demanding that the Government prove to do this, but will allow no time to be wasted in the process. Papers have been received here from New York State by which the Government's representatives hope to show Thaw a mental incompetent.

Canada then will have washed its hands of the case and the fight will be transferred to the United States.

Changes Mind Frequently. However, if Thaw determines to remain on this side of the border, he will fight his case to a finish, he might be helped, through technicalities, to remain here indefinitely.

The fugitive has angered his lawyers by his erratic demands. At times he will dominate his high-salad counsel, and then he will suddenly turn about and adopt an air of meekness. A court of appeal then will be held and it then will be decided that Thaw is an undesirable alien citizen.

CHILDREN EAGER FOR FINALS IN PLAY RALLY

Grant Park Youngsters in Lead When Rain Causes Postponement of Contests.

Seven hundred enthusiastic embryo athletes, the school children who enter the city playgrounds in summer, eagerly await the second division of the annual playground field day which will be run off at Grant Park next week.

The games were begun Friday afternoon, but owing to the length of time consumed by the races and the rain which came up late in the afternoon, only about half of the events were completed.

Interest in the second division centers in the individual events, inasmuch as the Grant Park playground, by winning six out of six seconds and one third Friday, a total of 49 points, has captured the point trophy unless the other playgrounds can do better.

The first division of the field day was held at the Grant Park playground under the direction of J. H. Dean.

Children Cheer Flag. Prior to the races Frank Reynolds, vice president of the Park board, and J. H. Dean, a member, raised the Stars and Stripes to the playground flagstaff amid a burst of enthusiasm.

The Fifth Regiment Band furnished music during the afternoon.

The summary of Friday's events follows: Fifty-yard dash, boys, aged 8 to 10; Alter, Mitchell, Pine Hill, Hart; John Burk Van Hecke, Jr., former Park second, and Howard McKelvey, Grant Park.

Fifty-yard dash for boys, 9 to 10; Roy Yandore, Pine Hill, Hart; Henry Newman, Mitchell Park, second, and Marshall Barrett, English Avenue.

Seventy-five-yard dash, for senior boys, James Wright, Grant Park, first; Hubert Williamson, Grant Park, second; and J. H. Dean, Grant Park, third.

Slit in Skirt Sends Girl to the Asylum

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 23.—A slit skirt landed Miss Edna Kay, 22, and very pretty in the insane asylum.

The slit was very extensive, on much so that a policeman felt that it offered ordinary modesty. So he took her to jail, where it was decided to send her to an asylum for treatment.

ALABAMA ROADS PREPARED FOR PATHFINDER

Sunday American's Southern Trail Blazer Finds Gangs of Boosters at Work on Highways.

CLANTON, Ala., Aug. 23.—Pathfinder L. L. Ferguson, of the Hearst Sunday American coast-to-coast automobile highway tour, struck Mobile, Alabama with his group of good roads to be taught a lesson himself.

Fourteen Birmingham and Clanton road boosters were arrested and charged with obstructing the highway.

G. W. Wade, proprietor of the hotel here, received the party as royal guests. He said: "I'd rather have good roads than your money. You are my personal guests."

Clanton is halfway between Birmingham and Montgomery. It was reached on Friday afternoon, a journey of 83 miles. In Shelby County the work in progress was on a State aid road.

The other work was on a highway for the transcontinental highway.

At every town and village on the route large welcoming delegations were seen. Mr. Ferguson said he found Friday one of the most encouraging pathfindings tour days of the week.

After Montgomery the objective point of the tour is New Orleans. Mr. Ferguson is thinking of changing the route to go by Meridian.

Saturday morning the party was speeding toward Montgomery.

WEATHER HALTS AIR RACE.

Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. YARMOUTH, ENGLAND, Aug. 23.—The air-race which started last Sunday at Southampton has been indefinitely postponed because of bad weather.

Rural Mule Lured to City by Hay Bale

MEMPHIS, Aug. 23.—Following a bale of hay in the back of a truck farmer's wagon from the Nonconform Valley to Memphis, a mule fell into the hands of the pound master Thursday morning. In a few hours the owner of the mule claimed the animal.

While nibbling at a bale of hay on the back end of the farmer's wagon the hybrid did not measure the distance he was traveling and was soon in the city. The farmer caught the mule's arrest, and temporary detention.

Justice Wants Cose. "As to the divorced wife, I hope justice will be done. My daughter had never done any harm, and how she will ever have any peace again I can not say."

"My daughter had never been South before, but she often wrote me of things down here and said it was a great place and the people were so kind and kind. She said she would always want to live in the South."

And now that she is dead, I want her to sleep forever among the people she had learned to love so well, and among whom she was contented and happy."

Judge Godbee's wife has been opened and his effects have been inventoried. All his private papers have been left in charge of W. H. Wallace at the request of all interested parties. He and the Rev. E. E. Ross, Judge Godbee's pastor, read them.

Practically all his real estate holdings were in the name of his daughter, Miss Margie Godbee, who lives in Augusta. He had one policy of insurance for $1,000 payable to his estate.

No Will Contest Likely. It is not probable that there will be any contest concerning the division of his property. It is well worth $10,000, and practically all goes to his daughter.

He was married in 1910, and as he married since then, the Georgia laws make this will void. However, as his holdings were in the name of his daughter Margie, by direct deed, there is little over which to contest the will. None of these facts were on record, and he held power of attorney from his daughter.

In the last few years several times he had been started to force him to file the legal status of his property, but he either settled or defended them successfully.

The deeds were placed on record.

Chokes on Gum and Trolley Runs Wild

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 23.—Choking on a piece of gum which became lodged in his throat, Glenn Grice, motorman on the Shore Fast Line trolley system, fell unconscious at his controller while the car was running at high speed into this city from Pleasantville, and in the collision that followed several women passengers became pet-stricken.

The gum finally was extracted, but Grice required medical attention.

He and the Rev. E. E. Ross, Judge Godbee's pastor, read them.

CANADA TO SEND THAW BACK TO U. S. AUG. 27

Fugitive Quarrels With Lawyers and Storms in Cell as Battle Turns Against Him.

SHEPHERDSVILLE, QUEBEC, Aug. 23.—All indications today pointed to the belief that the real battle to keep Harry K. Thaw from being returned to the Matthews (N. C.) Asylum for the Criminal Insane finally will be fought out on United States soil.

David Reynolds, one of the two immigration inspectors detailed on the case by the Dominion Government, declared positively to-day that Thaw will be deported next Wednesday into New Hampshire or Vermont.

"Thaw has lost his case before he really began to fight," said Reynolds. "The future events are clear. If Thaw wins or loses on his habeas corpus proceedings he will be ejected from this country. The Department of Immigration at Ottawa has been advised in this matter by the Department of Justice."

Thaw now has retained ten lawyers and is negotiating with attorneys in New Hampshire and Vermont to conduct a fight there for him if he is sent over the line in one of his States.

INSURANCE MEN READY FOR FEAST

Southern States Company Agents Bring Annual Convention to Brilliant Close.

"Plans ready" was the word sent along Saturday morning to the members of the Anniversary Club of the Southern States Life Insurance Company who will banquet at the Hotel Ansley Saturday night.

Among the speakers at Saturday night's affair is Speaker W. H. Burwell, of the Georgia House of Representatives; Cyrus B. Brown, assistant to the Commissioner of Alabama; W. S. Witham, financier; Clark Howell, J. C. Walden, Jr., president of the Anniversary Club; J. R. Williams, of South Carolina, vice president and G. J. McDowell, of South Carolina.

The new officers were elected at the Friday morning session and will make their official debut with brief boasts Saturday night.

The second session of the annual convention Saturday morning was featured by a number of interesting papers, including one by Harvey W. Laird, assistant to President Moore, and former Insurance Commissioner of Alabama, on "The Company With a Good Name" and another by J. E. McLaughlin, of Atlanta, on "Systematic Following Up of Prospects."

Elkin Gets Rich Gift From Rexall Club. W. S. Elkin, Jr., one of Atlanta's leading druggists, was the recipient of a handsome check of silver Friday as a token of esteem from the Rexall Club of the United States. Mr. Elkin has served as president of the club.

The club has been in annual convention in Boston and the suggestion that Mr. Elkin be presented with the check of silver met with an enthusiastic approval.

French Flyer Plans Trip Across Sahara. Special Cable to The Atlanta Georgian. PARIS, Aug. 23.—Léonard Chagnon, of the aviation corps of the French army, is arranging to make a flight across the Sahara desert.

He plans to start from this city, travel the Mediterranean and parts of Africa.

Leaves Aged Wife He Beat Injured on Floor, Goes to Work

After attacking his wife, D. H. Kent, 64 years old, No. 41 Lindsay street, left her lying on the floor with her right arm broken above the elbow Saturday morning, and went to his work at the J. Kennedy Furniture Company, where he is employed as a collector. He was arrested there on $100 bond and his hearing set for next Friday before Judge Broyles.

The woman, who is 60 years old, was sent to the Grady Hospital by Policeman Anderson, who answered the call. Beside the broken arm, she is availing herself of the services of a nurse, who says her husband struck her.

Kent refused to talk about the trouble with his wife, except to say that the quarrel involved two sons of children and was of long duration.

Magid to Give Ad Men and Families a 'Cue' Louis H. Magid, head of the firm of Louis H. Magid, investment bankers, will give a luncheon to the members of the Atlanta Ad Men's Club and their wives, sisters and sweethearts at the Tabular Park, Saturday, August 30.

It is expected that the entire membership of the club will attend the feast. The party will leave from the Terminal Station at 6:30 a. m., and returning, will arrive in Atlanta about 8:15 p. m.

REMARKABLE SPEECHES BY FRANK DORSEY BOYISH DORSEY CASE

By JAMES B. NEVIN.

Luther Rosser perhaps never made a more impressive speech in all his long and distinguished career at the bar than he made on Friday when closing the argument for the defense in the Frank case...

It was not such a speech as might be termed a finished oration. It was not characterized by many of the tricks of eloquence so frequently employed. It was not polished, and it was not historically magnificent...

It carried a large measure of conviction, I think, to every man that heard it—Rosser believes Frank innocent, though all the world take issue with him...

As appealing as Mr. Rosser's address to the jury was, however, it was not one which moved the jury to forceful than Dorsey's—the closing argument for the State, and the last speech before the judge's charge...

TERRIBLE SCORING IS GIVEN FRANK; CROWD CHEERS PROSECUTOR

A white-hot philippic, the masterpiece of his career and one of the greatest ever heard in a criminal court in the South, was hurled by Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey directly at Leo M. Frank Saturday in the final plea of the State and held a packed courtroom tense and thrilled as the grim tragedy of Memorial Day was unfolded.

The Solicitor was at the height of his eloquence at 1:30 o'clock when court adjourned until Monday. He had been speaking over six hours. The case will probably go to the jury before Monday noon. The Solicitor was cheered again as he left the courthouse.

The Solicitor had been talking about six hours, including the time on Friday, when he turned to the Judge and asked for a recess, saying he was exhausted. Arnold conferred with Judge Roan and it was finally decided that the trial should be adjourned until Monday.

Mr. Dorsey analytically dissected the alibi defense put forward for Frank and cited from the prisoner's own statements to upset it. He pointed to similarities of expression in Conley's and Frank's assertions in upholding the truth of the negro's statements.

In an impassioned reference to the slain girl the Solicitor had many in the courtroom in tears. Mrs. Coleman, mother of Mary Phagan broke down completely, and Frank's wife wept silently. Says Frank Breaks Own Alibi.

Mr. Dorsey declared Frank's alibi was shattered at once by the fact that Frank told the police on April 28 he was at the factory at 1:10, while Helen Curran said she saw him at 1:10 at Whitehall and Alabama streets, and that Frank later changed his story to bolster up an alibi.

The Solicitor denounced Frank in the most violent terms as a "red-handed murderer" and a pervert who had plotted to lay the crime upon Conley. He charged that Frank planned to have Conley return to the factory and burn the body and would have had the detectives arrest Conley in the act. He asserted, furthermore:

"That the expression 'nothing startling has happened, it is too short since you left for anything startling to have happened' in Frank's letter to his uncle tended to show Frank's guilt;

"That the prisoner had been trying for weeks to get Mary Phagan's favorable attention and the tragedy was the result of her refusal;

"That the reference to the toilet in the death notes proved Frank dictated them because Conley always used the word 'done,' as the State says the crime was committed;

"Charges Notes Prove Frank's Guilt. That the use of the word 'did' in the death notes proved Frank dictated them because Conley always used the word 'done.' That wholesale perjury had been used by the defense in the effort to build a protesting wall around the prisoner.

Frank never flinched under the Solicitor's fiery attack. He seemed to be following his words closely but gave no sign of emotion.

The crowd in the courtroom was plainly with the Solicitor, although for the most part it preserved absolute decorum. One after another when Dorsey made a sally in a tilt with Arnold and Judge Roan threatened to have the courtroom cleared.

The greatest crowd of the trial was attracted for the final affray and a thousand men and women begged in vain for admittance to the courtroom. Occasionally Dorsey's voice could be heard in the street and there would be a murmur of applause. Dorsey's speech appears on page 2 and 3.

Charges Perjury in Plot to Defend Accused

THAW TO BE DEPORTED AUG. 27

Fugitive Quarrels With Lawyers and Storms in Cell as Battle Turns Against Him.

SPRINGFIELD, QUEBEC, Aug. 22. All indications to-day pointed to the belief that the real battle to keep Harry K. Thaw from being returned to the Matineau (N. Y.) Asylum for the Criminal Insane finally will be fought out on United States soil.

David Reynolds, one of the two immigration inspectors detailed on the case by the Dominion Government, declared yesterday that Thaw will be deported next Wednesday into New Hampshire or Vermont.

"Thaw has lost the case before he really began to fight," said Mr. Reynolds. "The future events are clear. If Thaw wins or loses on his habeas corpus proceedings he will be ejected from this country. The Department of Immigration at Ottawa has been advised in this matter by the Department of Justice."

Thaw now has retained ten lawyers and is negotiating with attorneys in New Hampshire and Vermont to open a fight there for him if he is sent over the line in one of those States.

Quarrels With Attorneys. The fugitive was in many frames of mind to-day. He had quarreled with W. L. Shurtleff and with J. N. Greenhalgh, two of his counselors. With his collar ruffled and hair flying wildly, Thaw stormed about his cell. He charged that the lawyers were not doing all in their power to help him.

The prisoner was telegraphed to William Blakeslee, District Attorney of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania (in which Pittsburg is located), asking that some official action be taken to protect him.

Under the Canadian law the immigration officials will take charge of Thaw as soon as he gets out of the custody of the Superior Court next week. A court of inquiry then will be held, and it then will be decided that Thaw is an undesirable alien citizen.

Thaw will be represented by counsel at this sitting of the court and will protest against deportation, demanding that the Government prove him insane. The Government expects to do this, but will allow no time to be wasted in the process. Papers have been received here from New York State by which the government's representatives hope to show Thaw a mental incompetent.

Canada then will have washed its hands of the case and the fight will be transferred to the United States.

Changes Mind Frequently. However, if Thaw determines to remain on this side of the border and fight his case to a finish, he might be able, through technicalities, to remain here indefinitely.

The fugitive has angered his lawyers by his erratic demands. At times he will demand his high-paid counsel, and then he will suddenly turn about and adopt an air of meekness. First, he will demand that a lawyer be appointed, and then will suddenly be exhausted so that the fight will be abandoned.

His mind a dozen times since he was placed in jail has been increased by the threats of his companion, "Pop" and "Bogie" Thompson, the New York chauffeur to "sneak" Thaw out of jail on the charge of aiding and abetting an undesirable alien to enter this country and demands that the three lawyers get bond for him.

"I am going back when I regain my health and again will lead the forces of militancy," Mrs. Pankhurst said.

Mrs. Pankhurst is living at the height of luxury here. Her suite in the hotel costs $20 a day.

REPORT AND IS SLAIN DENIED

Washington Wildly Excited by Rumor of Assassination of U. S. Envoy in Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A rumor from Mexico City that United States Envoy John Lind, sent by President Wilson to Mexico with peace proposals, had been assassinated in the streets of Mexico City this morning was emphatically branded as false by the White House.

The report came on a broker's private wire and for a time created wild excitement in the Capital. The State Department immediately got in communication with Mexico City and two hours later announced that there was no truth in the rumor.

That the United States has adopted a policy allowing the Federal troops in Mexico to receive practically unlimited supplies of arms and ammunition was indicated by Secretary of State Bryan to-day, when he confirmed the report that 40,000 rounds of ammunition had been allowed to cross the border at El Paso, Texas.

This shipment is the first installment of an order for 400,000 rounds of ammunition and 10,000 rifles filed by an American firm and which, it is understood, President Wilson has granted permission to be shipped across the border to President Huerta's forces.

Tobacco Warning Up. Secretary Bryan said to-day that he would not care to announce any definite policy with respect to shipment of arms and ammunition, but that such shipments would be allowed when the President deems it necessary for the preservation of law and order.

Consul Lestienne, at Frontera, reported to the State Department to-day that conditions in northern Tlaxcala are "extremely critical."

The Consul also reported serious disorders in Cardenas, where an attack was made on the Federal garrison by a large body of rebels.

Undisturbed by reports that Huerta may change his present attitude in Mexico by recalling his note of rejection of the Lind proposals, President Wilson to-day is assembling material for the message he will deliver in Congress next Tuesday.

Not to Alter Message. The president is not inclined to encourage the typical Huerta policy of changing front over night, and will not change the tenor of his message unless General Huerta formally and officially withdraws his objection and accepts the proposals sent to him.

President Wilson is watching the financial situation in Mexico and is in possession of definite information as to just how long General Huerta may be expected to maintain himself with his present resources.

There is no secret made of the fact that the administration believes the Huerta government will fall in the near future through lack of American recognition and that its flat rejection of the good offices of the United States is hastening its downfall.

clear the court if order were not preserved.

Mr. Dorsey's address was the masterpiece of his career. He had every feature of the complicated case at his finger tips and he analyzed, with the precision of a surgeon, the case of the defense.

He charged Frank with contradictions which he said utterly upset the attempted alibi. Thus, quoting from Frank's statement at the police station on April 28, he said the prisoner had declared he left the factory at 1:10 o'clock, while in his statement on the stand he said he left at 1 o'clock. The Solicitor charged that the time had been deliberately changed when the alibi was thought of.

He indirectly accused various of the defense's witnesses with perjury, intimating that the Montags had persuaded Helen Curran to swear that she saw Frank at Alabama and Whitehall streets at 1:10 o'clock.

The brilliance and dash of the Solicitor's opening had attracted the greatest crowd of the trial—a crowd unquestionably in sympathy with Mr. Dorsey.

Frank entered the courtroom as calm as usual, and took a seat between his wife and mother. He chatted with his wife a few moments before the trial opened, his hand affectionately on her shoulder. If he was in any way awed or dismayed by the ordeal confronting him, he did not show it.

BOLL WEEVIL COSTS SOUTH BILLION, ZONE CURE URGED

Senator Smith of South Carolina Secures Government Expert's Figures on Total Estimated Ravages During Last 17 Years.

Shows How $107,539,127 Yearly Cost of Proposed Remedy Could Be Contrasted by Diversified Crops and United States Aid.

By ELLISON D. SMITH, (United States Senator from South Carolina)

The boll weevil, which Senator Smith refers to as a remedy for the boll weevil, as proposed, would begin in Tennessee and run down through Alabama and part of Florida.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A few weeks ago I asked some of the officials in the Department of Agriculture to give me an estimate of the losses the farmers of the South have suffered as the result of the boll weevil. The figures furnished me are startling. From the report I make the following extract:

The only adequate way of arriving at the losses due to the boll weevil is by studying the average production per acre by States, comparing years of non-infestation with years of infestation. It is quite noticeable that every State in the United States which has shown a decided reduction in average yield per acre.

The average production is used in connection with the acreage planted to obtain an estimate in money value of the loss from the boll weevil to the producers. This is only the primary loss and is turned over and over again to the various processors, oil mill men, merchants, bankers, property values, manufacturers of the textile and the flour consumers.

The total loss to producers obtained by this method from 1895 to 1912 is $11,511,111,111. The average during the 18 years of 1895-1912 per annum, with the loss now reaching over $100,000,000 per annum.

These Only Obvious Losses. "Only the more obvious losses from the ravages of this pest can even be estimated. These are the losses in productivity suffered by the producers and the losses in business of the first processors in manufacturing.

Figures are presented to show the losses to the planter, the ginmer and the oil mill as follows: From 1895 to 1912: Loss to the planter $11,511,111,111 Loss to the ginmer $2,720,421 Total $14,231,532

To these must be added losses in business suffered by cotton buyers and brokers, merchants, bankers and cotton mills, the loss in property values, the ultimate effects upon the consumer.

In other words officials of the Department of Agriculture estimate that the loss to the South from the boll weevil between 1895 and 1912 has been considerably more than $100,000,000. This is staggering.

Tents Only Shelter For Toledo Families

City is Growing So Rapidly That Builders Can Not Construct Houses Demanded.

TOLEDO, Aug. 23.—Because the city has not enough houses to rent and build, it is not able to construct houses as rapidly as they are desired tents are being used as homes in Toledo.

The tent colonies have been established in the city. In both districts occupants of the tents are owners of lots on which the temporary houses have been erected. The lots have been purchased as home sites and tents are serving as temporary homes.

Woman Toper Has Thirst Amputated

Obstruction in Her Throat Was Believed Cause of Her Longing For Alcohol.

LEMA, OHIO, Aug. 23.—Mary Chapman, 22, submitted to a surgical operation in the Chief of Police's office today and it is hoped that her thirst was put out, literally and figuratively.

Several years ago she was shut in the jaw. A railroad horse lodged against her palate, creating a constriction of the throat. She became a teetotaler as she had tried grape juice in vain. Since that time Mary Chapman's drinking bouts have been the police's trouble time.

Chief Knight was consulted with City Physician Blair. Between them they decided on the operation.

Couple Will Re-Weed To Gain $1,000,000

Ceremony by Marmon Judge is Called Unsatifactory by Administrators of Estates.

LOW ANGELES, Aug. 23.—In order to comply with the wishes of the administrators of the $1,000,000 estate of her father, the late Thomas H. Lamb, of Edinger, Scotland, Mrs. Mary H. Lamb-Wilson must be married to her husband again.

The husband is E. Douglas Wilson, of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, of this city. He purchased Mrs. Lamb's estate for $1,000,000 across the United States and over the Pacific Ocean before he married her in Hamilton last April. The ceremony was performed by Judge Herndon, who Wilson says is a Mormon. This marriage, though legal, did not meet with the approval of the administrators.

College Professor Seeks Laborer's Pay

Unable to Make Both Ends Meet, Teacher Resigns Chair in University.

BERKELEY, CAL., Aug. 23.—Unable to make both ends meet on a salary of $300 paid him by the University of California, Paul Boehnke, an instructor in the German department, has withdrawn from the faculty and is seeking a position in which he can support himself and family of two children.

During the last few summers Boehnke has managed to augment his meager salary by working as a plasterer at from $1 to $7 a day, or nearly twice the amount he was paid by the university.

Rector Denounces Paid Choir Singers

Clergyman Declares There is No Worship in Their Strange and Unutterable Music.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., Aug. 23.—The Rev. E. J. Craft, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, caused a sensation when addressing a meeting of the parishes of Calvary parish by telling them what he would do if he were entering upon a new pastorate.

For one thing, he said, he did not believe in paid singers for church choirs. "The service of the church was designed for the people as a whole and not alone for the choir," he said. "These modern choirs take the worship away from the people of the congregation and do all the worshipping themselves. They sing in wild and strange ways and in a terrible tongue the praise of God."

Beri Beri Caused by Rice Diet, Says Expert

Special Cause to The American.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The Berlin Medical Association reports that the well-known investigator of beri beri, Dr. Max Moskowitz, finds after a remarkable experiment, that the disease is caused by the use of rice.

Dr. Moskowitz for 123 days submitted himself entirely upon rice. All the symptoms of beri beri manifested themselves. The doctor of the National Diet and Food Commission, Dr. H. H. Hildebrandt, divided a group of 25 white rats into two groups and one of the groups was fed upon rice and the other upon wheat. The rats fed upon rice died within a few days.

Evelyn Thaw Gets Threatening Telegram Signed 'H. K. T.' 'Take My Name Off the Signs at Once,' Is His Command

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw in two poses made especially on Tuesday for the Hearst newspapers.

"He Shall Never Have That Baby," Declares the Actress, Aroused and Angry, but Fearing for Her Life.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 18. I want you to have that same taken off the theater at once. You realize your mistake.

Such was the threatening telegram which was handed to Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, Harry Thaw's wife, in New York Monday. Her eyes blazed as she read it. Of course, "that name" meant plainly the theater, that blazes nightly on the theater when Mrs. Thaw is dancing.

Wounded by the heat, irritated, Mrs. Thaw's nervousness increased after reading the message.

"I can not doubt that Harry Thaw sent this," she said. "It is exactly like him. Never have I received a telegram from him which was not signed like this, with his initials. Probably he sent it by the same messenger who mailed his letter to his mother."

She Gets a Valid Warning.

"The words 'You realize your mistake,' is like him, a veiled warning of something worse to come. Or if any body but Harry Thaw sent this telegram to alarm me now, he must know Mr. Thaw very well indeed. He knows Harry hates me now. Why? You ask. I don't know. It can be only another symptom of his insanity."

"Merciful heavens! What I went through for him when he was tried for his life. Yet he showed not a spark of gratitude. He did not seem to realize what I had done for him. Why, I am a matter of course. Why, his very letter to his mother is another proof of his big head."

Policewoman Uses Her Stare as Club

Declares She Has No Trouble With Mischief After One Stern Glare.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Eugene the masher with a look. You don't need a whistle like the Boston women; helping do not make good weapons, and a club should be used only in a tight situation.

This is the opinion of two of Chicago's policewomen, both long in the business of protecting women.

Autoist is Run Over by His Own Machine

JOLIET, ILL., Aug. 23.—Because he cranked his automobile while it was in gear, Harry Lewis, a Joliet banker, was run over and badly injured. Lewis was in a hurry to take some friends to the Union station and neglected to inspect his gears. The machine would not start the first few whirrs of the crank, so he opened the throttle wider, one of the friends put on the exhalator to help matters, and now Lewis has been two weeks in the hospital.

What have the alienists called it—'epidemic,' 'megalomania,' 'Wife Criticism Letter.'

"He writes 'I might be asked for interviews and do not wish to refuse. Yet do not care to make a statement. I—I, the most important person on earth.'"

"That if Mr. Thaw has any purpose to attack, how could he get into New York without being caught?" asked The American reporter.

"Harry is a great make-up artist," Mrs. Thaw answered. "I have seen him in disguises that would baffle his most intimate friends unless they got a look at that stare of his eyes. They are absolutely expressionless except when he is making a grimace. He is of a height, coloring and bearing that would make it easy for him to wear any sort of make-up without arousing suspicion."

Calla Mother His Top.

"It would be possible for Harry to get into the Victoria Theater," she said. "And the shot he feels would complete his mission in life. H. K. T. is a good shot, too."

"This getaway was not an accident. It was skillfully planned and will be carried out to the very last fringe edge of experience if I do anything about that unmade, and God knows I ought to."

ENDLESS SNAIL OF BARBARIAN FROM THE FUTURE

Fugitive From Mattawan, Backed by Family's Millions, Will Utilize Every Legal Technicality to Prevent Deportation From Canada.

Even if Dominion Expels Him, He Will Fight Desperately Against Return to Empire State, Where He Has Been Declared Insane.

Probability of Long-Continued Litigation and Ultimate Liberty Counted on by Millionaire Before Starting Dash from Asylum.

MONTREAL, QUEBEC, AUGUST 23. (By Harry Thaw's case now in the courts of Canada, the prediction made that it would be months—years, perhaps—before he would be deported from Canada now is again in the jurisdiction of New York State is strengthened.)

His family wealthy and powerful has pushed to his defense. He has obtained permission to visit the United States to see his mother in Canada. When the first writ of habeas corpus was granted, it gave him the right to appeal his case to the highest Canadian court.

It is believed that this litigation can be made to last for years. It will be impossible to force him back to the Dominion for he is a fugitive only to New York State. His status now is that he is simply considered a lunatic by the Dominion. He is a fugitive from the Dominion of Canada. He is a fugitive from the Dominion of Canada.

Should the courts of Canada finally rule against him, his case might be taken up from Washington. Even then he would be finally deported. He would be sent to any other State than New York, he could not attract attention there and there are many eminent lawyers who believe that it is absolutely impossible to bring him back into New York State.

Probably Considered These Facts. He knows things probably had been considered when Thaw escaped from Mattawan Asylum. When he dashed across the Connecticut border, then through the State into New Hampshire and from New Hampshire into the Dominion of Canada.

Thaw knows well the law's delay. He remembers his long period in the Tombs before he was first brought to trial for the slaying of White. He remembers the long fight for his liberty then. He remembers the several times after the first trial. He remembers the weary days of his second hearing.

He remembers the slow progress of his case during his legal efforts to get his release from Mattawan. Knowing these things and recognizing that there was hardly a bare possibility that he would be sent to a penitentiary, he was a fugitive from the Dominion of Canada.

It was probably due to this realization that he accepted his arrest at Conitook, Quebec, only after he had issued the issue of his habeas corpus proceedings. He has a costly lawyer.

Securely Told Lawyers. He is represented in his application for habeas corpus proceedings by J. S. Shurtiff and Colonel H. R. Frazer, one of the most talented lawyers in Canada. He is thoroughly buoyed up in the belief that the Canadian Government will never order his deportation or extradition.

"I have studied every legal phase of my case and have arrived at the belief that I am safe here," said Thaw. "My plans did not alone include my physical escape. I looked into the legal features to establish my status in any other State than New York and any other country than the United States. I am not a dangerous man, I am not a dangerous man, I am not a dangerous man."
